COUNCIL BLUFFS.
 Wednesday Morning September 3.
 SUBSCRIPTION RATES: 25 cents per week
 By Mail - - - - - $10.00 per year
 OFFICE:
 No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.
MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's fall goods.
 W. T. Cole has succeeded the firm of Cole & Maxwell in the livery business.
 The county board at its session yesterday devoted most of its time to the consideration of roads.
 John C. Shepherd and Edna R. Wightman, both of Weston, were yesterday given permit to marry.

In the circuit court yesterday the case of Morris against the city was still on trial but nearing its end.
 Justine Schurz yesterday happily tied the knot matrimonial which made Hamp, Brady and Carrie Buyers, both of Omaha, husband and wife.

It has been discovered that sometime during the vacation sneaks have pilfered the Stutsman street and Bloomer school buildings, stealing the waste baskets, hand bells, and other little articles.

The letter carriers are making great preparations for their annual ball Sept. 10, at Bloom & Nixon's hall. There should be no trouble in disposing of a large number of tickets, as the boys are entitled to a benefit.

Wm. Donald, who has been teaming for Mott's lumber yard and who occupied a room near the yard, has been victimized by sneak thieves who got away with a $35 suit of clothes, a $15 overcoat and a valise.

A man named Murphy has been relieved from the janitorship of the Bloomer school building. It is said that he used his tongue a little too freely in talking to some women to suit the board. Hugh Goss has been put in his place.

Rose C. Griffin has commenced an action for divorce from James E. Griffin, on the ground of abusive treatment. They were married in Yankt in April, 1872, and have separated once, but made up, and now she wants a separation for good.

There was a rousing republican rally at Carson Monday night, at which Frank Shinn spoke, as did also Milton Zortman, a young man who casts his first vote this fall, and whose maiden speech proved an excellent one. Arrangements are made for another and greater rally on the 15th, when Judge Lyman will speak.

J. Reiter, whose tailoring establishment on Broadway is one of the most popular resorts for those who delight in being well dressed, has been getting one of the finest stocks of fall goods he ever had, presenting a great variety. You should drop in and examine them, see styles, get prices, etc.

The Main Street Flag.

The evening democratic paper raised a howl about the republican demonstration on Saturday night, not only ridiculing the whole affair, even at the sacrifice of truth, but went so far as to claim that some of the republican torch-bearers attempted to burn the democratic banner, which appears to have no foundation in fact beyond the jocosely uplifting of one of the marcher's torches, who laughingly remarked that the flag hung so low it could easily be scorched. To offset this sensational perversion of the evening paper it is claimed by the republicans who promise to bring adozan democratic witnesses to prove it, that along the line of march the torchbearers were not only called all sorts of names, and insulted in various ways, but that one gang threw mud at them. The democrats should look at home before they talk mud more. If the same insults had been offered a democratic parade, they would have come out with howling headlines about the great republican outrage.

Some strange suspicions have been expressed about the large flag which the democrats have hung out on Main street. It is said that the democratic flag on Broadway is the one used four years ago, and the question arises where they got the one they hung out on Main street. The republicans had one four years ago, but somehow it has got lost, or at least the republicans are unable to find it this year. It is possible that the democratic flag on Main street is the republican's lost Charlie Hoast! This is the query which is being asked.

SAD SUICIDE.
 A Shenandoah Young Lady Ends Her Life With a Bullet.

The sad and startling news comes from Shenandoah that Miss Mable Griffith, daughter of John N. Griffith, the well-known stock and grain dealer of that place, had ended her life by the use of a revolver. A correspondent of the Globe sends the following details of the event:
 Mabel was fifteen years old in June last, and had, with a sister next younger, attended the Normal College at this place several terms. During the last two or three weeks her parents were undecided whether to send the girls to the college or to the high school. Yesterday morning, at the breakfast table, Mabel inquired whether they were to go to the college or the public school, and received the answer from her parents that they thought it best for them to go to the public school. She left the table crying bitterly, and when the family were preparing for church said she would not go to church today, as she was not feeling well. The fine farm residence of Mr. Griffith is about two miles east of town. The family, in their carriage, started for church, Mabel and her father remaining at home. Mr. Griffith was lying on the sofa sleeping, and Mabel sat at the desk writing. The father fell asleep. She took the note she had written, pinned it to her dress, went to her room, and just as the family were coming in the front gate, on their return from church, fired the fatal shot.

