OFFICE: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's summer goods. Two drunks in police court yesterday. The city council is to hold a meeting this evening.

R. Huntington has just been putting some marked improvements on his store. A. A. Parsons yesterday shipped one of his St. Paul harvesters to Thomas McBride, of Boomer.

Work has commenced on a handsome residence to be built at the head of Oakland avenue by E. C. Cole.

Brennan and Ruddy, the two young men arrested on the charge of obtaining goods from Spelman Bros., were yesterday discharged.

The democrats are arranging for a big pow wow Wednesday night, and expect to have speeches by General Thayer, of New York, and Judge Savage, of Omaha.

Walter Vaughan, the junior mayor, while serving as a page in the democratic convention in Chicago, got an autograph album well filled with the names of men of national reputation.

About a dozen members of the Kansas City Turn-Verein, en route home from the Turner fest at Omaha, stopped in this city yesterday and dined and supped at Bechtele's.

A Neola official who was here yesterday, states that while the schools there are ostensibly selling only temperance drinks, yet those who are posted can get all the strong draughts they want.

City Clerk Troutman, who spent Sunday in Atlantic, says the storm there was a terror, hail-stones falling thick and fast. Some are said to have measured eleven inches around, and several persons were injured by them.

The owner of the section of the big tree now being exhibited under a tent on Main street wants to sell the same to the city for $100, and some of the aldermen have been looking at it with a view of securing it for Bayliss park.

There was a very quiet wedding of Omaha parties in Justice Vaughan's office yesterday afternoon, the parties being Jack Fisher and Leola Fisher. They were anxious that the matter should not be noticed in the papers, as they had been recently divorced but had now made up again. On this account The Bee says nothing about it.

Some of the friends of Wm. Lounsbury are interesting themselves in his behalf, and raising money enough to procure for him an artificial leg to take the place of the one he lost by a fall from a ladder. He is unable to do heavy work now, and is learning the cigar trade with the hope of being thus able to earn his living. It is a worthy case for the charitable ones to assist.

"The newspaper fiend" takes it all back, and apologizes gracefully to the ex-friend for charging them with turning in a false fire alarm. He says now that he was informed by a present officer of the department who had investigated the matter. Now let that officer come out like a man and say who the ex-member is whom he thus charges. He ought to do this or else not grumble if others consider him as firing arrows of slander from an ambush.

The house which lately burned at the corner of Sixteenth street and Sixth avenue, was owned by Mrs. S. H. Smith. She now has donated the ground for the purpose of a Union church, which has been wanted in that vicinity for some time. The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary, and suspicion is turned toward a man who wanted to occupy the house but was refused, and seemed to be angry about it, but as no proof has been obtained to substantiate such a suspicion it may be a very unjust one.

In Justice Schurz's court an interesting suit has been on trial for several days. It is entitled S. J. Ballard et al. vs. E. D. Cross. The suit is for the purpose of ejecting Dr. Cross from the house which he is now occupying, it being claimed that he has paid no rent for a year past. Dr. Cross claims a bill of $700 or more against the Ballard estate to which this house belongs, this claim being for medical attendance upon Mr. Ballard just previous to his death. The decision has been reserved, but will probably be given to-day.

Yesterday afternoon a horse belonging to F. Weatherly and attached to a dog-cart took a run down Broadway, and in passing J. P. Filbert's grocery store frightened his horse into a run, and as they both went flying down the street, Mr. Filbert's wagon collided with a dirt wagon, the grocery wagon getting smashed and the horse freed from it. Both horses kept on their run, one on each side of the street making a lively race, until Mr. Filbert's horse turned down Bancroft street and was stopped, while the other horse struck down Main street.

A competition for cheapness, and not for excellency of workmanship, is the most frequent and certain cause of the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufacturers. First-class work cannot be done at second or third-class rates in printing any more than in any other art. Fine lines and papers cost more than coarse; good workmen must paid better wages than botches; and the consumer must in all other cases, pay this increased cost, else the producer must lose money and fail in business. The growing taste for fine printing makes it comparatively easy to obtain good prices for good work; and it is rapidly becoming a fact that cheap and inferior work will no longer be tolerated, except when no other can be obtained. The business men of Council Bluffs have during the past year recognized the fact that Pryor's Book job office, No. 7 Pearl street, they can obtain first-class work at reasonable prices. The reputation earned by this office will be maintained in the future. Increased facilities enable this office to line up the motto of "Promptness, Accuracy, Neatness."

WORTHY WORSHIP.

Rev. A. K. Bates tells What it Consists In.

A Timely Talk.

The work of tearing down the Presbyterian church having been commenced that society met Sunday in Dohany's opera house, where Rev. A. K. Bates delivered a timely sermon to a large audience, from John 4: 21, 23, "Jesus saith unto her, woman, believe me, the hour cometh when ye shall neither in the mountains, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father."

