Perfectly Paralyzing.

On the way to Buffalo two 'young people got on the train east of Cleveland. They were going back to school. They were not If they silly, ignorant, country young people, by no manner of means. They represented seminary and college culture, for the young man was on his way back to Cornell. They dropped into a seat opposite the pilgrims, and they talked, and the passengers in the immediate vicinity listened to this highly intellectual interchange of pulsing thought and throbbing sentiment, "Say!" exclamed the impetuous youth,

"I heard something about you."
"Oh you!" she replied; "what was it?"
"Shan't tell."

Blood-Letting Fifty Years Ago.

The pharmacopeia of fifty years ago contained the names of 444 drugs and their preparations, whilst that of to-day contains 30 fewer than 802. The former did not ontain the names of quinine, morphia, or iodine, three of the most commonly used lisp the first sweet prayer to the Great Alldrugs of the present day. In fact, so frequently are they prescribed in one form or other, that one wonders how the doctors manage without the two latter. Qu'nine was in use to a certain extent, though not officially sanctioned; but where one grain greatly smooths the rough pillow of death was then used I believe a hundred are now, The system of treating many diseases has indeed been completely revolutionized. Speaking generally, the practice used to be to pull down the system; now it is to build it up by a freer use of quinine and other tonics. But in nothing is the change more striking than in regard to the common habit of blood-letting, as it was called. I suppose that in the last century it was even more common than it was at the time we speak of, so that if a person fell down in the streets from exhaustion he was sure to b bled. Though the practice was becoming more restricted, yet it was very president fifty years ago. I well remember my brother suffering from rheumatic fever, and seeing Mr. Gardom, one of the best medical man would do at the present day. Not only was the lancet used in this way, but cupping and 'he application of leeches was continually , esorted to in cases of in-flammation, which it was supposed other-It was no uncommon thing to be told, by persons that they found it conducive to their health to be bled periodically, and that such treatment was necessary for them. He has two passions—lottery gambling and love of wine. His wife is double his size, and at least ten years his senior. He stands in mortal awe of her. All the money they make goes into her hands. She subscribes so much a month to a mutual aid society; she buys all the clothes he needs, and also looks after a son of his by a former mar-riage. She cannot read or write but she is a little money for a lottery ticket, and every day measures out his winc.

Removing Particles from the Eye.

All engaged in mechanical pursuits run a greater or less risk of getting troubleome or dangerous particles in their eyes, and the following hints may prove useful in such emergencies: Minute particles of dust, sand, fluff, cinders, bran, etc., are best removed by means of a camel-hair brush or pencil, moistened but not wet, and drawn o a fine point. The brush will absorb the noisture of the eye, and with it take up the mote, provided the latter has not been driven into the eye-ball. Where a brush of time in which this earth will be inhabthe mote, provided the latter has not been is not at hand, a thin strip of soft paper, rolled spirally so as to form a fine point, is the best thing. Ragged chips and splinters which are separated during the processes of chipping off, often find their way into the eye, and are sometimes very diffi-cult to remove. The use of magnets has been recommended, but even the strongest found in the girl's pocket. It began, "Anmagnet is inefficient, if the splinters be embedded. In such a case, if the operator se gifted with a steady hand and firm nerves, the best instrument for removing the offending particle is a good sharp pen-knife. In simple cases let the patient stand up with his head firmly against a proceeded the mother. door post; turn back the eye-lids with the fingers, find the speek, and by passing the knife gently but firmly over the ball, you may sweep it up. When the splinter is actually embedded in the eye, lay the pa-tient on his back on a table, turn the eyelids back, and fix them by means of a ring and then you will find yourself free to op erate without danger of interference from the patient's winking. A suitable ring be found in most bunches of keys, or any mechanic can make one in two minute out of a piece of stiff iron wire.

A Tribute to Woman.

The following was delivered by a reform-

To be drank, not in liquor of any kind, for we should never pledge a woman in that which may bring ber husband reeling home to abuse where he should love and cherish, sends her sons to a drunkard's grave, and her daughters to a life of shame. Oh, no, not in that, but rather in the life-giving water, pure as ler chastity, clear as her intuitions, bright us her smile, sparkling as the laughter of her eyes, cheering as her consolation, strong and sustaining as her love—in the crystal water I would drink to her that she would remain queen regnant in the empire she has already won, grounded deep as the universe in love; built up and exercised in the homes and hearts of the world; I would drink to her, the full blown flower of creation's morning, of which man was but the Father, who comes to us in youth with good counsel and advice, who in manhood meets our heart yearnings with faithful ness of conjugal love; and whose hand when our feet go down in the shadow, as none other can; to her who is the flower of flowers, the pearl of pearls, God's latest, best and brightest gift to man-woman

Hints to Husbands. It is unhealthy to wear your boots in tl house after 1 o'clock a. m. The common plan is to remove them in the hallway, but many of our most experienced husbands prefer the front steps. Always take a boot in each hand when going up-stairs. This plan gives you two boots at the cat before stepping on her. Never say anything to your wife on these occasions except yes or no. Never compel your wife to get up first and build the fire. Don't Find Fault. matter to pick flaws in any piece of work, for no one's work is perfect. Fault-finding often becomes chronic and grows on a man just as an evil habit does, increasing day by day. There is nothing so disagreeable as to visit a home where fault-finding is continually going on; where, at the break fast, dinner and ten table, no pleasant word is spoken, but instead each one is finding fault with the other for some trilling error. I do not mean that error should not be rebuked, but when the evening twilight is gathering, when the work of the day is over, then kindly call the little ones around you and gently and solemnly tell them of their wrongs, and see if you are not much better repaid that if the little heads had dropped as shrewd and managing as if she were a all day at the angry glances and frowns on diplomat.
