

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Monday Morning, March 3.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: By Carrier 30 cents per week; By Mail $10.00 per Year.

OFFICE: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

Additional local on seventh page. The Chautauque club meets this evening.

New spring goods just received at J. Reiter's, the tailor, 310 Broadway.

New goods arriving daily at the carpet store of Casady, Orcutt & French.

Father Clark, of Red Oak, has been appointed successor to Father Ryan, who died recently at Shenandoah.

If the city want a rattling good advertising agent, Vaughn is the man. If they want a good mayor, Flickinger will do.

There were 61 arrests by the police during February, of which 19 were drunks, 9 disturbing the peace, 7 trespass, and the rest for various offenses.

Secretary Curtis has hit a good plan by devoting the noon meeting of the Y. M. C. A., every Saturday, to the consideration of the Sunday school lesson for the next day.

Alexander Sullivan, president of the Irish National League, is to speak at the opera house next Thursday evening and steps will be taken to form a branch league here.

The Bachelors club had a merry time at the institution for the deaf and dumb last Friday evening. Soap bubble blowing and a candy pull were among the amusing features of the evening.

A special attempt was made yesterday at the Broadway Methodist church to raise a deficiency of about $150, there having been extra expenses during the revival meetings. A goodly portion of it was raised.

All Odd Fellows are invited to attend the ball to be given by Hawkeye Lodge at Bloom & Nixon's hall next Thursday evening, but outsiders will be expected on invitation only. The affair promises to be an unusually enjoyable one.

Vaughn says he has no criticisms to make on the present city administration. That was a bad slip of the tongue. If, as it would appear from this, he endorses the present administration, then there is the hope for change for the better.

Burglars were detected at Shenandoah the other night boring through the rear door of a store. The burglars opened fire, sending a bullet through the coat sleeve of one of the officers, who returned the compliment, but the burglars made good their escape.

If Pettibone can be elected alderman at large, and then secure the position of purchasing agent for the city at $250 a month additional salary, and keep the position of purchasing agent for the school board, he will be a good deal of a monopolist of the buying business.

It is now stated that J. M. Palmer has concluded to withdraw as independent candidate for alderman in the First ward. This leaves McGargar a pretty good show for being elected. He has the making of an excellent alderman, having enterprises coupled with integrity.

N. C. Phillips will get more votes than many expect, and may get in. Many object to Pettibone on account of his previous record, and others find fault with Siedentopf because of his being in a council which gave away Union avenue.

The struggle for alderman at large, therefore, looks mixed. Officers Quack and Nicholson have been laid off the force by Chief Field. It is to be hoped that when the new administration comes into power, there will be a thorough change and a strengthening and cleaning up of the police force.

It has been so inefficient for the past year that the public is ready for a great change. Under the present charter the mayor has no vote in the council, and hence no voice in its proceedings. It behooves the people then not to be carried away with the idea that the mayor can do everything. They should see to it mainly that good men are chosen as aldermen.

The mayor's office is mainly important because he is chief of police, and a man should be chosen who will act in the interests of morality. No one claims for a moment that A. T. Flickinger, the republican candidate for mayor, can be successfully attacked on his record or his character. He is conceded to have a clear head and clean hands, free from cliques or rings, plenty of grit, and as such would make a good chief of police. That is about what the office of mayor amounts to now, as the mayor does not have a vote in making any improvements. Enterprising aldermen to devise and a clean mayor to execute is what Council Bluffs needs.

Some are trying to make a stir about Testevin holding two offices. The fact is that he is city engineer and county surveyor. Those who have held the office of city engineer before have been deputized as county surveyors, there being little work in the latter office, and the two offices going together very suitably. As to the candidate on the other ticket he holds one office and an important one now. So the claim, if pressed, works harder against the other candidate than against Mr. Testevin.

RAH FOR VAUGHN. The Gathering at the Court House Saturday Night.

Some of the ridiculous Events of the Evening.

The court house was well filled with citizens Saturday night, some drawn from an enthusiasm over Vaughn, and many out of curiosity. All shades of political faith were there but it was generally recognized as a Vaughn meeting and so conducted. John Ahles called to order after Vaughn had appeared with his band and the music had ceased. Mr. Ahles thought that Vaughn ought to be chairman, and accordingly nominated him as such. John Jay Franey, thinking that there ought to be some editorial wreath surrounding the name of W. R. Vaughn, amended Mr. Ahles' motion by putting the motion thus, "I move you sir, that the Carter Harrison, of the Missouri slope, take the chair. All in favor say aye." It was carried with due enthusiasm, but Ahles not recognizing W. R. Vaughn under so lofty a title as "the Carter Harrison of the Missouri slope," called out for Mr. Harrison to come forward and take the chair, and no one responding, innocently asked if Mr. Harrison was in the house. It was explained to him that this was intended as a complimentary title for Vaughn and that gentleman then took the chair. As he had arranged to make a speech, Mr. Vaughn concluded that it would be more fitting while he talked to have some one else preside, and so on his motion Mr. Hendricks was called to that position.

Having thus got settled down, Vaughn spoke for about an hour. It was in the main the same speech that he made two years ago when running for mayor. He told how he had advertised Council Bluffs and how he had pushed improvements. This was the burden of the speech, and he touched very lightly on the moral reform of the city. He said he did not care to criticize the administration of the past year. On the question of filling up the streets at the expense of private property owners he did not commit himself. In fact he dodged this and some other matters rather shrewdly, but spoke earnestly in favor of improvement in the city and advertising outside of the city.

