

THE MERCHANTS National Bank OF OMAHA.

Authorized Capital, - $1,000,000 Paid-up Capital, - 100,000 Surplus Fund, - 70,000

N. W. Cor. Farnam and 12th Sts OFFICERS:

FRANK MURPHY, President, SAMUEL E. ROGERS, V.P. BEN. B. WOOD, Cashier, LEWIS DEARB, A. DIRECTORS:

Frank Murphy, Samuel E. Rogers, Ben. B. Wood, Charles C. Howell, A. D. Jones, Luther Drake, Transact a general banking business. All who have any banking business to transact are invited to call. No matter how large or small the transaction, it will receive our careful attention, and we promise always courteous treatment.

United States Depository

First National Bank OF OMAHA--

Cor. 13th and Farnam Sts. The Oldest Banking Establishment in Omaha,

SUCCESSORS TO KUNTZE BROTHERS. Organized in 1858.

Organized as a National Bank in CAPITAL - $200,000 SURPLUS AND PROFITS - $150,000

HERMAN KUNTZE, President, J. A. CASSIDY, Vice President, A. J. FORTY, Cashier, F. H. DAVIS, Cashier

W. H. MAQUETTE, Assistant Cashier, Transacts a general banking business. Issues time certificates bearing interest. Draws drafts on San Francisco and principal cities in the United States. Also London, Dublin, Edinburgh and the principal cities of the continent of Europe.

NATIONAL BANK OF OMAHA.

S. W. Cor. Farnam and 12th Sts.

Capital, - $100,000.00 C. W. HAMILTON, Pres't.

S. S. CALDWELL, V. Pres't. M. T. BARLOW, Cashier. DIRECTORS:

S. S. CALDWELL, B. F. SMITH, C. W. HAMILTON, M. T. BARLOW, O. WILL HAMILTON.

Accounts solicited and kept subject to sight check. Managing Director. Certificates of Deposit issued payable in 2, 6 and 12 months, bearing interest, or on demand without interest.

Advances made to customers on approved securities at market rate of interest.

The interests of customers are closely guarded and every facility compatible with principles of sound banking freely extended. Draw sight drafts on England, Ireland, Scotland, and all parts of Europe.

Sell European Passes or Tickets. COLLECTIONS PROMPTLY MADE.

OMAHA SAVINGS BANK!

Cor. 13th and Douglas Sts. Capital Stock, - $150,000 Liability of Stockholders, 300,000 Five Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

LOANS MADE ON REAL ESTATE

Officers and Directors: JAMES E. BOYD, President, W. A. FAYTON, Vice President, JOHN E. WILBUR, Cashier, CHAS. F. MANDERSON, THOS. L. KIMBALL, J. W. GANNETT, MAX MEYER, HENRY FUNDY, E. L. STONE.

MCCARTHY & BURKE, UNDERTAKERS! 218 14TH STREET, BET. FARNAM AND DOUGLAS.

DREXEL & MAUL, (SUCCESSORS TO JOHN G. JACOBS) UNDERTAKERS!

the old stand 1417 Farnam street. Orders by telegraph solicited and promptly attended to.

H. K. BURKET, FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER 111 North 16th Street Omaha

CHARLES RIEWE, UNDERTAKER, AND DEALER IN Metallic Cases, Coffins, Caskets, Shrouds, ETC., ETC., 1000 Farnam St., - OMAHA, NEB

M. R. RISDON, Gen'l Insurance Agent

Fire Insurance Co. of London, Cash Assets, $5,554,504.60

JAS. H. PEABODY & M. J. PHYSICIAN & SURGEON, Residence No. 1407 Jones St. Office No. 150 Farnam Street. Office hours 11 to 6 p. m., and from 2 to 5 p. m. Telephone office 97, Residence 218.

W. R. VAUGHAN. Justice of the Peace.

Omaha and Council Bluffs. estate collection agents 914 F. & V. street bank.

THE GRAND IOWA Trotting Circuit.

