—Hose cart No. 2 has been repaired and No. 3 has been returned to the Sixteenth street engine house.

—Some little snide papers read their proofs the day after the matter is published. This is enterprise in journalism.

—The marshal has filed complaints against all persons who have pumps or hydrants upon the sidewalks in front of their property.

—In police court yesterday there were two cases for intoxication. One was fined $10 and costs, which he paid, and the other case was continued.

—The Omaha Turn society held their tenth anniversary banquet in the German hall, corner of Thirtieth and Harney streets, on Saturday, January 20.

—Mr. Jacob Madsen is the happy father of a ten pound boy who arrived at his residence, 2103 Chicago street the 19th inst. Both mother and son are doing well.

—At least twenty loads of hay were standing at the corner of Howard and Fourteenth streets at dark last evening. The price asked for wild hay was eight dollars per ton, and no less if they had to haul it back home.

—"Whiskey Jack" was sentenced yesterday afternoon to thirty days in the county jail on bread and water for abusing his family. He ought to have had his months in a restaurant with a muzzle on. He is a worthless vagabond and of no use to himself or any one else.

—Woodruff states that the box which was standing in front of his place yesterday afternoon and which frightened the horse of Mr. O'Neill had just been placed upon the walk for the reception of an organ which was to be shipped, and that it had been there but a very short time.

—On Monday night a farmer was killed at Grand Island being run over by the cars. It was already dark and he thought that he had time to cross the track before the arrival of the train. His team and wagon were thrown clear of the track while he was crushed to death beneath the wheels.

—The J. M. Thurston hose company are already making arrangements for a grand ball to be given in Crouse's hall on the evening of February 14. On that occasion the company will be presented with an elegant silk banner, being the gift of Mrs. J. M. Thurston, and coming as it does from so estimable a lady, the boys will value it all the more highly.

—A man was picked up about 11:30 last night by Officer Turabill, at the corner of Twelfth and Douglas streets. He was dead drunk, and was lying on the ground in an insensible condition. A hack was called and he was taken to the jail, where it was found that he had between $70 and $80 in money and a fine gold watch and chain. Omaha whiskey was a little to rich for his blood.

—Wm. Genteman is rebuilding his block opposite Jefferson square, which was destroyed by fire, and will enlarge it. He proposes to erect a two-story frame building, having sixty feet front on Sixteenth street, and to finish it, if the weather is favorable, within forty days. His grocery and crockery store will be contained in the building, but divided by a brick fire wall.

—There will be a meeting of the Missouri Valley Merchants' association at Kansas City, on Wednesday, January 23d. The meeting will be called to order at 2:30 p. m., at the Blossom house. This association embraces in its membership the wholesale merchants in every line of business of Kansas City, Leavenworth, Atchison, St. Joseph, Omaha and Lincoln. The last meeting was held at St. Joseph on the 25th of last October. D. M. Steele, of St. Joseph, Mo., is president of the association.

—A successful operation resulting in the removal of an intra uterine tumor of forty-one years' standing, was performed Saturday at 11 a. m., in North Omaha, by Dr. P. Grossman. The patient was suffering for four years previous with intense pains accompanied at times by alarming hemorrhages, so that she finally concluded to yield to the skillful hands of her physician, Dr. Grossman. The lady objecting to being placed under the influence of chloroform, the operation was performed without the use of anaesthetics, which relieves greatly to credit of the patient who stood the operation heroically.

—About four o'clock yesterday a crazy woman by the name of Christine Nelson, from Blair, was found hanging around the depot by a block watchman, and he brought her to the city jail. About six o'clock Tom Pieronnet happened in at the jail, and Ed. Gorman asked him to help take the woman up to the county jail. So Tom says he "coupled in" ahead and Gorman "coupled in" behind, and they started up the hill. The woman got about half way when she refused to go any farther, and it required the strength of both the men to land her safely within the walls. Pieronnet says he would rather pull a freight train up the Summit than to take that woman up the hill again.

—Mr. C. Neill of Madison, who has just recovered a judgment of $5,000 in the United States district court at Lincoln against the Underwriters fire insurance company for loss sustained July 20, 1882, is in the city, home-bound. The case was one of the most important ever tried in this state. The attorneys for plaintiff were W. M. Robertson of Madison, and George Prichett of Omaha. The attorneys for the defense were John M. Thurston and J. M. Woolworth of Omaha. After the trial was over Judge Dundy declared that some of the witnesses had testified falsely and were proper subjects for grand jury discipline. The plaintiff claims to have discovered a conspiracy through a party that overheard the drilling of witnesses.

