The presidential problem is the one topic of conversation and it is almost an impossibility to converse with a man on any other subject. To say that it is a puzzler to the masses does not half express it.

The newspaper offices, telegraph office, and places where bulletins have been posted have been besieged all day, and the news has been received with the greatest possible interest.

NOISY NEBRASKANS.

Omaha Confused by Cheers for Their Candidates.

Election Week of 1876 Repeated--Great Anxiety Over the Result.

The crowd that made Wednesday night hideous in this city, did not abate its enthusiasm last evening. If Wednesday evening was noisy, last night was noisier. The excitement of the varying returns last night kept the nerves of both republicans and democrats up to their highest tension.

Every body knows what the Minnesota wheat flour is, and Messrs McCray & Co., having unbounded faith in the Minnesota wheat, will manufacture the best grades of flour from it, as well as the Dakota and Nebraska hard wheat. It is plain to be seen that when we can get Minnesota flour at our very doors the new mill will meet with unbounded success.

The location of the mill at Seventh and Jones streets is certainly very favorable both as to receiving wheat and shipping flour, having all the railway facilities in the city. The mill is manned by old and reliable millers who thoroughly understand their business, and although turning out but 125 barrels at present, so fast as machinery arrives they will increase the production and in a short time will be turning out over 500 barrels a day.

Mr. J. E. McCray, who has been in the milling business in Minnesota for a number of years is well known among our business men, having represented Minnesota flour manufacturers in this city and one and all pronounce him to be a straight forward business man and gentleman as well as a "dandy" flour salesman.

Mr. A. M. Henderson, the "Co." of the firm, is a wealthy land owner and capitalist in Minneapolis who has great faith in Omaha. Next evening, Messrs McCray & Co. will erect a large mill on lots purchased for that purpose in the north-eastern part of the city, thereby greatly increasing their present capital invested as well as building an ornament to the city.

The fifth annual convention of the Y. M. C. A. of Nebraska, opened in the association room, corner of Fifteenth and Farnam streets, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There are eleven associations in this state and it is expected that delegates and a number of their friends will be present from each.

A horrible accident occurred at about 11 o'clock this morning at the Sisters' convent on Twelfth and Mesquite streets which resulted in the death of John Compton, a well known young man of this city. He is about eighteen years of age and resides with his mother, a widow lady, on North Third street.

A Man With a Blaine Rooster in His Arms Attracts Attention. Yesterday when the gang marched into police court a sorry looking individual with black eyes and black hair and mustache was among the number. In his arms he carried a game rooster which he hugged up to him and from his actions the fowl was his pet. He sat and fondled the fowl until his name was called, when he marched to the front, still hanging on to the rooster.

MERCHANT MILLERS.

The Only Flouring Mill in the City.

J. E. McCray & Co. will Manufacture the Best Grades Flour from Minnesota, Dakota and Nebraska Hard Wheat.

For some months past Messrs. J. E. McCray & Co., a Minneapolis firm, have been negotiating for the lease of Latham Davis' mill on the corner of Seventh and Jones, and having sold large mill interests in Minneapolis, have at last started the machinery to going and are turning out at present about 125 barrels of the best flour in the market every day. All the machinery has not yet arrived, although it is on the way, and when it does arrive Omaha can boast of having the best equipped flouring mill in the west, and by the way, the only one in the city.

Every body knows what the Minnesota wheat flour is, and Messrs McCray & Co., having unbounded faith in the Minnesota wheat, will manufacture the best grades of flour from it, as well as the Dakota and Nebraska hard wheat. It is plain to be seen that when we can get Minnesota flour at our very doors the new mill will meet with unbounded success.

taken to jail last night he was drunk and as soon as he was put behind the bars he gave three rousing cheers for Blaine. He spent the greater part of the night in trying to get the rooster to crow for Blaine, but as the fowl had evidently had private advices from New York, it stubbornly refused to do so.

Louis Schneider was taken off of a street car last night in a boozey state of intoxication, and was fined $5 and costs. He produced a roll of bills amounting to nearly $400 and paid the bill. Jailer Gorman then tried to get him to deposit his money in a bank until he got straightened up, but he refused to do so, and he will probably fall a prey to some of the hard class about the city.

In West Omaha precinct Hon. Chas. H. Brown's vote for congress was 110 instead of 101 as stated last night. For assessor in the same precinct Wm. C. J. Ryan received 126 votes, while Chas. Tietz received 1.
