EMMET'S ANNIVERSARY.

The One Hundred and Sixth Anniversary of the Death of Robert Emmet

Celebrated Last Night at the Opera House by the Emmet Monument Association of This City.

For weeks the anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet has been the theme of conversation among the members of the Emmet Monument association, and it has not been talk alone, as the programme of last evening at the opera house will fully testify.

Long before the hour appointed for the opening of the exercises the opera house was well filled with the members and friends of the association, and such an audience as was gathered together would have made the heart of Robert Emmet himself leap with joy.

The programme was opened by a pot pourri of Irish airs by the ancient order of Hibernian band. Col. R. C. S. Burke then made a short address, announcing the nature of the meeting, after which he introduced the Omaha Glee club, which sang that good old song dear to the heart of every true American, "The Star Spangled Banner." It is needless to say that it was well rendered at the hands of these competent vocalists. At the close they were loudly applauded, but the length of the programme would be found. About two months ago a renot permit of another selection.

Miss Stacia Crowley was then introduced and recited an original poem entitled, "Robert Emmet." Miss Crowley night was, as her contributions always Miss Ida Gibson was announced, and sang with very pleasing effect "My Ervin

Hon. Alexander Sullivan, president of the National Irish League, was next introduced, and stepped forth amid a storm of applause. He began by relating the story of the life of Robert Emmet. He gave a vivid description of Emmet's career, his hardships and his trials, his successes and his failures, and paid a most touching tribute to his memory. He then spoke of the duty which America owes to the Irish cause. He says Ireland's wrong is an American question. Every year while Ireland is kept in bondage millions of dollars will be sent from this country to Ireland to sustain the weak and oppressed, and thereby pay an indirect revenue to the British crown. Hence it is to the interest of America, as a country, to help free Ireland from the said Irishmen had always been ready to defend America, from the time of Jack Berry down to the present day, when Gen. Phil. Sheridan has charge of the Gen. Phil. Sheridan has charge of the troops. He said that no people in the world were so closely banded together as the Irishmen. He said the little Orange faction represented no religious creed, but he worships or where he worships, but whether or not he can stand at the altar of Ireland and swear allegiance to the cause of Ireland. England has our code of laws to exhibit to the public and another one to enforce upon them. He spoke of the trial of O'Donnell, and tated in broad terms of the packed jury and the unfair manner in which he was tried, convicted and executed. He says that to-day men in England and Ireland are tried by juries who would hang them without testimony if it was so designed by the authority. When he spoke 40.3 of of the bruta. butchery of Ellen McDondough his eyes flashed fire and he 224 spoke in strong terms of condemnation.

He spoke of the good work of the Land league and the incarceration of the leaders. He good work done by him. He spoke of Ireland's future and painted a bright picture of the land which is now so op-

This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Katie Murphy, who entertained the audience with a selection of Irish airs composed by M. W. Balfe. Mr. Walter Wilkins next sang. Balfe's "Killaray". The average of the same control of the s next sang Balfe's "Killarey." The song was rendered in a manner very accept able to the audience as was attested by the loud applause which followed each pretty and sweet manner "Kathleen Mavourneen," followed by a piano solo, entitled "Gra Machree" and "Rosy O'More," by Mias Maggte Swift.

Colonel Michel Boland, of Denver, was introduced, and made a few brilliant remarks. Owing to the lateness of the hour ne only spoke a few minutes. It is to be regretted that a synopsis of his oration cannot be given at this time.

His remarks were very bright and witty, and he said, that if the Democra tic party were to come into power he had no doubt that Ireland would be one of the states of the Union. He said he had prepared a very good speech, but he had loaned it to Mr. Sullivan who had delivered it this evening. He was met with storms of applause at almost every sen tence, and at his close the applause was almost deafening.

A vocal solo, entitled "O'Donnell Aboo", by Mr. Jay Northup and a vocal quartette, "God save Ireland", by the Gles club, closed the programme.

Sheriff Miller [yesterday morning brough in on the Denver train, Herman Schreiber, who has been wanted in this county since October last, Schreiber, in May last, was bartender for Charles Schrote, who at that time kept a saloon on Sixth and Pacific streets. On the 29th of that month in a row in Schrote's saloon, a man named Jack Martin was killed by a pistol shot. Schrote, his wife and Schreiber were arrested for the crime, and at the preliminary examination Scheirber was released and Schrote and his wife were held to await the action of the grand jury.

At the following June term of the district court Schrete and his wife were indicted, and at the October term a presentment was returned against Schreiber. Nothing has been done in the case since. Schreiber was looked for but could not ward of $200 was offered for his arrest and conviction. Photographs of him were struck and distributed all over the

Since Schreiber left Omaha he has been wandering aimlessly about, going first to the Bluffs, then to Waverly, Neb., then to Central City, and finally to Grand Island, where he hired to a farmer who lived eight miles from that place. He admitted to Sheriff Miller the killing, by himself, of Martin, but said that it was done in self-defense. He stated that Martin was coming in the front door with a knife to kill him, when a cocked pistol was handed him, which went off accidentally, but seeing Martin deter-mined to kill him, he fired the fatal

A Pensioner.

SHOSHONE, IDAHO, Feb. 28. 1884. Editor Omaha Daily BEE:

GENTLEMEN:-In your issue of the 23d of February, there is a list of Douglas county pensioners. My name is included in the list and credited with drawing $12 per month, and not credited with any disability. If we have got to have it advertised that we are pensioners on the government give us the facts of the case. I do not draw $12 per month; $6 is what this poor nation allows me for a shell wound through both legs, that laid me on until the close of the grandest entertainment ever given by the Emmet Monument accociation of Omaha.