A FATAL WALK.

A German Girl Sixteen Years Old Killed by a Train Last Night.

She Became Confused and Stepped from in Front of One Train Directly in Front of Another.—The Inquest.

A very sad accident occurred last night just at the west end of the Omaha stock yards, which resulted in the death of a German girl named Mary Lewerjahn.

This death is particularly sad on account of the youth of the deceased, and also on account of the sudden and fearful manner in which she was killed. It was about 6:20 p. m., and the Missouri Pacific Train No. 32 was just coming down the Summit hill. Freight train No. 7, of the Union Pacific, was just pulling out, when this young woman was on her way to her home, near Quayley's soap factory. She was walking along the track in front of the Union Pacific train, and as it drew near to her she stepped from that track over onto the track on which the Missouri passenger train was approaching. She evidently did not notice the approaching train until it was nearly upon her, when she was paralyzed with fear, and stood in a crouching position awaiting her fate.

The engineer sighted her when he was about eighty feet from her. He immediately applied his air brakes, blew his whistle and then reversed his engine. He said that he then looked out of his window and girl was near the rail, in a crouching position, with her hands thrown up and her face, which was looking up at the engine as it approached her, was as white as snow. He did not see the engine when it struck her, but as soon as the train was stopped he ran back and found her lying beside the track, face down. He turned her over and she breathed once and was dead. A brakeman and the train boy were left in charge of the corpse, while the train was pulled into this city.

The coroner and undertaker were notified, and a special train was run back after the remains. They were put in a coffin and taken to the undertaking rooms of Drexel & Maul.

As she lay in her coffin it was a pitiful sight. She was a beautiful girl and it seemed as if death had even added to her appearance. Her face was as white as marble, her features perfectly moulded, and her brown hair stood out in bold relief upon her marble brow. She was neatly dressed in black and her clothing was scarcely disarranged, but in the back part of her head was a little hole which told the tale.

The coroner immediately impaled a jury and proceeded to hold an inquest. The train men were examined, and all testified in accordance with the above facts. J. F. Cavanaugh, the engineer, thought he was not running faster than eight miles an hour when he first discovered her. He did everything in his power to stop the train, but it was impossible. He thought that the end of the pilot must have struck her upon the head and thrown her clear from the track, as she was not mangled in any way.

E. H. Gearman, the fireman, said that he heard the whistle and looked out of the window, and saw a white scared face looking up into his. He immediately looked away, and did not see the engine when it struck her.

Her brother was present at the inquest, and stated that the deceased had been at work at the Occidental hotel until recently. That she left home about 10 o'clock yesterday morning to come to the city in search of work, and that she had not been seen since.

Her home was only about three blocks distant from the place where she was killed, and had she been permitted to walk sixty feet farther she would have reached the crossing, when she would have left the crossing to go to her home.

A COLLISION.

A Runaway Horse on Fifteenth Street Collided With a Passing Carriage.

About two o'clock yesterday afternoon, a serious collision occurred on Fifteenth street.

An organ box was standing on the sidewalk in front of Woodbridge Bros' music house, in opera house block. Just as Eugene O'Neill drove up to the sidewalk at that point the box was in some way overturned, frightening his horse which dashed out into the street. One of his buggy wheels came in contact with the car track, tipping the vehicle in such a manner as to precipitate Mr. O'Neill to the ground. He struck upon his head and received a severe scalp wound which was treated by Dr. P. Grossman. The horse now being free he dashed down the street until in front of the post-office when he came in contact with a vehicle which was seated Mr. Mittaur. The collision overturned Mr. Mittaur's buggy and threw him upon the ground between the horses, but luckily he was not injured seriously.

He was covered with mud, his clothing torn, and his buggy was smashed to fragments. The buggy of Mr. O'Neill was not injured. This serious mishap was all occasioned by an empty box being left upon the sidewalk where it had no business to be, and it was also in direct violation of a city ordinance governing such things.

