Judge Hawes said he would hunt Houck up next morning and bring him to the hotel. The next morning the judge and Mr. Houck put in an appearance at the hotel, Mr. Houck simply having been told that a man wanted to see him there.

Mr Caldwell approached him and said: Were you at Chapultepec?" "Yes; who are you?" asked Houck. "I was in the same company with you, and my father, who commanded the company, was shot at Chapultepec and died two days afterwards. "Your name is Caldwell." "And your name is Houck." Both men then shook hands in a cordial manner, and adjourned to the bar room with a party of friends, and after a liberal supply of liquids had been disposed of, Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Houck sat down by themselves and fought their battles over. They were all through the Mexican war together, and their reunion was one that will be long remembered by them. Mr. Caldwell has become a prominent and wealthy man, being now the president of the Caldwell wagon manu-facturing company and also of the Idaho and Oregon Improvement company. Mr. Houck, however, remains a poor man, although he is in fairly comfortable circumstances. Mr. Caldwell asked him what he was engaged in, and he replied that he was driving a city express wagon, "Houck, I want to make you a little present," said Mr. Caldwell, "I am going to have made and sent to you the finest wagons that can be built at my works, and I shall have it done as soon

Accompanying the wagon presented to Mr. Houck was the following letter from Senator Caldwell:

Leavenworth, Kas., June 19, 1884.

D. B. Houck, Esq.

Dear Sir and Old Friend—Your wagon was shiped a few days ago to the care of the Nebraska implement company. It has been finished for sone time, but was held until we could ship it with a car load of farm wagons to Omaha. But our Mr. Welch informed me you needed it so I thought best to ship it at once. It may be important for you to know that the axles, wheels, springs and indeed all the material used in the construction of the wagon are the best. My desire is to furnish you with a wagon without flaw or blemish, good and complete in all its parts, one that would be worthy of the true spirit in which it is offered. I trust you will accept it as a slight token of my remembrance and regard for one who, thirty-seven years ago, shared with me the dangers and privations of a march from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico. What changes since then! How interesting now to recall the smoke of battle, offered their lives as a willing sacrifice for the victory of our flag. But Dorsey, we are growing old—that is you are.
