Ohio is just now acting in the capacity of a contribution box for both political parties.

Belmont, the red-headed rooster of the Rockies, was not nominated for congress by the republicans of Colorado.

When such a distinguished Irishman as Congressman John F. Finerty, from the Irish-American district of Chicago, emphatically declares his intention of voting for Blaine, and asserts that the election of Cleveland would be a misfortune and a curse, it means something.

The democrats, of course, are attempting to make capital out of the fact that the prohibitory amendment was carried in Maine by an overwhelming majority.

The English government is trying a novel experiment in life insurance. Policies for sums not over $125 are now granted at any post office savings bank without any medical examination.

The great issue in Maine was, shall the Plumed Knight be endorsed? The pine-tree state answered in no uncertain tone.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The Nebraska state university begins its fourteenth year under the brightest auspices. The faculty has been reinforced and is now stronger than during any previous year in the history of the institution.

The people of Nebraska will be pleased to learn that an effort at least is to be made to secure the location of the new soldiers' home in this state.

It has often been said that it costs one dollar for every dollar of gold taken out of the ground. The philosopher of the Boston Advertiser probably had this in mind when he evolved the following:

The next battle of the campaign will occur in Ohio, and all eyes are now turned towards that state. Desperate efforts are being made by the democrats.

THE CAR OF RUSSIA and the emperors of Austria and Germany are holding a conference at Skierneville, which seems to be more of a social hand-shaking affair than anything else.

WESTERN NEWS.

DAKOTA. A 162-pound squash grown in Union county is to be exhibited at eastern fairs.

IDAHO. Upwards of 200 families have taken up homes in the Lost River valley this season.

WYOMING. Cheyenne now illuminates with gas. Bunko steers are harvesting the fall crop of greens in Cheyenne.

NEBRASKA. The Black Hills narrowly escaped an earthquake last week. Some unknown cause attempted to fire a powder house a few miles outside of Rapid City.

NEBRASKA. A gentleman who says he wanted to satisfy himself whether or not southern Dakota is a good corn country, visited a fifty-acre field three and one-half miles southwest of York.

INDUSTRIES IN SWITZERLAND.

The third volume of the federal census of 1880, which has just been published, contains some interesting facts touching the population of the confederation.

Switzerland is a country of small farms, and the population is distributed in a very uneven manner. The canton of Geneva is the most densely populated.

The canton of Zurich is the most densely populated. It contains 1,168,137 individuals, equal to 410.43 per 1,000 of the population.
