Logan The Receipt of a Warm Greeting at Jamestown, N. Y.

Political Notes From Various Points— Illinois Anti-Monopolists—Etc.

Special Dispatch to THE BEE.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 18.—The outrageous action of the Sentinel, in giving publicity to the charges against the character of Blaine's wife and the prompt action of Blaine in calling the management to account therefor, has got the democratic party in this state into a peck of trouble. The editor made the charges without consulting any of the party leaders, and the result is to put them in a very tight hole. In fact they are "between the devil and the deep sea." To

REPERUTE THE SENTINEL would be to lop off one of the most effective aids of the party during the campaign; to endorse it in the face of Blaine's suit, and of editorial expressions by the leading democratic papers repudiating the whole thing, would give the republicans the best kind of text to lampoon them. The result is, that McDonald hastens back from West Virginia, where he expected to spend the summer in watching the movements of the opposition, and Herricks takes a fast train home from the east, where he expected to radiate all the WISDOM CONCENTRATED IN THE TAIL of the old tick till within a couple of weeks of election day.

Heads at the Hoosier democratic headquarters will be laid very close together for the next few days for the purpose of formulating some means of getting out of the scrape. McDonald gives it out that he is opposed to personal abuse in the campaign, that the Sentinel's attack was disgraceful and should not have been made, even if true; that it put the party in a very embarrassing position, and that as far as he can see the only thing to do is to apologize. Most of the leaders, however, while not caring to stand squarely behind the Sentinel, are opposed to doing the honorable thing, and hope to effect a compromise of some sort which will resemble the democratic tariff plank, reading one way as a disclaimer and another way as a criticism of the charges.

His rafter hanging against how, however, that a man of Blaine's make up, when he has his eyes on the prize, will do anything to get it, "sounded" sufficiently loud enough for everybody to hear. It is not to be expected that

McDONALD in view of the way he was treated by Herricks at the democratic convention, will be very enthusiastic. In fact there are evidences that he and his friend Henry Watterson, an interview and an editorial in the Courier Journal to repudiate the story, saying he had investigated fifteen years ago and found it utterly unworthy of credence.

Logan on His Tour.

CHAUTAUQUE, August 18.—About fifty of the leading republicans of Jamestown arrived here this morning to escort Senator Logan to the city on his way to Chicago via Cory, Meadville and Marion. In passing through the outlet the party met a steamer crowded with passengers who cheered General Logan. At Jamestown dock he was met by a post of the G. A. R. and cordially welcomed. The party drove to the hotel through streets packed with people. General Logan delivered an address of welcome. Logan responded briefly. There was great applause and waving of hats and handkerchiefs at the close of his speech. The demonstration was spontaneous and uprisant. About one thousand persons participated.
