

THE DAILY BEE.

OMAHA.

Friday Morning, March 7.

The Weather.

For the Missouri valley: Slightly warmer and partly cloudy weather, light snow, variable winds and diminishing pressure.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

New crop clover and timothy seed for sale. Shugart, Waite & Wiles, Council Bluffs, Iowa. -The Philharmonic society have a rehearsal at Meyer's hall this evening. -A family quarrel, was on trial before Judge Benke yesterday afternoon. -The liquor cases were called before Judge Benke yesterday and indefinitely postponed. -One vagrant was discharged in police court yesterday, and two disturbers of the peace fined and committed. -Morris Vanan was yesterday fined $10.00 and costs, and sentenced to serve a term of ten days in the county jail, for beating one of the disorderly women of the town. -An information was filed in the police court yesterday by J. C. Welmers against George Constant, charging him with the embezzlement of $27.55 on March 4, 1884. -The lumber purchased for the construction of the slaughter houses in South Omaha has already begun to arrive, and as soon as the weather will permit, sidetracks will be laid by the Union Pacific to the proposed site of the slaughter houses. -Doc. Smith yesterday handed in to the county clerk's office separate maps of all the precincts in Douglas county. The various school districts are outlined on them, to enable the assessors, when making assessments the coming spring, to put the property assessed in the right school district. -Fire Chief Butler was pleasantly and agreeably surprised at his home on Wednesday evening by a party of his friends, prominent among whom were Cur Woodworth, W. J. Mount, Charles Turley and E. K. Long. Mr. Butler's guests numbered nearly fifty. A very pleasant evening was spent, and in the early morning the friends separated and went to their homes. -C. B. Bryan, well known here among the lovers of base ball and a member of the John M. Thurston horse company, was on Wednesday last fined seventy-five dollars and costs, by a Council Bluffs magistrate, for defrauding his hotel keeper in that city. It seems the landlord boarded the Denver base ball team a couple of years ago, and being unable to get his pay has determined to force Bryan who was a member, into a settlement. The case has been appealed. PERSONAL J. G. Kilpatrick, Beatrice, is at the Paxton. B. B. Carson, of Chicago, is at the Metropolitan. C. A. Bird, North Platte, is at the Metropolitan. H. F. Wednesday evening the sheriff of Brown county arrived in this city, having in charge two horse-thieves whom he was taking to the penitentiary at Lincoln, one for seven and the other for eight years. They were members of the famous "Kid" Wade gang and were a hard looking party. They remained in this city over night and took the noon train to-day for Lincoln.

RELIGION AND RUM.

A Country Minister's Visit to the City of Omaha.

The Effect of Urban Life Upon a Ristic Pastor.

A couple of days ago a minister, an elderly gentleman, arrived in this city and registered at one of its principal hotels. Out of respect for this divine and his parishioners his name for the present is withheld from publicity as his parish is not so far from this city, that one day's ride on a railway train will not reach it. The denomination to which this gentleman belongs is one of the most popular in the world and its devotees, who assemble weekly to offer supplications and chant their orisons, and who invade every quarter of the civilized globe, are numbered by millions. What caused him to leave his flock and come to Omaha could not be learned, as his stay here, or as much of it as is known, was not perplexed by business or the ordinary affairs of this life. During his first day's visit in the city he enjoyed his leisurely sitting in the rounds of his hotel holding council with himself. When he was returned to his room on his first night he ventured to broach the subject of religion to the clerk who was conducting him to his apartments. He was earnest and importunate in the matter, and urged upon the young man the importance of attending to his soul's welfare. The next morning he arose, ate his breakfast and went out into the street. About noon he returned in a beauteous state of intoxication and had to be helped to his room by the proprietor of the hotel. After having slept off the effects of his debauch he came down and went out again to indulge his passion and hold a second orgy with Bacchus. In a couple of hours he returned hatless and in a worse state of drunkenness than before. After he had become sober a second time, he was asked to pay his bill at the hotel, and he replied that he had no more money than he needed himself. In the evening at supper he became very familiar with the waiters, and being remonstrated with became violent. A telephone message was sent to the police station for an officer to take him to apartments in the city jail, but before he arrived at the hotel the minister had fled and has not been seen since in the city.

