The Burial of William White.

B. White was held was manifested yesterday, his burial day, by the closing of terday, his burial day. Nasylv two thousand this position, refusing to release terday, his burial day, by the closing of all business places. Nearly two thousand people were present from the county and various parts of the state. The train to Tekamah yesterday morning took a delegation from Mount Calvary Commandery of Omaha and several members of the board of managers of the state board of agriculture of which Mr. White was a member. The burial was conducted by the Masons and Odd Fellows. The funeral procession was nearly a mile long, and the cortege occupied over half an honr im passing through the streets.

Here the construction of this position, refusing to release his hold, suffered a series of terrible upper cuts from Clow. Morrison paid no heed to the cries of "foul!" but kept pounding away.

Then there was a scene of great excitament, and only for the fact that everybody had been disarmed by the sheriff and posse, there would have been a terrible fight. The crowd rushed in a mass to the corner where the puglists were struggling, when Jack Davis, a well known western sport, reached over the ropes and struck Clow in the face. Clow returned the blow, striking Davis on the nose. Then a general free fight ensued. Half a dozen assailed Davis and he beat them off with a club. Davis' friends came to his aid, and they were matched by the friends of Clow, and a rough-

FOREIGN AFFAIRS,

The French Congress. Paris, August 11.-The congress at Versailles adopted, by 602 o 165, paragraph one, article two, of the revision bill, decreeing the publican form of government to be immita-le. Paragraph two, declaring menarchial extenders ineligible to the presidency, was lopted-597 to 153.

adopted—597 to 153.

Before the adoption of the article decreating a republican form of government to be immutable. Prime Minister Ferry said: "We do not demand a decree of the eternity of republicanism, but for the dignity and security of France, a degree that the rebublican regime is immutable. Freppel opposed the article, declaring it was unlikely to prevent a change in favor of Counte de Paris.

The Testimony For Goyernor Patrick Puts a Different Face on Affairs.

DAYTON, Ohlo, August 11.—The Soldiers' Home investigating committee has taken all the testimony for the prosecution, and to-day found the Paris. omte de Paris. A commotion among the left immediately curred, Floquet exclaiming, "You have enounced condemnation upon Comte de aris. We will execute it." Freppel resoned his speech and said he hoped the new congress, which assembled March 4, 1889, would replace the monarchy.

The Cholera.

MARSHILES, August 11.—Fifteen deaths from cholera here in the twenty-four hours anded at 8:30 p. m. There have been two deaths at Mont Fortargens; at Toulon, no deaths reported to day. Under the present law an allowance of seven and one-half gallons per barrel is make for shrinkage during the three 4 40 years the whisky remains in bond, and there years the whisky remains in bond, and there is no further rebate, no matter how much the actual shrinkage amount to. But if we send it to Europe and bring it back again we are required to pay tax on only the actual number of gallons. If there is a shrinkage of fifteen gallons, full allowance is made tor it. That gations, turi anowance is made for it. That consideration alone is sufficient to justify us in using Europe as a stere-house. Foreign whisky coming to this country is required to pay a tax of two dollars per gallon, but when we shipped our own product to Europe and bring it back the tax is only nine-ty cents a gallon. There is an agitation going in this country for a total abolition of inon in this country for a total abelition of in-ternal revenue taxes. I don't believe that it will fully succeed, but I should not be sur-prised to see the tax on whisky reduced as low as 50 cents a gallon. Now, if we send our boyan the defense. The sergeants of the barracks testified that the mon were not treated harshly, were not punished improperly, did not complain of personal punishment, and that none were sent to the dumps unjustly. Men often came in drunk and were sent quietly to bed, but if they remained over the pass limit bed, but if they remained over the pass limit they were put on the dump thirty days. Some officials were more harsh than needed, but very few. "Dump" work consisted in picking up the debris on the campus. The liberty of the home ground was given them, but they were not allowed a pass when once abused for several months. The quarantine quarters, where the incorrigibles, insane and the epileptics sleep, was the same as the other barracks, and under the care of a kind-hearted sergeant. There was a chance for minor officials to vent under the care of a kind-hearted sergeant. There was a chance for minor officials to vent spite and it was often used. Governor Patrick was gruff, but kind-hearted. Soldiers felt the lack of sympathy and feared strict discipline. Punishment for the infraction of rules was sure, but saldom fell on innocent heads. The burden of the complaint came from few men from each barrack. There were probably five hundred grunger. There were probably five hundred grumblers. The weakminded were misguided, and some complaining came from them. The stories of cruelty and brutality were denied. Men relating such stories were generally unreliable and imagined wrongs.
