Henry Fawcett,

LONDON, November 7-The late postmaster general, the Rt-Hon. Henry Fawcett, whose general, the Rt-Hon. Henry Fawcett, whose death was announced to-day, was a general favorite with the Iraders of both the liberal and the tory parties. A great deal of his popularity may be accounted for, however, by the seneral sympathy which was expressed for the total blindness with which he was afflicted. Astonishment has always been exdressed at the successful manner in which Mr. Fawcett conducted the camples division of his office without the aid of the duties of his office without the aid of the senses of sight, and in this connection a great deal of praise has been bestowed upon Mrs. Fawcett, who has for years acted in the capacity of private secretary to her husband, often accompanying him to the house of commons when he expected to speak, and rendering him material assistance in the performance of his cuties as postmaster general.

Criticising Our Election Methods. LONDON, November 7.-The tory papers to night contain large articles descriptive of the violence and fraud which they assert universally prevailed throughout America during the election of Tuesday. They call the attention of Englishmen to this phase of American republicanism, and insist that it should be a terrible warning to them against the evils of the growing demogracy which has in the last few years made such progress in Great Britain. On the other hand, liberal journals point with significance to the quiet-ness and order which prevailed, and consider

"I has become so common to begin an cricle, in an elegant, interesting style. "Then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such, "And simply call attention to the mer-ts of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest erms as possible,

"To induce people" To give them one trial, which so ro ves their value that they will never so stything che.

"THE REMEDY sofavorably noticed in all the papers, Religious and secular, is "Having a large saie, and is supplanting all ther medicines,

"There is no use denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of Hop Bitter, have shown great shrewdness and ability. "In compounding a medicing whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation." Did She Die?

"She lingered and suffered along, pin ng away all the time for years," "The doctors doing her no good;"

"And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about." "Indeed! Indeed! "How thankful we should be for that