He is Singged and Left in An Insendent accociation of Omaha.

Night after night people are knocked down and robbed in remote parts of the city, and the readers of the newspapers have become so familiar with such things that they read them and never think of them again.

It seems, however, that there are other notives than robbery for alugging men in this city, and this was fully proven Monday night by the brutal and un-called for asseault upon the person of District Attorney Parke Godwin, Monday evening Mr. Goodwin had been out with a party of friends and did not return to his rooms until about 12:30. His apartments are located in the Central block, on Fourteenth street, between Douglas and Dodge streets. Mr. Godwin returned about the time above mentioned and was either met by some one at the head of stairs or was fol lowed up by some one, who struck him upon the head with some blunt instrument, knocking him senseless and precipitating him to the foot of the stairs. As the hallway and stairs were perfectly dark, Mr. Godwin could not see anyone and can form no opinion as to who his assailant was, and cannot state positively whether he was assaulted or not.

Andrew Moynihan, who is employed in Floyd's place, tells the story in this manner. Mr. Moynihan rooms in the Central block, and he states that he had retired to his room about twenty minutes past twelve and had prepared for bed when he heard a loud scuffling noise in the hall-way. All was quiet for a moment when a dull thud, as if somebody had fallen, was heard. He then opened his door into the hall and listened. Presently he heard a deep groan and a gurgling sound. About this time a gentleman, rooming across the hallway, opened his door and the two together, with lamp in hand, descended the stairs.

Mr. Moynihan says the sight which confronted them was a horrible one. Mr. Godwin lay with his head upon the third step from the bottom of the flight and his feet up several steps higher. His face was completely bathed in blood, as were also his hands, and he was in such a fearful condition that he was not recogized by either Mr. Moynihan or his com-

Mr. Moynihan left his companion in charge of the man while he hastened for a police officer. Upon returning with the officer the blood had been wiped away from Mr. Godwin's face, and he was recognized. He was taken into his room, his clothing removed, the blood washed from his face and a physician called to dress his wounds.

Mr. Moynihan did not see anybody seave the hall way, neither did he see any one when he entered the building, only a few moments previous to the assault. Mr. Godwin's vest was found near the nead of the stairs, while his coat and overcoat were found upon the stairs, but how they came there Mr. Godwin is un-Mr. Godwin was visited in his room yes terday morning, and presented a horrible appearance. His eyes were swollen comletely shut and were highly discolored Above his right eye were two large bruises, evidently made by a billy, while upon the top and back of his head were several severe scalp wounds. At the time of the assault he did not cry out, having doubtless been knocked insensible the first blow.

At last accounts he was spitting blood, and it is thought that he is quite seriously injured internally. Mr. Godwin does not know of anyone who would thus assault him, but certain it is that some villain made a most cowardly attempt upon his life, and doubt-less supposed that he had accomplished his designs when he left Mr. Godwin prostrate and bleeding upon the stairs. There is a dangerous class of people in this city who would not stop at anything, Greatent daily range of temperature, not even murder, and it is well to keep a close lockout upon them.

The Closing Law.

Mayor Chase was imperative in his ommand that all saloons in the city be closed on Sunday, the order going into effect on Sunday last. The Stadt theatre and the Theatre Comique were both closed and no performance was given at either place.

Some of the saloon keepers, however, tried to evade the law but the officers all had orders to keep a close look-out and report any and all who were found either open or selling liquor. In consequence of this order the following keepers were arrested Monday: Thos. Callan, corner of Sixteenth and Capitol avenue; Shears, Markel & Swobe, Millard hotel; Kitchen Bros., Paxton hotel; Andrew P. Hansen South Eleventh street. They are charged with keeping open their saloons on Sun-day, and their cases will be tried this afternoon.

DANGEROUS CITIZENS.

A Negro Arrested for Assault With Intent to Kill-A Heavy Jumper.

Monday Lewis Johnson, a colored man, appeared in police court and lodged omplaint against Louis Givens and Maria Givens, both colored, for assault with intent to murder. Johnson said that he went to the Baptist church Monday to attend a sociable which was to be held there, and that he took with him a basket of pies. While there he had a slight altercation with Givens, and took up his pies and left. Givens followed him a short distance from the church when he (Givens) drew a revolver and snapped it full in Johnson's face. Fortunately the gun missed fire, thus saving Johnson's

He said that he threw down his basket of pies and grabbed hold of Given's cheeks and into his eyes with both hands. Givens, however, was not alone in the fight, for no sooner had Johnson grabbed him in the face than Mrs Givens appeared upon the scene, and, tearing a picket from the fence, she began to belabor Johnson over the head with fearful effect. The complainant's head was cut in a dozen or more places, and looked as though it had been run through a thresh ing machine.

Givens and his refractory wife have been arrested and are now in jail awaiting trial.

A WOMAN OF THE TOWN ASSAULTED. Maurice Vanan was arrested Monday for assaulting Nellie Heins, alias "Salt Lake Nell." It is charged that he first knocked the woman down a flight of stairs and then jumped upon her breast with both feet.

He is now in jail and will be held until the woman is able to appear against him.

A FUGITIVE CAUGHT.

An Alleged Cow Thief Brought Back from Iowa.

Dave Woodward, an officer of Cass county, brought a man named Marion Hoff into the city jail last evening, where he left him for safe keeping during the night. Hoff was indicted a short time ago by the grand jury of Cass county for stealing a cow, the charge against him being grand larceny. The cow was stolen near Weeping Water, in that county, and taken to Louisville and sold. The thief then fled from the state and was found a short time ago near Davenport, Iowa, where he was arrested by Woodward, who has brought him this far on his way to Plattsmouth, the county
