EARLY ECHOES

From the Second Congressional Nebraska District.

Regarding the Coming Congressional Campaign.

Power and Prestige in Butler County.

Correspondence of THE BEE.

DAVID CITY, Neb., May 4th, 1884.

The Butler county delegation to the late republican state convention, have come home.

Their constituents are anxious in regard to their health.

Some fear is entertained that they overworked themselves in their patriotic and overwrought effort to prevent the election of a railroad delegation to Chicago, headed by that Union Pacific prince of political manipulation, John M. Thurston.

When we are told that Thurston was chosen by acclamation, and that our $5,000 hero, "Jake" lost his voice so that he couldn't protest, we are exceedingly agonized with terror.

lest our honored son has again been Fearman's celebrated malaria. Perhaps the republicans of Butler county will learn some day, that they have been misrepresented long enough by demagogic traitors of this stamp, but it will never do them any good so long as they think one way and allow themselves to be hoodwinked into voting another.

The senatorial canvass in this district is beginning to receive some quiet attention. It is thought by a few that Mr. Thurston wants to be a member of that select body. The opinion prevails in certain quarters that he could not be beaten. The idea was prevalent two years ago that a man by the name of Mills would be an invulnerable shield, but even the bolstering hand of Albinus Nance, the boy politician and U. P. owl, did not save his encumbered legislative property.

The situation in Butler county is assuming a sort of uncertain stage of mixture, just at present. The Laird men have been slapped in the face by the champions of Collector Geo. W. Post. Laird has failed to give the Roberts crowd enough, if any, "ambrosia" to run the machinery in this county. The county treasury has been drawn almost dry by an organized steal of some $5,500 and over. Ex-Senator Evans was satisfied for a while with his share of the "pleasure" trip of the latter gentleman to Washington in search of "the mending" and his return to business here, has no significance whatever. The charge that has been inactivated against Senator Manderson's little boy, who lives in this city, is outrageous. The notion "that an innocent child like him would enter a law office is wilder than the untamable swiftness of a plowman's horse on a straight run. Last fall the republican here entered a solemn protest against the monopoly dictation in district affairs. The ring here at the county seat got mad, as they had a perfect right to do. A gang was organized to pound the life out of every man who dared open his skull in opposition to the will of the bosses. The bosses were, of course, the same fellows who have been plundering the people's treasury. When it was found out the voters would not be driven, a joint stock company was formed to secure a battering ram to knock the stuffing out of the settlers who claimed their own souls. This dangerous piece of weaponry was in the form of a newspaper, with a hired man and four or five amateurs to edit and run into the ground. The amateur business took on a heavy aspect as the weeks rolled on, and a slim faced imitator of Geo. W. Peck was imported from Peoria to "leash those darn bug-eaters something about journalism and politics."

There is a large class of Republicans in this part of the state who expect to support their party ticket in national affairs, but refuse to pledge themselves farther than that (and many not even to that) until the character of the nominee is known. They have been deceived too often in the past by the treachery of men whose only interest in their welfare was the almighty dollar and whose pledge to them have been broken like ropes of sand.

The farmers are busy getting their crops in the earth and trade in the towns is dull.

State Senator Reynolds will attend the national anti-monopoly convention in Chicago this month. He personally favors Thurman, but believes Ben Butler will be nominated.

The season for city improvements has opened late this year, but the estimate now given that buildings to the worth of $80,000 will be erected in David City alone this year. The country is improving in much greater proportion than the towns, consequently, it is safe to estimate the improvements for this county at $800,000.

HARRY GEORGE.

The State of Florida.

New York, May 3.--Among the passengers on the steamer "State of Florida," was Mrs. P. Ward, of Cleveland; Henry Wood, Mrs. Lillian W. Wood, Mrs. E. Wood, M. E. Wood, Miss May Shaikleton, of Ohio; Walter King, James C. Graham, of Canada; James Cruikshank, Braddock, Pa.; Andrew Tarn, Thomas Williamson, Thos. Taylor, Jr., Miss Amy Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Williamson, of Chicago; George Edgington, A. Bethune, Toronto; When the "State of Florida" had left this port, a rumor was current that several of Ross's agents were on board with dynamite and detectives were awaiting the arrival of the steamer at Glasgow to arrest the men. This was confirmed by a cable from England. Ross said he knew nothing of the men reported to be on board.

Texas Overflow.

JEFFERSON, Texas, May 4.--The river is higher than for eighteen years. The lower portions of the town are under water. Number of families have been forced to abandon their homes. It is believed every badge in the country has been swept away. A large section of the farming country is submerged. The loss to crops, bridges and other property, will reach many thousands.

The Siamese Embassy.

NEW YORK, May 4.--The members of the Siamese embassy to the United States arrived to-day in the steamer Alaska. They were received by the chief clerk of state. The native Siamese members were attired in European costumes. The embassy goes to Washington to-morrow.

Lynch Law in Kentucky.

WALTON, Ky., May 4.--At 1 o'clock Sunday morning, twenty masked men demanded the keys of the jailor of Burlington, the county seat of Boone county. He refused. They broke open the jail, took Charles Dickinson, a negro who was arrested last March for burglary, and escaped, but was again arrested a week ago in the act of burglary. A mob took him two miles from Burlington and lynched him.

THE WORK OF THE WEEK.

Probable Programme Laid Out for Congress for the Coming Six Days.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.--In the house to-morrow, after the usual call for the introduction of bills, the contested election case of Farrall vs. Paul will probably be considered. The question of consideration can, however, be reached. The house can postpone the discussion should the majority refuse to consider the case. The regular business of the members to suspend the rules for the passage of measures. Springer is first on the list. He expects to ask the passage of the bill making an appropriation for a public building at Springfield, Ill.