The family have the sympathy of all in their terrible affliction. They have three girls and two boys younger left. Mabel was their oldest and a girl of quiet, lady-like habits. She was idolized by her parents, and almost her every wish was granted, and the little tantrum that ended so sadly was thought to be only a girlish whim that she would soon get over; but not so, and she seemed to brood over it, and calmly decided that suicide was no new thing to her; that she had thought of it before; that she would rather die than be disgraced by being sent to the public school. She bade them all good-bye, and requested that her body should be thrown into the river or burned, and that she did not want to be buried in the ground, as she might come to life again. The remains were buried today in the Shenandoah cemetery. The funeral services were brief, and at the house. The procession formed at the house and proceeded to the cemetery. It was a half mile long. Mr. Griffith's acquaintance is very large. The crime was committed as the family were coming in the front gate on their return from church. The family heard the report, but not knowing what had happened. A younger sister ran up stairs to take off her things, when she found Mabel lying face down upon the floor. She called her father, who had not heard the shot and was still dozing. He hastened to the room and lifted the prostrate form of his daughter, supposing she had only fainted. There pinned to her dress was the note, the contents of which were on the desperate deed. Her professors at the college say that as a student she was a most amiable and well-dispositioned girl. The verdict of the coroner's jury was "death by her own hand, while suffering from temporary insanity." This closes another chapter in the history of our city that has cast a pall over the entire community.

THE FIVE POINTS.

Ill Feeling and Wrangles Among the Men Who Wear Stars.

The city police headquarters is not a very harmonious sort of place now. There seems to be a good deal of ill-feeling and petty jealousies among the members of the police force, and a sort of breach between the city marshal and the chief of police. Night before last Officer Ed. Bates was sharply reprimanded by his chief, Tom Skinner, for leaving his beat without permission. Bates explained that he had left a note at headquarters explaining the necessity of his being away for a few hours, the chief not being there to consult with in person, and he not having time to go to his house. The chief insisted that he had no business to leave his beat without permission, and some sharp words following, Bates pulled off his star, gave his whistle a jawrall toot, and said he would not belong to "the gang" as he called them, any longer. The chief has put in his place James Anderson, a young man who bears an excellent reputation, and will doubtless prove a good officer. Yesterday Bates appeared with another star on his breast this one being that of Deputy-Marshal Guannella having appointed him. This seems like a throwing down of the gauntlet to Chief Skinner and an open avowal that the marshal and chief of police will not pull together.

Real Estate Transfers.

PERSONAL.

Lieutenant-Governor Manning is at home again.
 L. H. Mossler and wife have returned from the east.
 J. Y. Fuller has returned from an extended trip through the east.
 C. E. Taylor and wife left yesterday for St. Joe, where they will visit the fair.
 Mrs. J. C. Stewart, of Webb City, Mo., is in the city visiting her brother, County Clerk Street and family.
 H. L. Miller, the general agent of the Geo. K. Oyler Manufacturing company, has returned from a Nebraska trip.
 F. H. French, of Lincoln, has taken the position of book-keeper in the agricultural machinery house of J. W. Kleeb & Co.
 Mrs. J. M. Scanlon, who has been visiting in Pennsylvania for the past two months, is expected to return home this morning.
 E. A. Helm, manager for the branch house of the Sandwich Manufacturing company, left last evening for a brief visit to Des Moines.

The Electric Girl.

