COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Wednesday Morn'g, June 18,

Subscription Rates: By Carrier 30 cents per week; By Mail 10 cents per week.

OFFICE:

No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's Spring Goods. David W. Lehman, Hugh Waylor and Wm. Wilson were fined yesterday for being drunk.

A team belonging to J. C. Hoffmeyer got stalled in the mud at Sixteenth street and Broadway yesterday.

The Main street cars now run to the C. B. & Q. depot as of old, the new track being completed that far.

Keene appeared in Cedar Rapids Monday night. If that city can afford such celebrated actors why cannot Council Bluffs.

In the district court yesterday the case of Sapp & Lyman vs. Aiken Underwood & Co. was on trial, it being a claim for attorney fees.

The annual normal teacher's institute for this county will meet in the city Wednesday, July 21, and continue in session three weeks.

Everything argues well for the races here June 24, 25, 26 and 27, with more and better horses than at any meeting in the west. There will doubtless be races every day.

John Hughes, yesterday, had a man named Calahan arrested for stealing $3.50 from him while drunk. The accused was discharged.

An attempt will be made to get two or three hydrants placed in the Driving park before the races, and some of the streets leading to the park so that the dust may easily be laid.

Complaint is made that the outhouses at the transfer have been pumped out, and the filth left where it is, not only annoying to residents in that vicinity, but dangerous to their health.

The city fathers have provided a place now where all can deposit rubbish. It is located on Sixteenth avenue, in Klein's addition, and will be designated by a sign, so that there will be no excuse now for dumping filth elsewhere.

The poor aldermen have to piece out their meager salary in some way, and one of the ways is to meet as a board of health just before each council meeting for a few minutes, which entitles them to so much extra. The city's health never received so much attention as now.

The arrangements being made by the Hibernians are such as to assume for Council Bluffs a big Fourth of July celebration. The Hibernian societies of Omaha and Plattsmouth are to join in the doings here, and a new Council Bluffs band is to make it debut there.

It has been decided to organize a club of the "boys in blue" to further the campaign for Blaine and Logan. At a preliminary meeting held Monday evening John Fox was chosen president and J. C. Rhoadbeck secretary pro tem. It was decided to hold a meeting at the court house next Friday evening to perfect the organization and elect permanent officers. All boys in blue are invited to be present.

William Brewer a colored boy, who is pretty well known here, has got into trouble at Newton. It appears that he and another boy concluded to steal a ride on the C. & N. to Des Moines, and hid in a box-car. Some one came along and sealed the car, and at Kellogg was opened and the boys found inside. They were taken through to Newton and locked up in jail there, and friends here notified.

The scales at the junction of Main and Pearl streets are to be removed, one of the causes of complaint of the neighboring business men, being that hay wagons gather and stand there, blocking up the street, scattering hay over the pavement, and accumulating filth. It is proposed to put a fountain where the scales now stand. One of the sly powers causing this removal of the scales, is the fact that the scales are private scales, and interfere with the public weighmaster, who has scales on a lot near by.

Professors Beardsley and Poulson seem quite encouraged over the prospects of their new western commercial college, which opens here on the 23d. Every possible facility has been provided for those who desire to secure a higher English education, those who want to prepare for business, and those who intend to teach stenography, type-writing, elocution, German and music, are among the branches to be taught, besides many others, so there is a wide range from which to select. The college promises to get a good start this summer, and by fall will be recognized as a permanent success.

Chief Walters, of the fire department, denies the charge that the steamer taken to Des Moines to the tournament was allowed to stand on the side track exposed to rain and weather from Saturday until Sunday. He says that it was covered with a tarpaulin, and that it did not reach here until Sunday afternoon, and was not stricken up where it could be got by the department until Monday morning, and was brought to the house about noon. He says the council lent it to the boys to go to Des Moines, and that it was, for the time being, out of his control, and he was not responsible for it. As to the lanterns stolen, he says the boys will replace those.

FRISKY FERGUSON.

The Mayor's Private Secretary Brought Back from Lincoln.

His Acts and Sayings.