Representative Ryan, seventh on the list, if he is reached will try to secure the passage of his bill--repealing the limitation in the arrears of pension act. Of those who will precede Ryan some will merely ask to be allowed to retain their position on the list for a future individual suspension day, while others will not decide until to-morrow what measure they will attempt to have passed. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of the Morrison bill will be made Tuesday. It has not yet been decided who will make the motion. Both sides declare the vote on the question will be close, each side is confident of its own success. The republicans are counting on gaining four or five of their own number. The friends of the bill say the number of demagogues who will vote with the republicans will not be as large as the latter anticipate. They count on a majority of from five to eight.

Proceedings in the house the latter part of this week depend on the action taken on the tariff bill. Tuesday, if the friends of Mr. Morrison are successful in their discussion will be continued, but under the five minutes rule should it opponents succeed, there will remain as unfinished business liable to come up, the bill forfeiting the land grant of the Oregon Central railroad, and bills providing an appropriation for public buildings throughout this country.

The District of Columbia and four day bills are in the house and may be called up at any time. The house adjourned at 1 o'clock to attend the unveiling of the statue of Chief Justice Marshall.

The shipping bill is the unfinished business in the senate, and Senator Fry, who has it in charge, hopes to secure a vote by Tuesday night. The Indian appropriation bill will next be taken up. It may require two days to dispose of it. The agricultural and pension appropriation bills will be ready for action soon. Senator Hoar intends to ask that the measure be referred to the committee on the subject to be reported on the bill. It is not, however, likely that it will be reached this week.

When the opportunity presents, Mr. Blair will make an effort to secure consideration of the bill to establish a bureau of labor statistics, but will not attempt to take the measure up. He may find such an opportunity during the morning hour. Prominent democrats in congress say the business interests of the country are not to be neglected this session. They feel their party is in such a majority that it would fall in the blame for the failure to deal with several questions, financial and others, the senate committee will be asked by business interests everywhere, to say that as soon as the tariff question is out of the way these measures will be taken up and disposed of as far as the house is concerned.

Meantime efforts will be made to pass two at least of these measures. One, the Dingley bill to reduce the investment of the lawful money held in the treasury for the redemption of notes of national banks whose affairs have been wound up. Dingley expects to be recognized in the house to-morrow for a motion to suspend the rules and put the above named bill on its passage.

Wilkins, by direction of the banking and currency committee, will, on the third Monday of the present month, if that committee is reached on call, move to suspend the rules and take up the McPherson senate bill. As only two committees were ahead of the banking and currency committee, it is expected that the committee will be reached the day named.

Forty-Eighth Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 3.--On motion the Morrison order for the evening session to-night was vacated. The house then went into committee of the whole (Cox, dem. in the chair) on the bill amending the Chinese immigration act.

Mr. Henley (dem. Cal.) spoke in support of the bill.

Mr. Rice (dem. Mass.) opposed the bill. How long he asked, would England keep her ironclads from bombarding our cities if the United States should use force to her subjects, like she does the Chinese, the right to set foot on our shores? Let not congress build upon the Pacific coast a Chinese wall, with gates open only within and cannon frowning without, but rather let her, from the high currents of Christian civilization, permit the electric light of science and philanthropy to shine across the Pacific and illuminate the dark places of the old land where the race was born.

Mr. Sumner (dem. Cal.) said the purpose of the bill was to perfect the law enacted two years ago and remedy the defects that were found to exist in it; defend the property of that legislation on moral and religious grounds, and in the opinion of that gentleman had in the speech by a distinguished member (referring to Cox of New York) in which he had referred to the negro as being low, ignorant, debased and degraded. Since the negro had been made voters that opinion of that gentleman had in the opinion of the speaker and had lecture room, that gentleman sought to establish the fact that the negro was the wisest, most social, and cleverest person in the world. (Laughter.)

Mr. Cox, of New York, having left the chair, replied to the last remark. He admitted that he had in some prejudices against the negro. The great Senator Morton had had them. That Indians had had them. The ablest of all the representatives which Indians had sent, Jeremiah Arson, in the forty-third congress, had brought in a bill and passed it to break up negro government in the District of Columbia. They had got to stealing. They stole even the spittoons from the legislative assembly. A republican majority had taken away from them the right of voting. The negro was better than he used to be. He was kind, affectionate, gentle, and he liked the democratic party better than he used to. (Laughter.) He knew who stood by him when the Howard rascalities were developed; when the schemes connected with the Freedman's bank were discovered, when republican rogues were after his money; therefore, he (Cox) said: "All hail; Ethiopia is stretching out her hands to democracy and democracy is saying, Come on, come on, poor children of Ham; come at last to your refuge." (Laughter.)

Mr. Browne asked leave to extend Cox's remarks in the Record. He wanted to supplement them by a speech made by the gentleman (Cox) in 1864 on the negro question. (Laughter.)

Mr. Brown (Pa.) offered an amendment applying the provisions of the bill, as far as practicable, to persons from whatever nation imported to this country under any system of contract. Ruled out on a point of order.

The additional section was agreed to providing that nothing be construed to affect any proceeding or other proceedings, civil or criminal, begun under the act of which this as amendatory.

The committee then rose and the bill was passed, yeas, 184; nays, 13.

The negative vote was cast by Adams, (dem. Ill.) Brewer, (rep. N. Y.) Brewster, (rep. Ind.) Everhart, (rep. Pa.) Henderson, (rep. Ill.) Hitt, (rep. Ill.) Keam, (rep. N. Y.) Lyman, (Mass.) Price, (rep. W. Va.) Rice, (dem. Mass.) Skinner, (rep. N. Y.) Small and Spooner, (rep. R. I.) Adjourned.
