COMPLIMENTS AND COUNTER-

Tricks of Customers to Cheat Lady Cashiers in City Restaurants.
New York Sun.
"I don't mind the emicks, and quips, and quiddities and attempts at familiarity of the customers who come in here," the lady cashier of a downtown restaurant said. "It is a part of the business of a woman who accepts such a position to endure very many things that would shock many sensitive persons. In short, one can get used to anything and simply not notice them. But it is a constant trial and a perpetual annoyance to be compelled to be on the lookout for all sorts of tricks and devices by which many persons seek to cheat the proprietor. It is difficult enough to look after those who try to slip out without paying, those who are in collusion with the waiter, those who eat a dollars worth at one table and 10 cents worth at another and try to get out without paying the ten cent check.
That sort of cheating is easily detected.
"But the most difficult thing to do is to escape taking bad money. It seems as if all the men who have had money to pass try to pass it on lady cashiers. They seem to think we don't know the money when we see it. They will hand out a regular old time counterfeit and try to distract our attention with a joke or a compliment. The game of deceiving lady cashiers with that sort of thing is very transparent. I have got so used to it that when a man pays me a compliment now I always take a second look to see whether he is giving me bad money. The other day a dude came in here with one of the new counterfeit silver certificates. I had read about it in a newspaper, and a policeman had just called at the door to warn us not to take them. The dude ate a hearty meal. His check was 80 cents, and he wanted a quarter's worth of change. He threw out one of the new counterfeit silver certificates, saying as he stepped to the cigar case:
"Two for a quarter, please."
"I saw at a glance that the note was bad. I did not like to offend him by refusing it at once, so I took it up to inspect it."
"Eighty cents and twenty-five," he said carelessly.
"Excuse me, I remarked, 'but this note has a strange look to me."
"Oh, that's all right," he said; "it's one of the new issue. Your hair looks very neat this morning."
"Yes," he said. "Could you not give me another note?"
"Really," he said, "I would not have troubled you, but I wanted the change for car fare. You can give me all silver if you have no small bills. Your eyes are very bright."
"I am sorry I have not change enough in the drawer," I said. "I will send out one of the waiters to get change."
"This staggered him and he took the note back and handed out 80 cent change and I was so well pleased at detecting him that I did not discover until after he had left that he had given me a lead 50-cent piece. I know several lady cashiers who lost from 20 to 50 per cent of their salaries for months before they learned to detect bad money. One learned it is surprising how quick you can tell it. You can not tell how you tell it, but you do as the saying is, 'feel it in your bones.' At first it made me nervous and apprehensive, and almost sick to keep up the constant strain of being on my guard.
Even now I wonder how the cashiers in the big banks do it so quickly. They have so much to handle that they can hardly give a glance at each note. But of course they do not labor under the disadvantages of having soft nonsense talked to them to distract their attention.
"It seems as if counterfeit money is growing much more plentiful all the time, and the variety of notes is now considerable when the different issues are considered. It is really easy to talk to learn the appearance of all genuine notes.
"Then we must look out for pasted notes and mutilated notes, and all sorts of light and bogus coins. I assure you with all this responsibility a lady cashier has not much time for silly talk with customers."

Chariton has voted a five per cent tax to aid in the building of the St. Louis, Iowa & Dakota railroad.
A few more saloons have closed up in Davenport, and the various grades of stimulants are practically relegated to private life.
Sheriff McCord, of Marshalltown, has almost recovered from the effects of the wound inflicted by the desperado, Reynolds, some time ago.
The supply of logs at the Davenport mills is getting short, and the water is so low that it is almost impossible to get rafts over the rapids.
Coe Aydelotte, of Newton, committed suicide last week. He has been mentally deranged for over a month owing to a severe case of sunstroke.
The Creston fair will be held September 23, 24, 25 and 27. Great preparations are being made to make it a complete success in every respect.

