Agents: There are enough saloon-keepers in the city council?

Perhaps Doc. Smith will think it advisable hereafter to attend strictly to county surveying.

Diplomas have been issued to several B. & M. conductors, entitling them to practice elsewhere.

The saloon-keepers of Omaha are very modest. They want to fill only five out of the six places in the city council.

Holman, the war-horse from Dakota, was not present when Mr. Morton was endorsed by the state democratic committee.

The election is near at hand, and no time should be lost in the selection of honest, capable and energetic candidates for the city council.

The Omaha Republican's honest advice to the farmers on the railroad question reminds us of the advice which the fox, in the fable, gave to the raven when he wanted his cheese.

The scrubs, hoodlums, and ward bummers are preparing as usual to run the city election, and it looks now as if they were going to be successful in nominating and electing their candidates.

The registration of voters this spring is a bigger feat than it was last fall. The registration notices and lists are being published in a readerless sheet, and hardly anybody knows anything about the important matter.

As usual the Nebraska democratic committee did not represent the sentiment of the democratic masses.

The present indications are that the next city council will not be such an improvement over the old one.

The Honorable B. E. B. Kennedy says that Omaha has been afflicted with gray-backs as well as moss-backs.

J. Sterling Morton is happy now. His resignation as chairman of the democratic state committee, which was a mere blind, was not accepted as a matter of course.

When Mr. Vining returns to Omaha he will probably not come back as commissioner of the tripartite pool.

The laboring men should come forward and take part in the ward caucuses and the primaries and assist in nominating respectable men to the city council.

One firm of architects, Dufrene & Mendelssohn, had plans made for $70,000 worth of residences and business houses which were to have been erected on Farnam street this season.

Colonel David S. Stanley is now a full fledged brigadier in the regular army. He has won his star and is fairly entitled to it.

According to Joaquin Miller, Francis Couderc is a gifted and positively beautiful lady.

MOSS-BACKS AND OBSTRUCTIONISTS.

Honorable B. E. B. Kennedy has addressed an open letter to the mayor and city council of Omaha setting forth the reasons why he has acted as an obstructionist to the proposed change of grade on Farnam street.

Major Suter has shown himself to be the mere tool of the railroads.

Major Suter, however, has again been "sat down upon."

The provisions of the bill are approved by the secretary of war, except that he recommends that the span of the draw shall be 300 feet in the clear on each side of the pivotal base.

The owners of lots between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets are the ones who will be more or less damaged.

While it is true that no person can be deprived of property without just compensation, therefore the law expressly directs that in appraising damages for public improvements the benefits shall be considered.

THE HAND OF SUTER.

The hand of Major Suter has again been exposed. When the proposition to build another bridge at Omaha came up, Major Suter, who is the engineer in charge of the Missouri and Mississippi river improvements, sought to defeat the enterprise by recommending that the span of the draw should be 300 feet in the clear on each side of the pivotal base.