A Missing Man. Mat Frei, a young Bohemian, is missing since last Thursday night. At that time he attended a dance at Kasper's hall, and about 3 o'clock in the morning escorted his girl to Council Bluffs over the ice. After seeing the girl home, he started on his way back to Omaha over the ice, but has not turned up yet. It is not known that he had contemplated leaving the city, and the only way to explain his absence is, that returning over the ice, he got into some place where the ice was cut away, and was drowned. He was a single man, about 24 years old, without relatives in this country, and boarded at Honza's boarding house.

A Big Scheme. Mr. Thomas Swobe received a telegram from Messrs. Paxton, McShane and Iler, yesterday, stating that they had concluded negotiations with Boston capitalists for the building of a huge slaughter house here in connection with the South Omaha stock yards. Mr. Swobe, who is one of the stock holders in the stock-yard scheme, says that the Boston gentlemen are owners of a line of refrigerator cars now running to Chicago, which they are anxious to send as far west as Omaha, provided they can secure the necessary shipments of dressed beef. This they propose to do by joining with the South Omaha syndicate, and erecting the buildings, etc., each party standing on equal terms. This slaughter house scheme is understood to be distinct from the one for which Mr. Schaller is working to secure English capital, and in which he has met with success sufficient to warrant him in asserting that the project will assume definite and tangible shape within a few weeks.

QUACKS ARRESTED.

Two Fellows Calling Themselves Doctors Arrested Yesterday Morning.

A Tennessee Sheriff Wants Them for Obtaining Money Under False Pretense—They are Now in Jail.

On the 10th of this month, three fellows arrived in this city, and registered at the Metropolitan hotel as L. Powell, W. Williams and W. B. Kelly, all of Cincinnati. The two first named claimed to be doctors of marvellous knowledge, and carried healing in their every word and act, while the latter one was simply a helper, or a sort of a roper.

They at once flooded the city with hand bills stating that Dr. Williams, the great specialist of cancer, piles, and in fact all the ills of which flesh is heir, and Dr. Reeves, the cure-all for every disease arising from indigestion and exposure. They advertised "no cure, no pay," and were anticipating a large and profitable practice, when a cloud, in the shape of a Tennessee sheriff, came over the bright vision of their dreams, and they were gobbled up and placed behind the bars in the Douglas county jail.

These same fellows, whose right names are L. Keeses and L. C. Turner have traveled all through Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, and parts of Nebraska, and in nearly every town in which they have stopped they have traced the hotel register with a retentive memory, and have duped the people out of more or less money wherever they have gone. They know no more about doctoring than a hog knows about war, and yet they have experienced no difficulty in roping in "suckers" enough to keep themselves in spending money.

In Tennessee they swindled various parties out of money and they were arrested in Nashville but were discharged upon the recommendation of the attorney general. They immediately skipped to Little Rock, Arkansas. After they were gone it was found that they had got away with a good deal more money than had been expected.

The people of Montgomery county, where they had worked with considerable success, sent Sheriff W. D. Cannon, of Memphis, after the fellows, with instructions to bring them back. He traced them from place to place until he run them down in this city.

He visited Sheriff Miller and they together started out to ascertain where the beasts had their printing done. Just as they were leaving Cotter's office they spied one of the fellows across the street and immediately took him in tow. They took him to the city jail, and visited the telegraph office, and just as they came out of that place onto the sidewalk, the other one of the pair came across the street.

They picked him up and took them both to the county jail, where they will remain until the necessary papers are obtained, when they will be taken back to Tennessee.

They are a hard pair, and no mistake. They have made several ineffectual attempts to obtain money since their advent in this city. They have claimed that they were expecting a large amount of money, and also that they had a very valuable trotting horse on the way to this place.

The probabilities are that they will be given a term of years in the penitentiary where they will learn some trade other than doctoring.

JESSE McCARTY. The Murderer of John Bradford is Brought to Omaha for Safe Keeping.

Last evening's train from the west brought to this city Jesse McCarty, the man who killed John Bradford with an ax near Papillion Monday.

The excitement is running high in Papillion, and there was strong talk of lynching McCarty, and it was thought best to bring him to this city for safe keeping until the time of his preliminary examination.

His examination, which was to have taken place yesterday, was postponed until to-morrow.

He did not arrive in this city until quite a late hour last evening, and was not seen by reporters.

A. D. Brainard, of the Allion Argus, is at the Paxton.
