

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. Friday Morning November 7.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES. By Carrier 30 cents per week. By Mail $10.00 per year.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's new fall stock of cloth. A number of the democratic betters were hedging yesterday.

The county board meets on next Monday to canvass the vote.

H. R. Stewart, the crayon artist, has just completed a portrait of the late Frank Keeline.

Mr. James Burns has purchased a residence on Tenth avenue, No. 1,616, and has already taken possession.

The Methodist church choir concert in Masonic hall this evening will prove a treat which all music lovers should share in.

The young people of the Baptist church have a sociable this evening at the residence of Charles Loucks, No. 128 Fairview avenue.

Mr. E. Huntington has received a telegram from his cousin, Congressman Kane, of Utah, saying that his calling and election are sure for another term.

A team belonging to Mr. McKinzie made a bold dash up Broadway, and collided with a team and wagon belonging to Mr. Person. The wreck was not a very bad one.

Permit to wed was yesterday given Wm. S. Jones and Sarah Ann Thayer, both of Washington township, and they hastened to Justice Schurz's office where the knot was tied tight.

A state convention of Y. M. C. A.'s is now in session at Omaha to-day, to-morrow and Sunday. All young men from this city are invited to be present at as many sessions as possible.

Lee Bennett, the enterprising newsman at the Pacific, yesterday morning hung out a bulletin, "Blaine very ill. See daily Bee," and then got behind his counter to meet the rush, which came and soon gobbled up his supply.

A bullet was sent into J. W. Morse's house the other day, from some mysterious source. It came crashing through the window, and it was a miraculous escape for Mrs. Morse who had hardly a moment before risen from her seat in the direct line of the bullet.

The funeral of little Jackie Stewart, son of J. T. Stewart, was held yesterday morning. The service was very tender and touching as conducted by Rev. Mr. Mackey, and the attendance was very large, the little fellow being a remarkably favorite in the entire community.

A. F. Schanck, the manager of the roller rink, has made arrangements for music at the rink every evening after tonight and has reduced the price of admission to cents to fifteen cents and the use of skates to ten cents. Ladies' admission will hereafter be ten cents and use of skates to them ten cents. He believes in popular prices.

A man named Callender, who is employed at Goo's hotel in Omaha, appeared at police headquarters with a very bloody head, and claimed that a hack driver had him with the but end of a whip because he would not pay one dollar for being taken to the transfer. He was told to appear before the court and get out a warrant, but did not show up again.

One of the minute men of the fire department has resigned because the position was not very lucrative. The first month he received 80 cents, in general fund warrants. Last month there were five alarms and he received $3.20 in general fund warrants, which besides being on hand at all hours of day and night, ready to go to any fire, he got a new $8 pair of pantaloons torn in putting out a burning chimney. He says somebody else may now work for glory.

There was intense excitement on the streets here yesterday over the reports concerning the election. First one crowd would shout and then the other, and all sorts of predictions were made, and discussions entered into. The newspaper offices were besieged by inquirers, and every possible hint of information was grasped eagerly. Business was left to look after itself, while all hands spent their time in talking over the news.

Last evening at the residence of W. S. Mayne a reception was tendered Rev. Dr. McCrary, the new pastor of Broadway Methodist church, thus affording the people a pleasant opportunity of meeting and welcoming him socially. Dr. McCrary has opened his ministrations here under very auspicious circumstances, and has made a favorable impression, and is given a hearty welcome with enthusiastic promises of receiving cordial and strong support in his work.

The young man Osborne, who was arrested on election day for illegal voting, had a hearing before George F. Wright, United States commissioner, yesterday. The charge against Osborne was that he had not resided here long enough to entitle him to a vote, but J. P. Goulden, his employer, declared that he had, and there being no evidence showing to the contrary, the young man was discharged.

George J. Walker, telephone manager here, was released from jail yesterday, where he has been carrying on the charge of embezzlement of $187 from the telephone company. His father arrived here from Nebraska and fixed up the amount of the shortage, and after paying the costs, the young man was released on his own recognition to appear before the district court. This will probably be the end of the matter. There is much sympathy expressed for the young man by his friends and acquaintances here, he seeming to be a very steady, straight sort of a boy.

A large number of workmen and teamsters have been kept waiting anxiously for their pay, the city council not getting any quorum for a meeting at which to allow the bills. These city politicians promise the workmen a great deal, when appealing for their votes, but when once in office they allow teamsters to wait their pleasure to pay them money, which they need greatly for living expenses, and then pay them in warrants, which they have to sell for just what the money-shovers choose to give. With city warrants, as they are the least the city can do, is to allow the bills promptly.

The Bee was in greater demand in Council Bluffs yesterday than ever. Its special dispatch concerning the report of Blaine's illness was a "scoop" on all the papers in this part of the west, and while the dear old grandmother was smirking over her unparalleled effort to get up six columns of telegraphic news, THE BEE as usual came out with nearly ten columns. The Nonpartisan telegraph was set, too, in briefer, while THE BEE set its in solid minlon. Instead of old plates that had been passed along the line of all the country papers, THE BEE set up in its own office fresh reading matter. Added to these advantages, THE BEE's reports have received many compliments for their fairness.

