COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Friday Morning November 14.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
By Carrier - 10 cents per week.
By Mail - $2.00 per year.
Office:
No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

Who is to be the next postmaster?
H. R. Stewart, artist, at Chapman's.
See J. Rieter's new fall stock of cloth.
The Masonic temple is to be dedicated next month.
The Des Moines Leader has given Mr. Pusey the title of Colonel.
Mail and paper boxes cheap at Seaman's closing out sale.
Pearl street business men want a water main. They also want paving.
Dealers will find bargains at Seaman's closing out sale, on usual terms.
The young people of the Methodist church gave a social at F. H. Orcutt's residence last evening.
The driving park association purposes collecting by suit the assessments due from the stockholders.
CHRISTMAS CARDS GIVEN AWAY.—On all cash sales of fifty cents and upwards, at Seaman's closing out sale.
Stewart, the artist, is located at Chapman's. Persons desiring portraits for the holidays should see him at once.
There was a report that another confidence trick had been turned at the depot, the amount being $50, and the scheme being the old check one.
A portion of Templeton & Lamb's big pumpkin was made into a luscious generous-sized pie by the skill of Mrs. Lamo. It was tested successfully by the new-gang.
Schmidt & Harb have opened a barber shop in connection with the cigar store in the opera house, and are ready for business. They will also continue to run their old shop at 720 Broadway.
Rev. T. J. Mackey yesterday received a telegram, announcing the death at Fargo, of Mr. Daniel McWorkman, a former and well known resident of this city. No particulars were given.
Policeman Frank Brainard, of Omaha, was here yesterday after two colored men, who were wanted for stealing a $45 dolman across the river. The officer found that the men had left over the K. C. road.
Jim Snoderly has so far recovered from the stab which Shoemaker gave him that he is able to be about the streets, but he is still feeble. He says that he does not care to prosecute Shoemaker.
Two farmers, John Pierce and Jim Hicks, were before the police court yesterday for being drunk. One claimed to have been sea sick, the other that he had left his valise in a saloon and was hunting for the place.
One of the teams of Hagg's bottling establishment indulged in a runaway yesterday. The driver was thrown off and the wagon passed over him and inflicted serious injuries, but the result of which it is thought will not prove fatal.
Justice Abbott, who expects to go out of office on New Year's, has got ready for his successor to step into his shoes. The shoes were yesterday hanging on a nail at the entrance of his office. From their size, it will take a big man to make a successful successor.
A fellow named H. C. Hunter was arrested yesterday afternoon on Broadway as being the man who stole from L. Kaasner's residence in Hazel Dell a pair of boots, two revolvers, and some cigars.
On being brought before Judge Aylesworth he pleaded guilty and was sent to jail for thirty days.
Tom Millett, while superintending the paving yesterday, laid down his overcoat for a few minutes, and a sneak thief walked off with it. Tom says that if the thief will bring back the copy of THE BEE, which was in the pocket, he can keep the coat. He evidently puts a high value on THE BEE.
The local of the Council Bluffs Herald was evidently hard up for matter to fill his department recently, when he proceeded to write up an interview (in his mind) with a seer of that city who predicts that Blaine will die soon. That reporter must have a very large soft spot in his cranium.—Malvern Leader.
The county board in company with some of the city officers yesterday afternoon took carriages and visited the proposed outlet of Indian creek. The board seem in favor of doing something to help along the proposed improvement, provided they have the authority to make any such appropriations.
A hard sort of a youth named Davis, from Webster, Iowa, was picked up by the police yesterday as a runaway. His father telegraphed for him to be held until he could reach here. The little fellow was quite bombastic and loudly bragged that they could not keep him in jail, for he would get out just as the fellow broke jail the night before.
A young woman who is employed at Pfeiffer's millinery establishment has a very knowing Newfoundland dog. The dog brings every noon from the young lady's home to the store a basket containing her dinner, and he has evidently a sufficient knowledge of the dishonesty in the world to guard the basket more zealously. He will not allow any one on the street to interfere with him as he trots along with the basket in his mouth, and even on arriving at the store will not deliver the basket to any one but the young lady herself, and if she chances to be out he waits patiently for her return.

The vote between Judge Aylesworth and Judge Loofbourrow is quite close, but it still seems that Judge Aylesworth is elected. It would be a joke if Judge Aylesworth should find himself elected for the short term, expiring January 1, and Judge Loofbourrow elected for the long term. It such a case probably Judge Aylesworth would not qualify, but allow Judge Loofbourrow to remain right along on the bench. Everything now shows, however, that Judge Aylesworth is elected for both terms, although on the short one he has a larger majority than on the full term by about a dozen.
In this state the county clerks have to send the election returns on electors to the secretary of state, within fifteen days after the election. On the twentieth day after election if the returns are all in, the state board canvasses the vote, and the electors are notified to appear on the Tuesday preceding the first Wednesday of December and cast their votes. On state officers the returns must be sent in by the fourth Monday after election to be canvassed by the state board on the Thursday following the fourth Monday after election if all are in, if not the board can adjourn not to exceed twenty days.
The alarm of fire last night was caused by the burning of Hemmans & Brown's carpenter shop on Fifth avenue next to the court house. Mr. Brown who was sleeping in the building had a narrow escape. The loss on the building and contents will be about $1,500, partly insured. The fire is supposed to have been caused by incendiarism.
Order hard wood of P. Overton.