Then Mr. Hendricks was called on for a speech. It seemed to be his allotted duty to give other candidates on the democratic ticket complimentary notices. He either forgot to say anything about Holmes, for city attorney, and Pettibone, as alderman at large, or else did not care to, and in regard to Broadbeck, as city engineer, he objected to him because he held one fat office already. Mr. John Jay Franey was then called on. He stepped his foot into it, too. He pronounced Vaughn's speech as avowing of egotism, and that there were other good men on the ticket. He, too, made a review of them, and avoided saying anything about Holmes or Pettibone. He urged the workingmen not to endorse any particular candidates on either ticket, and not to frame a new ticket, but for each man to make up a ticket to suit himself. He also urged men not to sell their votes.

Vaughn then gave Holmes and Pettibone a little soothing syrup. He called attention to the fact that no allusion had been made to them. It was, of course, an oversight, and Franey at once jumped up and explained that it was certainly so on his part. Vaughn paid Holmes the highest sort of a compliment, and also complimented Pettibone, and put in a few good words for N. C. Phillips, the independent candidate for alderman at large.

Then John Ahles was called out with great applause. He explained that he did not think the workingmen had strength enough to nominate a ticket as originally intended. He urged them to vote independently, but pronounced the republican ticket a "board of trade ticket" and against the interests of labor, and remarked: "If you vote that ticket, you are damned miserable curs." He did not believe they would sell their votes unless it became a necessity, when they were drunk, and warned them not to do so. He called attention to the fact that Vaughn had not said he would endorse the fourth plank of the workingmen's platform against letting work by contract and had also avoided saying anything about the fifth plank, which was in regard to a more just equalization of taxes. He would not call him to account on these, however. He denounced the giving away or stealing away of Union avenue by the Union Pacific and frankly owned up that it was done by the democratic council, whose administration Vaughn said he would not criticize. Mr. Ahles wanted Major George Richmond to run for city engineer and moved that he be nominated. That gentleman was called for, but declined the honor, saying he was a republican and would not forsake that party. The motion was then withdrawn.

There were some good things said in the course of the meeting. The neglect of the present council to do anything to Indian creek, the giving away of Union avenue to the Union Pacific, the reckless way of filling up streets without first settling who is liable for the pay and other causes of complaint which The Bee has shown up fully from time to time, were well hit upon. The attempts to attack Mr. Flickinger were very weak. Although the meeting combined enthusiasm with much amusement, and proved quite an enjoyable free entertainment.

For Alderman At Large. At the request of many citizens I hereby announce myself as independent candidate for the office of Alderman-at-Large. NATHAN C. PHILLIPS.

Laid at Rest. On Saturday morning the funeral services of R. S. Cole were held at the family residence, and were very largely attended by sorrowing friends and sympathizing citizens. The services were peculiarly tender and appropriate. Rev. Mr. Bates, of the Presbyterian church, read well chosen passages of scripture. Rev. Mr. Hamlin, of the Congregational church, offered prayer. Rev. Mr. Harris, of the Omaha Baptist church, made some very appropriate remarks, and another prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Parsons. Hymns were sung by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. Hanchett and Messrs. and Berger Fitch, with Miss Berger as accompanist. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, among them being a harp of cut flowers, a tribute from the ladies of the Bethel society. Among the touching details of the arrangements was the picture of the aged mother of Mr. Cole, which was placed by the casket, and Rev. Mr. Hamlin very feelingly alluded to her necessary absence. The emblems of mourning attached to the large easy chair in which Deacon Cole was wont to sit also spoke silently and tenderly, yet impressively, of this broken link in the family circle. Many friends followed the casket as it was borne to the cemetery, where the remains were laid away in a vault, the Odd Fellows, of which order he was a member, conducting the services at the grounds.

A Boston contemporary says, that the maker of the Hardman piano is a Hardman to boot—a bottom fact. J. Mueller sells them.

Hardman on the Raise. NEW YORK, January 24, 1884. J. Mueller, Council Bluffs, Iowa:

DEAR SIR:—Copy of THE BEE received. Thanks. The letter from Mellor, Hoene & Hendricks shows the position taken for the Hardman pianos by nearly all our agents now. Messrs. Dutton & Son, in Philadelphia, and White, Smith & Co., in Boston, have demonstrated what could be done in those cities, while you yourself have had no mean success with our pianos, and we have yet to hear of any single dealer who has not had the very best success with them. We appreciate your efforts for the pianos, and trust you are doing all in your power to put it in the front rank, where it belongs, and that your efforts are devoted to that end. With very kindest regards, we are, dear sir, very sincerely yours, HARDMAN, DOWLING & PECK.

E. G. Glen and J. Tracy, two boys, were arrested Saturday night by Officer Mullen for disturbing the peace. It is said that the row started by some one calling Vesey a dude and he wouldn't stand it.

Messrs. Chapman & Martens, of the skating rink, have offered an elegant prize to the most graceful lady skater. It is a gold watch, to hold it permanently the winner must be awarded it in three contests. The first contest is to be tomorrow evening.

The Knights of Pythias will be interested in hearing that arrangements are made so that those desiring to attend the next session of the Supreme Lodge of the world, to be held in New Orleans April 22, can do so at very little expense, the fare for the round trip from various points in Iowa being only $15, the ticket good for ninety days.

The other day Marshal Jackson filed complaints against delinquent saloon keepers, and all of the warrants have been served except one or two. Thus far but one of the cases has been disposed of, and the delinquent was allowed to get off without paying the license, the city attorney dismissing the case.