Yesterday morning the chief of police, Tom Skinner, arrived home, having in custody J. Alfred Ferguson, the mayor's private secretary, who was arrested in Lincoln. He returned with the officer without making any protest or trouble, and although evidently very nervous and rattled, yet he made a brave and not altogether unsuccessful attempt to put on a bold face. While Justice Vaughan was hearing some case that was before him, the chief with J. Alfred was waiting in an adjoining room. While there "the private secretary" told THE BEE man that the first his knew of any trouble being raised about his going away, was what he saw in THE BEE while at Lincoln. "Why, it seems to me that everybody reads THE BEE. Every fellow I saw had one, and it seemed to me that every one of them was reading that blasted piece about me. But why can't your newspaper fellows tell all the truth while you are about it?" On being urged to tell his side of the story, he declined until he should have a chance to talk with Mr. Vaughan. "This afternoon," he said, "I shall prepare and hand to the press a letter vindicating myself before this community. I want to confer with Mr. Vaughan about it first, and until then I will make no statements," and then he settled back with his usual pompous air as though he was conferring a high favor on his listeners to say even this much to them. Someone suggested the query—"Where's Madam?" referring to the girl with whom he eloped. "Oh, she came back with me as far as Omaha, and stopped there. She'll be over this afternoon. Madam is all right." By this time Mr. Vaughan had concluded the case before him and the hop-skip-and-a-jump secretary walked into his presence, or rather stumbled in and seated himself in a chair in front of him and player and employer met for the first time since the late unpleasantness. "Well, Alfred, this is an unpleasant duty for me," and the little mayor began opening the information filed against the young man. "Never mind about reading those papers, I waive all reading and all that sort of a thing and am ready for trial," and the young man nervously emphasized his words with a frequent tapping of his pencil on the table. "It was then past the hour for dinner, and the mayor told him he could do nothing with the case till afternoon, remarking, "You must get right down to business, now, Alfred; gush and talk won't answer now. Take off your hat, sir, as you are in court." Then followed a little talk. "J. Alfred" turned over his office keys, and some papers he had, among which was a rate of about $30 left with Vaughan by some one for collection. The mayor made him give an order on the girl for his baggage, there being one valise which was said to contain some important papers taken from the office. A mitimus was made out, and the young man was then taken down to jail by Chief Skinner. A jail dinner was not good enough for "the private secretary," and giving the jailer a half-dollar ordered a special repast, after finishing which he lighted a cigar, and with heels higher than his head sat pretending to read, when some of the newspaper gang, who went gathering up news about the old building dropped in on him. He at first refused to make any statement, but said finally that he was coming out of this all right, and would be out of jail in a few hours. He didn't know what Vaughan intended to do, and he did not "give a dam," to use his own words. He thought the letter he wrote Vaughan from Omaha explained matters sufficiently. It was true he had lost some in gambling, but not more than $20, and he did not owe around town over $5. He had handled thousands of dollars of Vaughan's money, had kept all the accounts for the electric light company, and there had not been a cent missed. He should defend his own case. "They say a man's fool who tries to do his own lawyer, but I'm going to try it, though this is the first time I ever was inside a jail."

"J. Alfred" had planned to marry his fond one yesterday, and expected her to follow him over to this side of the river, but she remained in Omaha, at the Emmett house, and the marriage did not take place. Late in the afternoon the young man was brought before Justice Vaughan and the cases, one for embezzlement and one for larceny, were continued, one was set for two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and the other Thursday afternoon. The bonds were fixed at $200 and $300 and the prisoner went out with Chief Skinner to get signers. Mr. Vaughn telling Skinner to keep him in his charge if he could not give bond.

EVADING PROHIBITION.

The ordinance passed licensing gin-ger Ale and "Sich."

The ordinance introduced some time ago licensing the sale of ginger ale, pop, etc., has at last been passed by the council. It is acknowledged to be simply an attempt to evade the prohibitory law. The ordinance is, of course, a farce and appears on its face. It provides that only such drinks shall be sold as are not prohibited by state law, saying in effect, that only non-intoxicating drinks may be sold, and yet it provides penalties for selling to a drunken person, as though it would do any harm to sell a glass of lemonade to a man who was drunk. The whole of the ordinance summed up in plain English is to the effect that although there is a prohibitory state law, yet if the saloon men will pay the city $400 a year, and give a bond of $1,000, they may go ahead, and so far as the city authorities are concerned no trouble will be caused them. This sort of an agreement, made between the city and the saloon-men, by which both seek to reap a profit by evading the state law, is the summing up of the ordinance. Its advocates urge that saloons will run here anyway, and that in view of this fact the city should take steps to get some special assessment out of them, to cover part of the special expense caused by them.

Local Crumbs.

Coyote Bill, who escaped from jail here about a year ago, and who was so skillful a bride maker, is now serving a term in the Lincoln penitentiary for horse stealing.

Mary D. Risner has commenced divorce proceedings, claiming that her husband, J. M. Risner, to whom she was married in 1867, deserted her in 1879, and had not returned.

Mrs. Ida Chrisman, who has been showing signs of insanity of late, the cause of which is said to be the murder of her husband about two years ago, has suddenly disappeared with her little children. Arrangements were made to take her to the asylum, but while the papers were being prepared, she escaped.