$24,000.00 in Purses. $600 FOR EACH EVENT.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, June 24, 25, 26 and 27. EVERY DAY THE BEST.

113 Entries. Cedar Rapids, Marshalltown, Council Bluffs and Des Moines comprise the Iowa Circuit, each place giving the same Classes and Purses.

FIRST DAY--TUESDAY. 2:45 Class 2:35 Class 2:25 Class

SECOND DAY--WEDNESDAY. 3:00 Class 2:50 Class 2:40 Class

THIRD DAY--THURSDAY. 2:38 Class Pacing--Free for all. 2:33 Class

FOURTH DAY--FRIDAY. 2:48 Class Free for all. THOS. BOWMAN, Secretary, Council Bluffs.

ACOB SIMS, E. P. CADWELL, SIMS & CADWELL, Attorneys-at-Law, COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA

ST. LOUIS PAPER WAREHOUSE. Graham Paper Co., 217 and 219 North Main St., St. Louis. WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

BOOKS, PAPERS, (WRITING NEWS), ENVELOPES, CARD BOARD AND PRINTER'S STOCK

Nebraska Cornice Ornamental Works MANUFACTURERS OF GALVANIZED IRON CORNICES

Dormer Windows, FINIALS, WINDOW CAPS, TIN, IRON AND SLATE ROOFING.

Iron Fencing! Creting, Balustrades, Verandas, Office and Shop Buildings, Window and Collar Guards, Etc. 202 S. 2ND ST., LINCOLN, NEB.

THE OLD RELIABLE HE BRUNSWICK, BALKE, COLLENDER COMPANY, (SUCCESSORS TO THE J. M. B. & CO.)

THE MONARCH The most extensive manufacturers of Billiard & Pool Tables IN THE WORLD.

608 S. Third Street, - - - OMAHA, NEB. Price of Billiard and Pool Tables and materials, unshipped on application.

BRUNSWICK & CO. BILLIARDS

Billiard, Ball Pool, Carom, AND ALL OTHER GAMING TABLES. TEN PIN BALLS, CHECKERS, ETC. 18 South 2d Street, St. Louis, 411 Delaware Street Kansas City, Mo., 1221 Douglas St., Omaha, Neb. HENRY HORNBERGER, Agent.

DISEASES OF THE EYE & EAR J. T. ARMSTRONG, M. D., Oculist and Aurist

Special office separated from rest of office, on 15th St. Dr. Parker, Room 6, Creighton Block 15th and Douglas streets.

JAMES Y. CRAIG, Landscape Gardener AND FLORIST.

Plans, specifications and estimates of cost of laying out new or remodeling old lawns, grading, sodding, etc. will be furnished on application. Grower and dealer in all kinds of Flowers, Shrubs, Grasses and Shade Trees. Just the thing for Cemetery or Lawn Decoration. Green House and Nursery. Plants in pots for sale at all seasons, and any Floral Designs or Bouquets made up on the shortest notice. Orders by mail promptly attended to. Dress P. O. Box 596 Omaha, Neb.

Wanted TO PURCHASE Second Hand Clothing

For Spot Cash. Call on or address Mr. or Mrs. Stephen J. BRODERICK, 615 South 10th street.

COUNCIL BLUFFS. ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS. CROOKED BARS.

Some Very Queer Doings at the City Jail.

The Books Tampered with, and Prisoners Claiming to be Robbed.

An Apparent Attempt to Force Officers Out.

There seems to be much queer work going on in regard to the jail and police headquarters. All sorts of rumors and statements are afloat, and two explanations seem to meet with favor, one being that somebody is plotting to get officers removed, in order to make room for pets, or that some one is really acting crooked, and trying to throw suspicion on to others to evade detection.