"But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in the spirit and in truth; for the Father seeketh such to worship Him."

The speaker opened by saying that our meeting here this morning is a striking illustration of the truth of the text. Our own temple of worship being torn down to make room for a larger one, we can meet and worship in this building not erected for the purpose, and our worship will be just as acceptable if offered in spirit and in truth.

There was a time when it was necessary to teach men the will of God by symbols, to teach by object lessons. It was then necessary to worship in a stated place, and in one place only, that the minds of the people might be impressed with the sacredness of the act.

By this long forced sojourn in Egypt, the children of Israel had become imbricated with heathen notions concerning God, or rather many gods, and saw a god in nearly every object in nature, and it was necessary they be taught that there was one God, and that he was a living, personal God, and that imbue their minds more perfectly with this idea it was necessary that he have a fixed place of abode, and that this abode should be the fixed and only place for worshipping him. Therefore it was that the Jews were taught to worship at Jerusalem, and more latterly, when that was impossible, with their faces turned toward it. In these days we have reached another stage.

Why should we desire the bread with which the children of Israel were miraculously fed while journeying through the wilderness, when it is our blessed privilege to reach out and partake of the bread of life, whereof if a man eat he shall never hunger? Why should we desire to see the pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, when Jesus, the Sun of Righteousness, has risen to light our path, and guide us to the promised land?

The text does not preclude the idea of a fixed place and a stated time for worship. We are all creatures of habit, and it is well that we form a habit of worshipping at regular times and in a fixed place. If the stated meetings for worship were limited to three or four a year, they would not recur with sufficient frequency to form the habit of observing them, and our congregations would be even smaller than they are and that is saying a great deal.

In the language of Paul he urged his hearers to "Foreseek not the assembling of yourselves together," even if the weather was hot, and it was the season of the year when men are apt to relax their energies in every direction, except in the direction of making money. There never is any relaxation in that direction.

The speaker said he did not wish to be understood that all who acceptably worshipped God were saints. But to be acceptable worshippers they must worship in spirit and in truth.

The reverend gentleman seemed to intimate that there might be such a thing as falling from grace, for he said that he presumed that the great archangel, who rebelled against the Father, and wrought such havoc in heaven, and who was finally cast into the place prepared for him and not for man, was once an acceptable worshipper.

He closed by saying we anticipate a day when this earth and these heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll, and the firmament will melt with fervid heat, and the sea shall give up its dead. We anticipate a day when all in heaven, and earth, and all under the earth, will bow before the name of God, and worship him. Then every creature will acknowledge Jesus as Lord of all in heaven and earth. But you know as well as I know that it will avail them nothing for the devils to worship, nor the souls of the dead to bow. It will not open to them the doors of heaven which have closed them out forever. It will simply be an acknowledgment of the power of God, but will not let them into the sunshine of his favor. He therefore exhorted his hearers to be obedient to the command which they must inevitably obey, and worship God in spirit and in truth, while their worship could be accepted.

PERSONAL.

J. J. Shea, of Neola, was in the city yesterday.

J. B. Mallock, of Crescent township, visited this city yesterday.

D. H. Smith, the cedar-block paving contractor, is at Ogden.

S. W. Ferguson started last evening on a short business trip northward.

John W. Chapman is at home again, and has gained some in health by his trip eastward.

J. L. Smith left yesterday noon for Missouri to buy a stock of wood for the coming season.

Harry Birkinbine has gone to Lincoln to see about the water works contract which has been let to him.

The Rev. J. P. Fink has just returned from his labors as pastor in the St. Louis district to spend his summer vacation in Council Bluffs.

William Sherraden, Burt Evans, Dr. G. Brown, and Oscar Keeline have gone to Spirit Lake to gather up a fresh supply of fish stories.

Miss Mamie P. Vaughan, niece of Mayor Vaughan, was expected here last evening from Georgia where she has been visiting her grandfather.

J. D. Nicholson went over to Omaha yesterday, where he is to open up business near the stock yards, the prohibitory law here not being congenial to John's taste.

Mr. John Stoddard, of Little Rock, Ark., is in the city on a visit to his son, the book-keeper of the water works company. He intends going to Wyoming in a few days to look after cattle ranch interests there.

Mr. Stoddard has resided in Little Rock since 1865, and being thoroughly informed on matters in the south is an interesting and intelligent conversationalist.

Charles Stow, the editor of Barnum's big show, was in the city yesterday. He comes as near talking his way right into a newspaper fellow's heart as any man on the road. Perhaps because he has been there himself, and knows just how to take hold of the thistles without being pricked. In the course of talk he let out the fact that he studied law with Governor Cleveland, and therefore knows the democratic nominee, probably better than his modesty allows him to boast.