The local scribe of the Council Bluffs Herald evidently "has 'em bad." He claims to have discovered that "in the central precincts of this city, in the costly homes where the foot falls on costly tapestry, where the ear hears only the rustle of silks and satins, the eye revels in the costliest works of art, there is a society of fair philosophers with the purest of blue blood in their veins, the rarest of knowledge in their minds and the grandest of purposes in contemplation, whose range of thought and ethical discourses would have put to blush the sages of the Hegelian system and even embarrassed the metaphysicians at the Concord school of philosophy. The Critique of Kant, the Cosmos of Humboldt, the Elective Affinities of Goethe are but some of their letters which make up the alphabet of their discourses."

MYNSTER AS JUDGE.

Aylesworth Being Promoted the Mayor Fills the Vacancy.

Alderman James to Resume His Seat in the Council.

It seems pretty well settled that Judge E. E. Aylesworth of the supreme court has been elected judge of the district court, the republican candidate, Judge Looftbour, being defeated by not far from 200. The placing of Judge Aylesworth on the district bench, leaves the woolack of the superior court with no one to sit upon. The statute provides that in case of a vacancy in the office of judge of the superior court, the mayor shall appoint some one to fill it, with the approval of the council, the person so appointed to serve until the next annual city election, when the people will choose a man to succeed themselves. The election of Judge Aylesworth to the district court will probably cause quite a change about among the city officials. It is more than likely that Mayor Vaughan will appoint Judge Aylesworth's place, Alderman William Mynster. This seems probably because Vaughan thinks there is no such lawyer in the world as Mynster, and the two are great political enemies, Mynster being equally enthusiastic in his belief that no such mayor ever lived as Vaughan. If Mynster is named as judge of the supreme court there is little doubt out that the council will appreciate the appointment, but here too there is a little hitch. It will take a majority of the council to approve the appointment. Alderman James has resigned and Alderman Mynster, a chairman of the committee, has reported that by his resignation Alderman James has notified the council and unless he apologizes he should be allowed to retire. Alderman James has kept away from the council chamber, and insisted that he would have no more to do with the matter. If he should cling to this determination, or if withdrawing his resignation he should sit in council and oppose Mynster's appointment, this would count as one vote against him, Alderman Sidentopf being a republican would hardly vote for Mynster, and he has no great love for him anyway. This would make two votes against him, and Alderman Mynster could hardly vote to approve his own appointment. This would leave two votes only for him. Alderman Giese, McMahon and Keating are less than a majority.

To overcome this hitch the plan will probably be adopted for Mynster to make peace with James, and pointers indicate that this is being done. Alderman James is willing to withdraw his resignation if the offensive resolutions offered by Alderman Mynster, and adopted by the council, are expunged from the records. Alderman Mynster is willing to do this but has insisted that James should openly say he did not mean to insult the council.

Yesterday there were two attempts to get a quorum of the council—one in the morning and one in the afternoon, but both failed. Ald. James was present at the afternoon gathering, and said that he would be present at ten o'clock this morning, at which time it was informally agreed to have a meeting sure. This announcement on the part of Ald. James indicates that the hitch is to be buried, and James' vote gained for the approval of Mynster as judge. If Mynster is appointed judge this will leave a vacancy in the aldermanic board, and a special election will have to be called to fill the place.

The wires are working quietly and some of the pullers have much to say about it, but if Judge Aylesworth is elected, as now appears, the above will be about the programme to be followed.

Closing Out. To close the business I offer my stock of miscellaneous books, picture, fancy goods, notions, fire screens, easels, willow and cane high chairs and children's rockers, at prices never known before in the west. H. E. Seaman, paper, books and stationery, 504 Broadway, Council Bluffs.

THE LOCAL RETURNS.

No Change from the Results Stated in The Bee Yesterday.

A few more returns came in from the county and district yesterday, but they do not change the results already announced by THE BEE. The following will not be found to vary far from the actual count, when all the returns are in:

Table with columns: Name, Lyman, Pusey, 38, 200, 167, 144, 110, 25, 713, 236, 151, 610, 564.

On the county ticket it appears that Street is defeated for clerk of the courts, the democratic candidate, Shea, getting about 100 majority.

It is conceded that the democratic candidate for recorder, Brodbeck, is defeated by Chambers by about the same.

Jones, republican, is probably elected supervisor, but it is close.

The township ticket is carried entire by the democrats, the following being the total votes:

Table with columns: Name, DEMOCRATS, REPUBLICANS, 1,654, 1,590, 1,697, 1,561, 1,638, 1,530, 1,407, 1,305, 1,446, 1,389, 1,434, 1,452.

Yesterday afternoon there was a happy wedding, by which E. F. Wagoner and Miss E. D. Koehler were made husband and wife, the knot being tied by Rev. Mr. Lilly, at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 326 Seventeenth street, and in the presence only of the family. Both bride and groom were born in this county and have large circles of acquaintances and friends. Mr. Wagoner has been for a year and a half past clerk for Markel & Swobe at the Union Pacific hotel at the transfer, and previously was employed at the freight transfer. For the present the newly wedded ones will make their home with the bride's mother.

The roller skate mostly in favor seems to be the one with the 2 1/2 inch brass-lined wheels, the largest in use. H. L. Miller, 1009 Fourth avenue, Council Bluffs, is the western agent for these skates, and is having an immense success in selling the same. He carries a large and well assorted stock of club, half-club and strap skates.