The matter should be investigated thoroughly by the authorities, and all the facts brought clearly out. P. D. Mottaz, who has proved an efficient and accommodating city jailer, has had even his remarkable good nature worn out by the annoyances to which he has been subjected by those who frequent the police headquarters. He proposes to resign rather than submit any longer. He keeps a record of the prisoners, with a record of the effects taken from them when searched before being locked up. This book has been tampered with two or three times. One time a prisoner was credited with having about $23, and some one changed this on the book to $5. Another time a prisoner had only ten cents, and this was changed by some one to twenty cents. Tools, tobacco, articles of clothing, etc., have been taken. The jailer has kept locked up in a room the bottles of whisky taken from prisoners and most of these have been emptied in some mysterious manner. He has a little cupboard in which he tries to lock up different articles, but this has been meddled with, and even the safe has been tampered with. Much of this has apparently been done to annoy him, while other acts have been out-and-out theft. Aside from this, he claims that he has been obliged to run errands, serve papers and notices, go to the bank and the newspaper offices for the clerk, and, in fact, been treated as an errand-boy. He claims also that he has been treated as though he was not to be trusted, which seems to strike him hard, as he has lived here for years, and has a solid reputation for honor in all things. The $1,200 city clerk seems to have a suspicion that there is something wrong about the meat-tickets, and has inquired in an insinuating way, what he was doing with his money, and seems to think that the old man is fit only to do his back and call. Then he was to be on duty most of the day and night, and when he feigns to sleep in his room at the jail, policemen instead of being out on their beats, came into the station and hung about laughing and carrying on together, so that he got no rest. The city jailer seems to be gratified in thus resigning and he says the only condition on which he will remain in the position are that his duties may be defined, that he may have only one "boss", and that these annoyances shall cease. It seems like a petty little scheme to force the old man out of the position to make room for some pet. It is to be hoped that the mayor and police committee to whom the matter was referred, may have sense enough and sand enough to get all the facts, and not lend themselves to any scheme, if there is one.

S. E. Burdick has filed an affidavit with the city council, setting forth that Officer O'Brien arrested him without cause, and took him to the station house, where he searched him, took $8 from him, and locked him up on a charge of being drunk. He claims that the officer did not credit the money on the book, and that the next day on being acquitted of the charge, the money taken from him was not returned. In fact, he charges Officer O'Brien with robbing him of $8. The mayor and police committee are investigating the matter. The officer charged, claims that in passing a saloon he heard a little rumble and the keeper was trying to get Burdick out, and not being able to do so called on the officer, who tried to persuade Burdick to go home, but the latter becoming abusive and being drunk, he took him by the collar and ran him in. O'Brien avows that he expected his profits in the presence of the officer, and that no such money was found on him. The officer left on the jail register the names of the witnesses who would testify that the man was drunk, and that Marshal Guannella did not subpoena them, and did not notify him when the trial was to come off, so that there were no prosecuting witnesses on hand and the latter was discharged. He then made a kick about the money which he claimed he had. Officer O'Brien says that in the saloon where he arrested him Burdick was trying to stand the barkeeper off for a glass of beer, promising that he would pay for it the next day, by which, if true, it does not appear that he had any money. Officer O'Brien has filed an information charging Burdick with perjury and says he won't the whole matter cleared up in every particular, and let the real blame fall where it will.

Another fellow named Callahan says he was also a victim. He claims that he had $15, and that he got a few drinks, which made him drunk and he was arrested. This was last Friday night. He does not seem to be very certain as to exactly how much money the officer found on him, but thinks it must have been in the neighborhood of $12 or more, but when he was sobered up the next morning he found that he had only $3.33. Officer O'Brien who arrested him says that was all he found on him when he searched him. Callahan claims that there had been credits to the book of $13.30 and that afterwards the "one" had been scratched off. Altrman Mynster examined the book and said it appeared to him that there had been an erasure. Officer O'Brien says he simply put down the amount, which was $3 30, and that was all there was, and no erasures or side marks were made by him. Of course it would have been foolish, even if O'Brien wanted to be dishonest, for him to have put down $13 30, and then charged $3 30, as he might as well have put down only $3 30 in the first place, as there was no one else there. Officer O'Brien has an excellent record, and is highly spoken of, and this incident following on the heels of the other, indicates that some one seems determined to get him in trouble if possible.