DISTRICT COURT.

The Proceedings in that Tribunal Yesterday.

In the district court yesterday, before Judge Wakely, the case of Benson against the Burlington & Missouri Railway in Nebraska, which was taken up on Wednesday morning, was on trial all day. The trial of this case promises to take up considerable time. The plaintiff, upon the adjournment of court last evening, had not introduced all his evidence. Before Judge Neville the case of Dennis vs. the Omaha National bank, which was tried to the court, was taken under advisement. The case of Barker against Jorgensen was then taken up. This is a simple action upon a promissory note, to which the defendant pleads the statute of limitations. Late in the evening the case was given to the jury, which in a short time returned a sealed verdict. The following is the assignment of cases for to-day.

BEFORE JUDGE WAKELY.

Omaha Barb Wire company vs. Omaha Benson vs. Burlington & Missouri railway company in Nebraska. (On trial.) Merchants' National bank of Deadwood vs. McHugh. Kaufmann vs. Ballou. Omaha National Bank vs. Omaha. Rathburn vs. Wymann. Brainard vs. C. St. P. M. & S. railroad company. Dexter vs. Fathner et al.

THE CITY SCHOOLS.

Their Financial Condition on March 1st, 1884.

The following is the financial status of the school district of Omaha on March 1st, 1884, as given by Truman Buck, treasurer, to the board of education:

Table with columns for Balance from last report, Tax collected in December, Tax collected in January, Fines and licenses in February, Old land sold, Total, Receipts, Warrants paid in February, Transferred to sinking fund, Total, Balance in treasury, Sinking fund, Balance from last report, Transferred, Total, Bonds on deposit.

Receipts. Balance from last report, $10,746 12. Tax collected in December, $2,072 00. Tax collected in January, $4,410 00. Fines and licenses in February, $1,941 90. Old land sold, $1 35. Total, $19,161 27.

Expenditures. Warrants paid in February, $15,179 68. Transferred to sinking fund, $2,815 36. Total, $18,000 00. Paid by warrant, $10,000 00. Balance, $8,000 00.

Balance in treasury, $82,050 54. Sinking fund, $1,122 60. Balance from last report, $2,815 36. Transferred, $30,987 96. Paid by warrant, $10,000 00. Total, $116,976 46. Bonds on deposit, $49,000 00. Total, $165,976 46.

The keepers of pool and billiard tables have been given due notice that they will have to pay license on the tables if they desire to continue their use. It is now one week since they were notified and that is the time allotted. As yet, not a single man has paid a license and they all seem to be waiting for some one to take the lead. There is no necessity for bashfulness in the matter, for the first man who steps up to the captain's office with his money will be made to feel proud at home, and it is useless to try to delay the payment of the license as the marshal says the law must be carried out to the letter.

No doubt it will come a trifle hard on a single man who has paid a license and they all seem to be waiting for some one to take the lead. There is no necessity for bashfulness in the matter, for the first man who steps up to the captain's office with his money will be made to feel proud at home, and it is useless to try to delay the payment of the license as the marshal says the law must be carried out to the letter.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES.

A Nebraska Woman Who is Deserted in Omaha Finds Her Recreant Husband in St. Joe.

And Has Him Arrested for Bigamy, He Having Married Another Woman.

In 1879, a young lady named Nellie Lee, who was living with her parents in a little town in this state became acquainted with a barber named William J. Patton, who was working at his trade in the same village. After a brief courtship they eloped and came to Omaha, where they were married on the 28th day of September of that year, the ceremony being performed by a justice of the peace. For three months they lived together, when Patton suddenly disappeared, and for many months the distracted wife heard nothing of him. Left to do for herself, she sought employment in a hotel at Omaha, and then visited Kansas City, Atchison and other cities, where she earned a living as a dining-room girl.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

A Complaint Filed Against George P. Clarke, of the Bradstreet Agency.

For Obtaining $100 Under False Pretenses.

Yesterday afternoon Chris. Specht, the cornice man, and a member of the board of education, filed a complaint against George P. Clarke, a young man employed in the office of the Bradstreet commercial agency in this city. The complaint alleges that Clarke presented to the affiant, Specht, that W. B. Taylor was indebted to him in the sum of $140, and by those representations he (Specht) was induced to part with his money and goods to the amount of $100.