THROUGH THE WALL.
Jim Quan Makes a Break and Escapes from the City Jail.
Carelessness of the Keepers and Faults in the Building.
James Quan, who was lodged in the city jail on Wednesday night, was not there yesterday morning. Quan had been held to await the action of the grand jury, the charge being pocket-picking, and bail being fixed at $500, which amount Quan was unable to furnish and was therefore locked up. He is one of the three who are thought to have relieved Mr. Blamford, of Red Oak, of $100 in cash and a $65 gold watch and chain. The prisoner denied the robbery, and claimed to be a good honest bricklayer, who had been at work on the Presbyterian church. When arrested he had about $55, of which $45 was claimed by him to have been won in gambling at Lacy's. When put back into jail Wednesday night he was not locked up in a cell, but with other prisoners was allowed the use of the corridor, the reason given being that some windows being broken, there was difficulty in keeping the cells warm. The marshal and his deputy, the two Guanellas, say they were up and on the watch until about 1 o'clock, when the prisoners seemed to have quieted down for the night. After they had gone to bed it seems that Quan took advantage of a gap at one end of the corridor and crowding through this got on top of the cells, and from thence dropped down into a narrow walkway which separates the cells from the outer wall, and entrance to which walk-way from the main corridor is prevented by an iron door. With only a brick wall between him and liberty Quan soon proved himself to be acquainted with brick-work. Prying off the window crossing he quickly removed the bricks, and through the hole in the wall this made he skipped out. His escape was not discovered until yesterday morning. The other prisoners innocently denied having heard anything or having known anything of the jail break.
The Guanellas are to be censured for not having looked the prisoner in a cell or for not having taken him to the county jail, where he properly belonged. On the other hand they claim that the attention of some of the aldermen had been called to this defect in the structure of the jail and the necessity of having it fixed, but it had been neglected. It seems, therefore, that the fault of the escape rests upon the carelessness of the keepers and the faultiness in the structure of the jail.
Quan he said not to have any good record. It is said that he was the one who planned and helped carry out the jail break at Des Moines, by which about twelve prisoners escaped. By his own story he has been doing as much in the gambling line here as he has in the mason line, though it is proved that for four days he really did lay brick on the walls of the new Presbyterian church. Officers were sent out yesterday to recapture him if possible, but so far it seems to have been a fruitless search.
Orders by telephone for flour, feed, wood, coal, and hay, will be promptly filled by Cook & Cooper, 700 Broadway.

More Thievery.
Some sneak thief managed to rob the room occupied by Mrs. Helen Bentley, a widow who is serving as laundry woman at the Revere house. The help were at the table in the dining room, she among the others, when the thief was done. The door of the room was locked, as was also the window, the St. John Bros., the new proprietors, having just put new fastenings throughout the house. Some one, however, managed to unlock the door, and stole from the room a hand-bag containing $15, some gloves and trinkets. The woman's trunk was also opened and ransacked. The proprietors of the hotel and some of the boarders contributed enough money to replace the cash which was taken, the woman being a worthy one who could ill afford to lose the amount.
St. John Bros. have bought, cleaned and refurbished the Revere House, 549 Broadway, opposite the opera house, Council Bluffs, where you will find clean rooms, clean beds and well filled tables. Terms $1.50 per day.

CHANGING TIME.
A Merchant Relieves a Burglar of a Valuable Watch.
A Costly Midnight Visit.
A few days Mr. C. C. Felt, of the wholesale heavy hardware house of Keegle & Felt, in taking with the manager of the establishment, Mr. Ed. Elain, said that he had noticed a fellow hanging about in the vicinity of his home, No. 725, Seventh avenue, and he fancied that an attempt might be made to burglarize it. He accordingly borrowed Mr. Elain's revolver, and for several nights has been on the alert. Yesterday morning when Mr. Felt came down to the store he was wearing a large, elegant gold watch and chain, something new, and more astonishing than all else, as was explained by a laugh, he had been awakened by a burglar in his room the night before and instead of being robbed he had robbed the burglar, and the gold watch and chain was shown up as proof. It seems that Mr. Felt on being awakened in the night found a burglar going through his clothes and as Mr. Felt jumped up and grasped the revolver, started to run with Mr. Felt following. As the fellow passed out of the door, Mr. Felt heard something drop on the floor, and found that it was this gold watch and chain. The fellow managed to make good his escape, but instead of taking any plunder with him, he lost his watch and chain, the value of which is estimated at about $300. The strangeness of the affair has led Mr. Felt's friends to jokingly add to the sensation by narrating that Mr. Felt finding the burglar in his room, jumped onto him, took his watch and chain from him, and then threw him out of the house. The affair revivies the story of a burglar who found he had got into an editor's house, but discovering the mistake, got out just in time to keep from being robbed, but it seems hardly fair to saddle a like story, only worse, on a solid business man. The affair is sensational enough without any such additions, and the mystery remains what the burglar will do to recover the watch which he thus dropped in his flight. If he calls for it, he will surely meet with a warm reception. He will probably be content with getting away as he did, and will make up the loss by robbing somebody else of another gold watch, but however this may be, Mr. Felt is certainly ahead about $300 by the burglar's visit.