Sweet potato plants--largest stock in the west--by W. H. Foster, Council Bluffs. Send for price list.

Something for Nothing. Until further notice we give to each twentieth customer his purchase, whatever the price or value of the same may be. Our cashier will keep an accurate record of every transaction, and when the twentieth sale of any amount is made the purchaser will be presented with the same. We have adopted for the present this system of advertising because it gives our patrons instead of the newspapers the five per cent. which it cost us. Clothing retailed at wholesale prices. Hats retailed at case prices. Furnishing goods, trunks, bags, umbrellas, etc., etc. Every twentieth customer presented with his purchase.

Attention! Boys in Blue! BLAINE, LOGAN, AND VICTORY. There will be a meeting of veteran soldiers and sailors at the court house on Friday evening, June 20, 1884, at 7:30 p. m., to effect a permanent organization for the coming campaign. It is hoped and expected that all old vets will be at hand. Look out for Wall McFadden and fall in line. J. C. RHODEBECK, Sec. J. FOX, Pres.

Shipments of Stock. The following were the shipments at Union stock-yards yesterday: Smith & Co., 1 car hogs, 60 head, to Chicago via Milwaukee.

Arnold & R. 15 cars cattle, 680 head, to Ogallala via U. P. Club Branch Cattle company 13 cars cattle, 500 head, to Ogallala via U. P. Columbus Packing company 2 cars hogs, 112 head to Chicago via N. W. Baldwin & Co., 2 cars hogs, 133 head to Chicago via N. W. J. C. Berry 2 cars cattle, 31 head, to Chicago via R. I. Fred Howell, 2 cars hogs, 135 head, to Chicago via R. I.

Real Estate Transfers. The following transfers were filed June 17th, 1884, and reported by P. J. McMahon, Council Bluffs:

Clause Grara to Joseph Seebalt, pt. sw 1/4 1-77-44. $30. C. H. I. & P. R. R. Co. to C. M. & St. P. R. R. Co., pt. sw 1/4 1-74-34. $1,250.

L. D. Woodman to Charles Coburn, lot 1, block 11, Macedonia. $20. L. H. Briscoe to Charles M. Coburn, lot 3, block 11, Macedonia. $125.

Total sales, $1,500. Total sales for the week, $26,434 75.

SUDDEN CHANGES. Changes in temperature are apt to occasion dangerous affections; in the full-blooded, apoplexy is to be feared. All, both young and aged, should have BRADY'S PILLS ready; they are never-failing. When you have pain in the head, are dizzy, feverish, rheumatic, or otherwise affected, take from three to ten, according to bulk of individual. In twenty-four hours, or less time, you will be content. Constitutions are much alike. Vertigo, dizziness, and pain can come only when impurity of the blood is too much for "the life" in us to carry without a struggle. And it is this struggle that BRADY'S PILLS aid, and no mistakes are made when you merely take away impurities from the blood.

COMMERCIAL OF THE CAMPAIGN The Political Excitement a Direct Benefit to Many Trades.

Chicago News. The coming presidential campaign is expected to bring a large trade to manufacturers of regalia, banners, transparencies and so forth. A member of a Fifth avenue firm said to a Daily News reporter today that he expects their business to double after the campaign fairly opened. Clubs would be formed everywhere and would need uniforms--small in some cases, only the cape or hat being used, but large when the country at large was uniformed. Then there are clubs which purchase whole suits, orders for 110 suits having already been given out by the democratic club here to be finished before the state convention at Peoria, July 3. Then there are torches to make, flags to prepare, portraits of the candidates to have in readiness, and hundreds of other matters that give work to the tailing masses, and which only come with a national campaign. The artist is by no means neglected, and sometimes as high as $2,000 is paid for a portrait banner to hang across the streets and inspire the populace. The sign painter hails the work with delight, and a member of this craft yesterday has been given out by the democratic club here to be finished before the state convention at Peoria, July 3. Then there are torches to make, flags to prepare, portraits of the candidates to have in readiness, and hundreds of other matters that give work to the tailing masses, and which only come with a national campaign. The artist is by no means neglected, and sometimes as high as $2,000 is paid for a portrait banner to hang across the streets and inspire the populace. The sign painter hails the work with delight, and a member of this craft yesterday has been given out by the democratic club here to be finished before the state convention at Peoria, July 3.

