

THE DAILY BEE.

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Friday Morning September 5.

Subscription Rates: By Carrier 30 cents per week; By Mail $10.00 per year.

Office: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's fall goods. The county supervisors yesterday afternoon made a trip to Vaughan avenue.

The parking about the Baptist church have been completed, improving the looks of the property greatly.

A Blaine and Logan Glee club of about thirty members has been organized under the charge of J. M. Treynor.

Regular meeting of Fidelity Council No. 156, R. A., this evening. All members are requested to be present.

There is to be a moonlight picnic this evening by the "Y. K. W.," which being interpreted means "You Know Who."

Seven or eight carpenters are busy on the new building of the Home of the Friendless, and it will soon be completed.

Mike O'Brien had the distinction of being the only case in police court yesterday. He was only charged $7.00, no advantage being taken of his situation.

Ed. Fairman, one of THE BEE carrier boys, is becoming quite a skillful penman under the instruction of the Western Iowa college, and is able to do some very fancy as well as plain penmanship.

The letter carriers are planning for a great time at their ball in Bloom & Nixon's hall, September 10. The public ought to show its appreciation of the boys by giving them a rousing benefit.

At least three well-known confidence men are almost daily seen on the streets here. They ought to be known to the police, at least, as well as they are known to outsiders, and ought to be invited to see how the land looks beyond the city limits.

The Ladies' Harmony Mission society will give another of their pleasant "dime" sociables Friday evening, September 5, at the residence of C. M. Burgess, 327 Logan street. Entertainment by Mrs. C. M. Burgess and Mrs. Phil Moorman. All are cordially invited.

Barnum's advertising car was here yesterday. It has a calliope built in one end, and this was started up with its unearthly howlings at so early an hour yesterday morning, that the disturbed slumbers were yesterday after the scalp of the responsible calliopeist, wherever he was.

The body of Rev. Father Mulholland laid in state yesterday in the Catholic church. He was clad in his vestments, and surrounded by the lighted candles and some beautiful floral tributes, including a cross and wreath. The funeral services will be held at ten o'clock this morning.

John G. Wilson, the shoemaker, was in again yesterday for a continuation of his old drunk. Wilson's case is a sad one, a nice old gentleman but for this weakness, a fine family, and many friends who would gladly help him. He still seems to have lost his grip and is almost lost to all sense of shame.

One of the saddest showings of what whiskey will do when it becomes master, was made recently at the city jail, where a man roaring drunk, was locked up by request of his family while the funeral of his daughter was in progress, he not being in any condition to be present without disturbing the last sad rites.

A dog belonging to Mrs. Jones, whose name has recently been given such unpleasant notoriety in connection with the church trial, seemed to be going mad, not on account of the church trial, but because a dog supposed to be mad had bitten him. Deputy Marshal Bates with his little gun ended the dog's life.

It is currently reported that on Mayor Vaughan's return there will be a general change in the police force, which seems to have become demoralized during his absence, if not before. The reported changes have brought out about sixty applicants, all of whom expect to get the first chance to whisper in the mayor's ear, when he returns.

T. D. King & Co., are getting their new quarters, nearly opposite the opera house, in fine shape, it being one of the neatest cigar stores and factories in the city. Among the new additions in the way of signs is a mammoth cigar, about six feet long, turned out of wood at Phillip's axe factory, and Jim Bradley painted it up in fine shape.

The kindergarten started by the Home of the Friendless association, opens Monday next in the chapel of the Baptist church. The material has arrived and is of the best, consisting of chairs, tables and all other necessaries, and a piano is already in place, and an assistant teacher is secured. The success of the school seems insured, as a number of pupils are already enrolled. All who desire to have their little folks get the advantage of kindergarten instruction under competent teachers should be at the chapel Monday morning.

Some of the papers in their report of the recent bar meeting, fall into the error of stating Mr. Jacob Sims' joined in the call. Mr. Sims was absent from the city at the time the arrangements were made for the meeting, and on his return, at first acquiesced, but learning the nature of the work, gave notice two days before the meeting that he and his friends would not participate, as they did not wish to be bound by the action of the meeting. It is understood that Mr. Sims' friends prefer to settle the matter at the primaries.

An Englishman, named M. L. Davis, was arrested here on telegram from Le-Mars, and yesterday the officer from there was here after him. It appeared that Davis, who is a civil engineer, was bound for California, taking with him his instruments, on which there was a chattel mortgage. He said that he gained the necessary permission of the man to whom he gave the mortgage, to take the instruments with him, but it seems this man had sold the mortgage to another man who did object. The matter was adjusted in some way so that Davis was allowed to pursue his journey.

One of the clerks in a Broadway store seeing a dog hanging about the place, concluded it would be a good joke to paint the canine with some white paint which was being used for some purpose about the store. He had just got his sides rested from laughing so heartily at the appearance of the painted dog, when the proprietor of the store, the clerk's "boss," came in, and seeing the dog in this condition, fairly howled, "Who in hades has been painting my dog?" It dawned on the young man then that it was not a stray dog, but belonged to his employer. The latter made the young man undo the work, and by the time the clerk had scrubbed the paint off the dog, he was "mighty glad he had his laugh first."

