

THE DAILY BEE.

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Tuesday Morning, March 11.

Subscription Rates: By Carrier 25 cents per week; By Mail $10.00 per Year.

OFFICE: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

Additional local on seventh page. Now spring goods just received at J. Reiter's, the tailor, 310 Broadway.

The supreme court meets here next Monday. Two young men named Wagoner and Davis had a little fistfight on Broadway, and were both arrested.

Permit to wed was yesterday given J. L. Murphy and Mrs. Jennie Phillips, both of this city; also to Gottfried Stocker and Ursula Balingier, both of Avoca.

Still Bates had a little difficulty with a man named Russell, on Broadway, near Pearl street, in which Russell received the worst. The police are looking to interview Russell.

"Modern Spiritualism" from a scriptural standpoint, will be discussed this evening by Elder S. C. Briggs, of Carson, Iowa, at the Saints Chapel, Pierce street near Glen avenue. Service at 7:30.

The work of tearing down the old city buildings commenced yesterday, the bell tower of the engine house being taken down. As soon as the buildings are all out of the way Glen avenue will be widened at Broadway.

The show yesterday began to show clearly what facilities Council Bluffs needs for draining and how badly it needs them. The crossings were in many places impassable, while water stood in great ponds in other places.

In Justice Abbott's court yesterday, another case was brought up against Droelish a by Cohn. It was dismissed, the threats proved being conditional, Droelish saying he would do certain violence, if Cohn should whip his boy.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians are to give a grand ball in Bloom & Nixon's hall March 17. Tickets may be obtained of the committee. Good music has been secured, and all other needed arrangements made for a most enjoyable and successful time.

The Chautauque club is to hold a social this evening at the residence of L. W. Tulley's, the evening's entertainment to consist of recitations, tableaux, music, charades, etc., the feast of good things being intellectual rather than physical, no refreshments to be served.

This evening there will be the second contest for the gold watch at the roller skating rink. It will be given to the most graceful lady skater, the decision to be by a vote of all present. The contest will prove an interesting one, as there are a number of contestants.

J. M. St. John & Co., the commission merchants and fruit dealers, have moved into their new quarters, No. 538 Broadway, next to The Nonpareil. Their increasing business made it necessary for them to have more room and better facilities, and these they have gained by the change.

Avoca seems a little inconsistent in urging that terms of court be held there for the convenience of the east end of the county. If Council Bluffs is at one side of the county, Avoca is no less at one side. Avoca should urge that Oakland should have it, if it really wants to get some central location for the east end.

Abc Lincoln Post G. A. R., is arranging for a grand ball on the 20th. It is for the relief fund for widows and orphans of those who have served their country so nobly, and a more worthy cause could hardly be named. It ought to find a ready support, and citizens should be liberal in the purchase of tickets, even if they cannot attend in person.

The masquerade at the roller skating rink next Thursday evening promises to be very unique and interesting. No one will be permitted to skate unless in full costume and masked, and must present their invitations at the door. Those desiring to participate can secure invitations on application to the managers. The indications now are that there will be a very large number of unique and elegant costumes, and to the lookers-on as well as participants much enjoyment is assured.

Mueller on Main street sells not only the lowest, but gives a present with each purchase of one dollar. Go and see him first.

Boys as Burglars. Yesterday two boys, D. Eckles and Joe Scott, were arrested and brought before Justice Vaughan on the charge of burglary. It appeared that about a week ago H. H. Hammer's house was entered and a number of articles stolen, and afterwards it was found that these boys brought the property in a bag to a second hand dealer and sold them. The boys claimed that they found the bag and its contents, and instead of hunting for an owner sold the stuff. The court reached the charitable conclusion that some one else broke into Hammer's house, and that the boys afterwards did find the plunder where it had been planted, and really knew nothing of the burglary itself. He accordingly discharged them after giving them a fatherly talking to.

W. H. Foster, the florist, Harrison street, has the largest and best supply of plants in the west.

A FRESH VICTIM.

A Hotel Clerk Dizzied by a Dazzling Offer, is Confounded.

The Game Not Worked for All There Was in It.

A hotel clerk in this city, whose big-heartedness has made him a great favorite with the traveling public, is the latest victim of a confidence game. A few days ago there dropped into the hotel a man who registered by the name of Ward. He warmed up under the cordial greeting of the clerk, and after staying in the house a day or two he became quite familiar. He explained that Leadville was his home and that he owned a big hotel there and had large mining and stock interests also. In fact he had so much business many months in the year that he was unable to be at his hotel at all. He needed a man to manage the hotel—to take full charge of it—and also to keep track of his cash and pay rolls in the mining business. None but a trusty, efficient, affable young man, such as "Dave" himself, would answer his purpose. He graduated down to business in earnest and offered the young man the position at $150 a month to start on and if he would stay a year it should be made $2,500 for the twelve months. He was to pick out an assistant manager and a steward to suit himself, and take with him. All this was talked over very slickly and in order to convince the young man that he meant business, he deposited with him a draft for $3,000, purporting to be drawn by an Omaha firm on a Chicago house and payable to Ward's order. He explained that he was coming through here with a number of cars of cattle, and that this draft was an advancement made on the assignment by the Omaha agents of the Chicago house to which they were shipped. He left this draft as a security for his talk being "business." All he needed to complete the transaction was to secure transportation for the clerk and the assistant manager and steward, whom he might select. He expected to get the transportation by Saturday morning. In the meantime, he wanted to get his boots blacked, and get shaved, etc., and not having any change, the affable presiding agent of the register of course provided his prospective employer with the necessary "change," fairly forcing upon him a $5 bill. Of course it was more than he needed, but it was all right. The next morning he was going down the street to see about the transportation, not having been to the bank to get any currency, the clerk again accompanied him. "When we get started back, I will have about $5,000," quoth the wily man, "and we will stop over in Denver for a couple of days, and have a high old time." The clerk took the precaution to send an inquiry to the commercial agency, and finding that there was a man in Leadville named Ward who had high credit he was strengthened in the belief that all these bright visions of the future would soon be realities. If the would-be employer, the cattle king, and mining monarch had struck the young man for a larger amount, it would have come just as freely, but he did not show up again. Transportation was not forthcoming, and now there lies in the cash drawer of the hotel a $3,000 draft payable to a man named Ward, and being held as security for a board bill and a cash loan. "Dave" has learned that he mustn't believe everybody else is honest just because he is honest himself. He will doubtless curb his inclination to be obliging to strangers, while the first fellow that gives it away to the boys on the road, or slips it to his friends at the Paxson in Omaha, is doomed to extermination at his hands.