Mr. Specht could not be found last evening, but Clarke was seen, who tells the following story:

He told Mr. Specht in the early part of January last that he was laboring under financial embarrassment, and Specht of his own accord offered to sign his note for $100 at the bank. The note was made out on the 24th day of January, and signed by both Clarke and Specht. It became due on Friday last, and an agreement was made between them that it should be lifted, by borrowing the amount from a third party on another note signed by the makers of the first one, which thing was to be done the fore part of this week.

On Saturday Clarke was taken sick and was unable to leave his room, and did not come down town for several days. Specht, thinking something was wrong filed a complaint for obtaining money under false pretenses, and a warrant was issued upon it, which up to a late hour last night had not been served.

Mr. Clarke has been three years connected with Bradstreet, and has always sustained the reputation of being an industrious and honest young man.

A Wash in March Snow.

It may be interesting to the ladies to know that if the hands and face are freely bathed in March snow it will prevent the skin from becoming tanned or freckled during the coming summer months, at least that is what has been said by some one, long ago. As this is likely, or at least it may be, the last snow which will be seen in this section of country this month, it might be well to improve the opportunity and take a snow bath without delay.

Twelve Hours for a Day.

The rule obliging the police to do duty twelve consecutive hours went into force last night. Hitherto the night force did duty only ten hours per day going out at 7 p. m. and quitting at 5 a. m. Now they go on at the same time and quit at 7 a. m. Under the old regime from 5 a. m. to 7 a. m. an interval of two hours, there was not a policeman on regular duty. The enforcement of the new rule obviates the former difficulty by adding two hours more of work to the members of the night force.

GRUNEBAUM BROS.

KID GLOVE BARGAINS.

We have this time to offer to our Patrons and Friends a grand Bargain in Kid gloves, that were received by us on Tuesday, and to make it convenient for all to select, we have devoted the new large space on our counters, and have arranged them so to make selections easy for all who come, which we know will be a great many.

Tolson, Henderson, Green, Moskel, McClelland, Walker, Watson, Buckner, Jackson, Johnson, Harris, Brown, Roberts, Ricketts.

The evening was spent in social enjoyment, and this was interrupted by a splendid supper, which was heartily appreciated and enjoyed.

A Happy Surprise.

Wednesday evening about forty friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hess, swooped down upon them at their delightful residence, on Park avenue, directly opposite the park, and at once took full and complete possession of the house, without even asking the permission of the host and hostess.

The house is a commodious structure, and as it has but recently been completed it was thought best to help Mr. and Mrs. Hess to warm it up. Musicians were taken along, and the evening was spent most pleasantly in social intercourse and dancing.

The ladies had not forgotten their share of the festivities, and in due season brought out a sumptuous lunch, which was washed down with delicious coffee.

The party did not take their leave until a late hour, and then it was with regret.

Yesterday Morning's Fire.

An alarm of fire was turned in from box 43 yesterday about 10 o'clock, and the fire department hastened to the scene of the fire, which was at the corner of Ninth street and Capital avenue. The fire was in a small one story house owned by Mr. Shannon, and occupied as a dwelling house. The blaze originated from a defective flue and very little damage was done.

MISDEEDS.

The door of the hook and ladder house is barely wide enough to allow the hook and ladder truck to pass through, and in pulling out yesterday the driver, Jim O'Brien, caught the side of the door with one of the rear wheels of the truck, causing a delay of a few moments. The door should be made wider, as it requires very close driving to get through.

The chief engineers wagon narrowly escaped colliding with a carriage in which was seated a lady driver, yesterday, while on the way to the fire. The chief was going down Douglas at a terrific pace and as he neared the corner of Thirteenth a lady, who was driving a one horse rig, attempted to drive across the street in front of him, notwithstanding the fact that his horn was sounding and the crowd was yelling. The wheel of the engineer's wagon just touched the rear wheel of the lady's carriage, and tipped it up slightly.

People cannot be too careful at times of fire to give the center of the street to the fire department, as a great deal of their success depends upon their reaching the scene of the fire promptly.