Pills are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the stomach, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A more like registration, producing a very disagreeable itching particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is very common attendant. Internal, External and Itching Pills yield at once to the application of Dr. Ross's Pills Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, slaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure where other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and see. Scherer & Beck. "Trade supplied by C. F. Goodman."

A CARD--To all who are suffering from severe neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, etc., I will send a card, that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy has been used by thousands in South America, and is now being sent to you by mail. Send your address to J. J. Ross, Station D, New York. dy e m g od

BURFORD AND THE MOB. An Exciting Experience at the Close of the Late War.

Chicago News. The tragic death of Gen. Abe Buford, of Kentucky, recalls a story he told during his last visit to Chicago. "I have passed through many trying and perilous scenes," he said to a party of friends, "but never felt so near death's door as at Springfield, Ill., just after the war. To begin with, I had a narrow escape during our fighting in Georgia. Our forces were encamped with the Union troops in our front. The sentry lines were thrown out as usual. One day I passed through the lines to make some observations at a distant point. I was unattended but mounted upon a powerful horse. During my absence the Union forces drove back our lines and occupied the same ground with their own pickets. This was unknown to me, and I was surprised and alarmed on my return to be hailed by a Union soldier. I attempted to ride on. The soldier tried to stop my horse with his bayonet. Drawing my revolver I fired at him, and rode to camp without waiting to see the effect of the shot. The war went on and finally ended. I was surrendered to the superior forces of the Union side, and I went home. Soon afterward I went to Springfield to get some horses which I had left in charge of Willis Renfrow. On the day of my arrival a large number of Union soldiers were mustered out of the service. They literally swarmed into the hotel where I was stopping.

Pretty soon I discovered they were eyeing me very closely. The more they did so the more excited they became. Their excitement made me nervous, and not a little frightened when I reflected that I was alone, without friends, and in the midst of soldiers just from the scenes of conflict that had accused all their bitterness toward the South. As an officer in the confederate army, I felt that I would bear no small share of their hatred. This thought frightened me beyond measure. For the first time in my life I was really afraid, because I believed that if the soldiers became aroused there would be no escape for me. The landlord came over and urged me to conceal before an outbreak occurred.

Although terribly scared, I had no thought of showing the white feather. I merely went up to my room, secured my revolver and came back to my seat watching the crowd over the paper that I pretended to read. After while a man wearing a corporal's uniform came in. Several of the soldiers ran to him in an excited manner. I could not hear what was said, but I knew I was the subject of the talk. The corporal went to the hotel register, looked at my name and then came toward me. Behind him were several of the men. A score of them were eagerly watching the scene from the other side of the room. The landlord with blanched face, stood behind the counter, and I could see he was frozen with terror. As the corporal and his comrades came toward me, my hair literally stood on end. I could feel the eye of self control I could not conceal my agitation. I felt that after going through the perils of war I was to die at the hands of a mob. No man can portray his feelings at such a time. Though great strength was demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

"I do," was my reply. "I am that man," said the soldier, "and I want to thank you for merely wounding my arm." The man held out his hand. I never was so glad to shake a hand in my life. The peril I had supposed I was in had caused great bands of great strength to be demanded, I was so weak I could hardly stand. When the corporal approached me he asked if I was Gen. Buford. With a feeble voice I told him that I was.

"Do you remember the Union soldier you shot when breaking through the Union lines in Georgia?" he asked.

THE CHEAPEST PLACE IN OMAHA TO BUY FURRNITURE

DEWEY & STONE'S. IS AT

One of the Best and largest Stocks in the United States to select from. NO STAIRS TO CLIMB. ELEGANT PASSENGER ELEVATOR.