Henry De Long—My Dear Sir: Can you consistently support the enclosed ticket? It is brought out against the ticket which is being urged on the voters by Pettibone et al.—and that is common enough on it. The enclosed ticket contains the names of two business men, who it is believed will serve the people with honesty and fidelity. If you can do so, will you take charge of the ticket at the first ward poll during the whole of tomorrow? If yes, I shall reciprocate the favor in any way you may determine. Please tell the bearer what you will do. I called at your home several times, but failed to see you. I shall not be on the streets much to-morrow, but Mr. Atkins, Folsom, Couch and others can answer any further inquiries. The bearer has some tickets if you wish for them. More can be had in the morning at Mr. Atkins' drug store. Truly, your friend,

A. E. CLARENDON.

Mr. De Vol and Mr. Spetman are both men who are held in high esteem here, and so many of their friends stepped into De Vol & Wright's store to learn for themselves how Mr. De Vol's name could be used that, in order to save time and annoyance, a large sign was hung in front of the store bearing the words, "P. C. De Vol is not a Clarendon man." This denial satisfied many.

Mr. Spetman also in a letter from Clarendon's persistent attempts to force himself upon the public schools of this city, as superintendent. I never have been favorable to his candidacy in the past, and am under no pledges for the future.

F. W. SPETMAN.

This emphatic denial coupled with the letter which De Long was showing about made matters decidedly mixed, but many who were opposed to Clarendon were satisfied that with these denials, there was nothing to fear from the De Vol-Spetman ticket, and so voted it.

The vote yesterday was a light one there being less than 1,000 cast. The result was as follows, by wards:

Table with 5 columns: Ward, De Vol, Spetman, Clarendon, Total. Rows: 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, Total.

The three propositions on improvement of schools resulted as follows: For first $16, against 136. For second $12, against 144. For the third $67, against 101.

THAT ASSESSMENT. The Union Pacific Employees Find It Taken out of Their Pay.

The assessment which was sometime since announced as being made on the employes of the Union Pacific for the support of an hospital, with Dr. Werger at its head, begins now to have a practical bearing, as the month's pay of each employe is found to be short the amount of the assessment. This causes a fresh outburst of indignation. The chief cause of complaint seems to be that the employes object to Dr. Werger having control of the institution, but on this side of the river, the employes at the transfer have an additional grievance. The Union Pacific pays only fifty per cent of their wages, the balance being divided up among the four other pool lines. Now if the U. P. can thus force the men to pay just the same as if that company paid all their salary, the other roads can do the same, and this would make an assessment of $2 a month. It is understood, that some of the higher U. P. officials of the road are beginning to pronounce against the hospital assessment, and a storm is predicted, before the forced collection is carried out many months.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat should not be neglected. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHIAN are a simple remedy, and give prompt relief. 25 cts. a box.

KEEPING IN PRACTICE.

The Voters Step Up to the Polls for the Third Time Within Three Weeks.

The School Election Passes Off Quietly.

Yesterday the school election was held to fill two vacancies on the board of directors, and to vote on the proposition for appropriations for the enlargement of school accommodations. This was the third election held here in less than three weeks. On February 26 there was the special election on the proposition to build a new court house and jail; one week ago there was the city election, and yesterday was the school election.

The election yesterday was the most quiet of all. Notwithstanding the importance of the election, the citizens generally paid little attention to it, while many who are generally so enthusiastic in their work at the polls were not to be seen, there being apparently none of the common incentives of money or personal promises.

The only feature of special interest was the claim that A. E. Clarendon had a ticket in his special interest, as has been said on previous elections, he being credited with having a chronic yearning for the position once held by him. It seemed generally conceded that the ticket bearing the names of Dr. Macrae and R. T. Bryant was not in the interests of Clarendon, while that of P. C. De Vol and F. W. Spetman was recognized as the Clarendon ticket. The majority of the citizens have got tired of having the Clarendon matter brought up each year, and as all seem satisfied with the present condition and prospects of the schools, no change seemed desirable in that respect. Many expressed themselves, too, as feeling that in case of a change ever being deemed needed, the control of the schools should not be placed in the hands of a man who was apparently over-anxious to get it. The feeling against any supposed Clarendon movement was strongly shown. Henry De Long claimed to have received a letter from Clarendon himself, enclosing a ticket bearing the names of P. C. De Vol and F. W. Spetman, and asking him to work for him at the polls. This letter he made public by having it at every polling place. It was as follows:

HENRY DE LONG—My Dear Sir: Can you consistently support the enclosed ticket? It is brought out against the ticket which is being urged on the voters by Pettibone et al.—and that is common enough on it. The enclosed ticket contains the names of two business men, who it is believed will serve the people with honesty and fidelity.