—Creston will pay a ten mill tax for city purposes and one mill tax for a sinking fund for the coming year. This will bring into the city treasury between $12-000 and $13,000.
The water furnished private consumers in Des Moines is now measured out at 20 to 40 cents per 1,000 gallons. The greater part of the water is pumped from the Coon river without filtering.
The fall term of Anny college, located at College Springs, Pottawattomie county, begins on the first of September, and the institution is better equipped than ever before for the thorough education of students.
The Des Moines Leader says: We have the biggest distillery in the world, an editor with the biggest case of the big head, as well as several other items of unapproachable magnitude, and now we are having the biggest roller skating rink in the world.
San Baer, a well-known farmer, three miles from Lebanon, Linn county, suicided on the 8th by hanging himself in his barn. He was about 45 years of age, one of the wealthiest men in the county, happy in his domestic relations, and no cause whatever can be given for the act.
A tramp giving the name of James Dunlap gave a Northwestern bridge-trander named Ward in the head on the 12th.
The ball penetrated his nose and is still imbedded somewhere in his head, but apparently has touched no vital part. The result, however, is yet uncertain. The man Dunlap is in jail.
Over more than 7,000 square yards.
The front of the building will be over forty feet high, with handsomely curved windows, large balconies and crowned with an ornamental tower. Over the skating floor the ceiling will be 17 feet high. There are to be galleries for spectators around the inside, a large band stand and all necessary arrangements, including parlors for both ladies and gentlemen.
The Creston Advertiser of the 15th says: Anthony Hines, who owns a quarter section of land near Creston, and who went to Nebraska some years ago and took up land, is reported as dead, supposedly murdered. He was hauling rock for a neighbor, near Crete, Neb., who arrived home with his load ahead of Hines. He went back about a mile and a half, where he found Mr. Hines lying dead on one side of his wagon, and his horses gone. It is supposed he was foully dealt with.

A new phase of the prohibition contest was developed at Burlington some days ago. The attorney of the law and order league, after commencing the prosecution of saloon keepers before justices of the peace, settled the matter, exacting from the accused $250, which was paid into the league treasury. This proceeding excited much comment from citizens generally, and now the saloon keepers have retaliated and arrested Blake, the attorney, for compounding an offense, in violation of section 4,316 of the code, in two cases. Blake gives a bond for $500 in each case to appear for trial.

THE HARDSHIPS OF A BASE-BALL UMPIRE.
Umpire McLean has been telling a reporter of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch about the troubles that beset his calling.
"We get it," said he, "from all sides.
The papers give it to us, the players kick, and the audience howl, and yet we are not happy. Seriously speaking, however, we do not have the most pleasant lives imaginable. The catchers and pitchers of these league teams are tricky as mules—particularly those of the Chicago and Boston teams, while Providence is something terrible. We see a close position, and standing near the players in the most advantageous position we make our ruling. The player against whom it is made starts a howl and his captain backs him up in it. I have found that the best way to get along is just to shut them up short and tell them that I am running the game.
Several times I have had to fine players for abusing me in the field. I hate to do it and find that they generally obey when I speak sharply to them, but once in a while they let their feelings run with them and then they suffer. If the people who watch a ball game and utter vigorous dissent when we make a close decision that does not please would only remember that we are striving to earn our salaries honestly and are not particularly anxious to make unjust decisions, which will endanger our positions, they will see that we are nearly always in the right. Of course, I do not say that we are always correct. An umpire is but human and does not have a hundred eyes, and may overlook a point occasionally, but in the main we are correct.
The players give us much trouble. The rules say they shall stand behind the second line. Well, some of the boys, particularly those of the Chicago and Provi-denze teams, willfully violate that rule and make fun of us. I tell you, they will be brought up with fines if they don't look out. Again, such catchers as Nava and Buck Ewing are in the habit of taking a ball from away out and quickly bringing it down in front of them as though it had come straight over the batter, and kicking when we call a ball on them. I tell you ball players are up to all sorts of tricks, and nothing but the clearest watch will keep us from being beaten by them."