Yesterday forenoon Miss Mattie Lee Price, the electric girl of Georgia, gave a private exhibition of her peculiar power, in the parlors of Bechtel's hotel, to which the representatives of the city press were invited. The little lady is said to be only fourteen years of age, and certainly looks fully as young as that, a rather pretty face, petite form, and modest manner. Her power is a strange one, by whatever name different people may choose to call it. She performs feats which it would take a giant's strength to do, and yet, apparently with no muscular exertion, but simply by some secret power, known not even to herself. In order to give her something easy to start on, Clark, the elongated newspaper fiend, was given the hickory stick to hold, and as he clutched it with a desperate attempt to make some reputation for muscle, the electric girl simply touching the ends of the stick with the palms of her hands, twisted it, and turned it, while Clark in his desperate efforts to hold on and keep his balance, kept retreating, until he tumbled over into an easy chair, with his head going bump up against the wall. Then Hunter, the heavy-weight of the Nonpareil, who has just enough malaria left in him to feel cross, took the stick and grasped it with a feeling of conscious power as he gave Clark a contemptuous side glance at the latter's weak showing. Hunter held on, but he danced about like a performing jumbo, in his frantic attempt to hold on. He fell exhausted on the sofa, and was brought to by a dash of cold water. Whittlesey, the terror of the Globe, who writes up such sensational yarns about republican outrages, got his bull-dozing grip on the stick, and called Maynard, the business manager, to help him up. They fell in a heap, and declared it was even harder than to find any news in the Globe. Then the little Miss had the party held onto chairs, which she twisted just as easily by her magnetic, electric, or whatever it may be called, touch. The best feat was in lifting. First, Clark sat in the chair and by simply touching it with her hands she lifted him, chair and all, six inches from the floor. It was the getting down, though, that broke Clark up. He fell in a heap like a pile of whiplashes, and the chair was broken in the tumble. Finally three of the party with a total weight of 480 pounds got on to the chair and she lifted these easily in a like manner. There was no need of further tests to satisfy the visitors that she was a little wonder anyway.

FIXING FOR THE FAIR.

Council Bluffs to be Well Represented Across the River.
 It has been decided by the managers of the driving park and fair association that a fair here wouldn't be advisable this season. It appears that in some lines at least, it cannot be for a lack of material to make up an exhibition, as is evident from the following list of those who make headquarters here, and who are preparing to make exhibits at the Omaha fair:
 H. L. Miller, general agent for George K. Oyler Manufacturing company.
 H. C. Addis, general agent for Perkins Windmill company.
 C. D. Harmon, manager western branch of Hooper Drill company.
 C. H. Hoeland, general agent and also one of the directors of the Peru Plow company.
 E. W. McCargher, general agent Buckeye binders and reapers.
 Deere, Wells & Co., are to be represented by W. H. H. Pierce, F. L. Haller, G. Hamilton and several other gentlemen.
 E. A. Helm, manager, F. A. Sprague, cashier, C. L. McDonald and A. Wall are to look after the interests of the Sandwich Manufacturing company.
 A. A. Parsons, general agent for St. Paul harvester company.
 G. C. Prescott, general agent for Plano manufacturing company.
 J. P. McKesson, general agent for Northwestern Manufacturing and Car company.
 J. S. Gretzer, general agent for Grand Detour Plow company.
 H. C. Barnes, general agent for J. I. Case Plow company.
 The David Bradley & Co.' exhibit will be looked after by W. W. Loomis, treasurer, E. H. Morrison, secretary, W. R. Judd, J. E. Ludlow and H. C. Cook, Shugart, Waite & Vies by J. A. Crowley and W. C. Stacy.
 G. C. Melburg, and E. H. Haworth, representing Hawthorn Check-roller.
 H. H. Van Brunt, J. J. Vanderveer, J. C. Lockwell, and G. W. Thompson, representing the agriculturists implement house of Van Brunt, Thompson & Co.
 W. S. Cass, manager, Marseilles Manufacturing company's branch house, W. H. Taylor and C. L. Hammel will represent the same.
 The Keystone manufacturing company will be represented by W. L. Patterson, manager, C. Hubbard, and R. Stewart.
 A. B. Enderton, general agent for the Eagle Manufacturing company.
 J. Cartwell, general agent for Springfield Engine and Thresher company.
