CHICAGO MARKETS.

A LULL IN SPECULATION. Special Dispatch to THE BEE. CHICAGO, July 24.—"I can see how a man can make any money speculating when the market is as low as it ever gets; but it is very easy to see how he can lose a good deal."

The gentleman who made this remark said that he had just come from the wheat pit, where there were about a dozen men doing nothing. His ideas concerning the possibility of making any money on the markets at this present standpoint are apparently identical with those of nearly every operator on 'change, as none of them seemed to care to-day whether school was in session or not.

On the afternoon board prices fell off again. August wheat dropped to 83 1/2c for September, 82 1/2c for October, 81 1/2c for August, 80 1/2c for 27 1/2c. Lard declined 2 1/2c to 6. Pork remained unchanged.

The general market continues dull, and there remain low with downward tendency. There were few low prices and fancy natives that made good prices, but all common and medium, and all grassy sorts were hard to sell. The prices they are losing cost in the country. These are losing from $5 to $10 per car.

The general market was slow and the prices rather weak all around, and at the close heavy sorts were low for lower, while light, although slow and hard to sell, were not so low. Packers and shippers took little or no change. Lard and shippers took 5 to 10c for good mixed to choice, and best light made from 5.25 to 5.70. Some odds and ends sold at 5.00 to 5.10; light 160 to 210 pounds, 5.00 to 5.70.