Some of the city officials are kicking lustily because the telegraphs, the contents of letters, etc., of the bond-sellers leak out, or at least are learned and published by THE BEE, and sometimes by other papers. They are roaring because the news is not kept quiet, and they charge various parties with leaking. The second meeting of the council held in Vaughan's back room, at which $900 was appropriated to pay the expenses of the trip east, indicates that some of the officials at least, prefer darkness rather than light. The officials may not be able to learn how THE BEE finds out the contents of the telegrams, but in justice to the telegraph office, it shall be said that THE BEE does not know of any leak there and does not believe there is any, and further, that THE BEE gets the news in a legitimate way.

A CUNNING COUPLE.

They Seem To Be Trying to Work The City.

A mysterious acting man and woman has appeared here lately, and have acted so queerly in some ways that the keen-eyed ones have watched them some.

They act at times as if husband and wife, and at other times very differently. The woman at times separates from the man and seems to be making moves of a dirty nature to say the least, but the man hovers about within a short distance, it being evident that her attempts at attracting the attention of other men, are not without the knowledge or consent of her male partner.

Yesterday morning they were at one of the depots moving about separately in the crowd and acting as if strangers to each other, but were afterward seen to meet again, and finally went off together. "By, jove," said a traveling man to one of THE BEE men, as he chanced to see the couple, "have you got that man and woman here? They're tough ones." Then he went on to tell what he knew about them. He said their game was the injured husband "racket," a regular blackmailing scheme, in which the woman, caught by the supposedly enraged husband in the embrace of some other man, threatens all sorts of vengeance and exposure, and is finally hushed by as large a sum of money as can be squeezed out of the victim. He went on to name two or three towns in the state, out of which they had driven on account of the indignation felt at their attempts at blackmailing. One hotel was the scene of their operations and the landlord ejected them both bodily in the middle of the night. They are not a very prepossessing looking couple in some respects, but still are liable to get some licentious man into their grip. The police ought to be on the lookout for them, and give them a benefit the first crooked work they attempt.

The County Bonds.

The county supervisors were yesterday forenoon busy in considering the road matters. Then the matter of the injunction suit pending in regard to the new court house question came up. It will be remembered that last spring C. R. Scott got a temporary injunction preventing the counting of the vote of Knox and Layton townships. By keeping these out the majority was in favor of building a new court house. Fremont Benjamin in the interest of Avoca, got out an injunction restraining the county board from issuing the bonds for this purpose. Yesterday the board wanted Scott to have his injunction dissolved, but he wanted Benjamin to dissolve his first. The latter said that if Scott would first let his injunction drop he would then drop his, but Scott insisted he had a case and would not drop it. The matter is practically settled now, for the county board would not under the circumstances go ahead and issue bonds and build a new court house. Another election will have to be held before the matter is satisfactory settled, and all the laying done in the meantime will interest the people little unless the county has some coin to pay in the matter.

PERSONAL.

E. H. Hinkley, of Walnut, was in the city yesterday. Col. Abbott has gone to Fremont to attend the reunion there. Robert Cairns, who represents Cook & Augsburg of Cedar Rapids, was in the city yesterday. O. G. Heister, who represents Flint's tobacco factory of Milwaukee, was in the city yesterday. He talks "May Queen," and other of his pet brands with a happier smile than ever, for since his last visit here a bouncing boy has come into his home, back in Wisconsin.

INSULTING THE INNOCENT.

A Dirty Fellow Attempts Liberties With a Young Lady on a Passenger Train.

A Travelling Man Protects Her, and the Fellow Skips.

On yesterday morning's incoming passenger train on the Northwestern road, was a young girl about fourteen years of age, who was going down to Glenwood to visit friends. A beastly sort of a fellow, garbed in somewhat of a decent appearing human form, and who was occupying a seat near the girl, commenced talking with her, and his manner attracted the attention of some of the passengers, he evidently keeping up a licentious ogling, which soon apparently became evident even to the inexperienced eyes of the young girl.

A traveling man on the train was among those who watched the performance, and it soon progressed to such a serious extent that the girl began to cry. It appears that the beast had even asked her to slip into the ladies' dressing room, he evidently intending to follow her there, and then as she became frightened, he began to take some sly but outrageous liberties on her. As the train was drawing into Missouri Valley, he was overheard to tell the girl, "This is where you want to get off," and was actually trying to make her believe that she had to change cars there for Glenwood.

The traveling man, who had heard enough and seen enough to satisfy himself that something decidedly wrong was going on, stepped up to the fellow, and informed him in about as plain, forcible language as any one could command that the best thing he could do was to skip right out of that car, and that if he did not he would suffer somewhat as he deserved for his gross insult to the girl.

The fellow made a public effort to deny that he had been doing or saying anything very bad, when another traveling man came to the front and said that if one couldn't throw him out two could. The fellow went on the platform at Missouri Valley, a much safer place than it would have been for him on the train after the details of his action had been learned. The little girl came the rest of the way to this city well protected, and fortunately met here an old friend of the family who took her in his charge.

An Appeal.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Sept. 3, 1884.

To a Generous Public:

Dear Friends—The members of the A. M. E. church, of this city, having nearly completed their building, were forced to suspend operations on account of a scarcity of funds. In view of this we do earnestly appeal to you for your kind assistance; trusting you to give us immediate assistance before the cold weather sets in.

Our pastor, Rev. R. H. Williamson, is duly authorized to solicit contributions, which we assure you will be gratefully received and faithfully applied, and we shall commend you to Him who has promised that "The liberal soul shall be made fat."
