The board of public lands and buildtherefore has never earned any part of ings, of which Glenn Kendall is chairtory address at the formal opening of the land. The committee considers the man, is charged with having leased over Iowa's new state capitol yesterday. It transfer by the Texas Pacific of all its 400,000 acres of school lands to a syndicate, and 40,000 acres to one man. This is nothing but a gigantic speculation, which is an outrage upon the people, in more ways than one. Actual settlers who now want to secure farms cannot obtain them except by paying a handsome profit to the syndicate. It is charged also that these lands have been leased to the syndicate at lower rates than were bid by the settlers. The Lincoln Journal, the deand it then went on and occupied the fender of all such jobbery, inadvertently says that "speculation in these leases is going on actively, and the land is passing into the hands of settlers and small owners quite as rapidly as while they were exclusively in the hands of the board. Indeed more so, as considerable individual energy and push is brought to bear upon the disposal of them.'

True enough, for these lands are de sirable, and are in demand for actual settlement. The speculators were aware of this fact, and knew that by getting control of them they would have no trouble of disposing of them, by subletting, at a big profit. Of course the speculators will exert themselves to turn these lands over to sub-lessees and thus pocket the plunder as soon as possible. The Journal assures the public that there is no danger o existing leases being disturbed.

This is, indeed, comforting to the speculators. "If the law is determined to be invalid," says the Journal, "as a visions for the lease of lands are identical with those of the act now in controversy, and there can be no disturbing efthat acquired from the land commissions subject is entirely unnecessary."

The question naturally arises, has Glenn Kendall, the land commissioner, thus generously treated the land specula-
