MINOR MENTION.

The council meets tonight.

H. R. Stewart, artist, at Chapman's.

See J. Reiter's new stock of clothe.

"Burr Oaks" is the attraction at the opera house this evening.

Another assortment of hats just received. J. J. Auwerda & Co.

All the trains were several hours late yesterday on account of the storm.

The storm caused a postponement of the spiritual social until next Saturday evening.

Place your orders for crayon portraits for the holidays with Stewart, the artist, at Chapman's.

Justice Schurz entertained about a dozen of his friends the other night with an oyster supper.

Saturday evening Justice Schurz performed the ceremony making J. W. Banks and Tillie Schults husband and wife.

Remember that Seaman is positively closing out his business and you will save money by purchasing your goods at 405 Broadway.

CHRISTMAS CARDS GIVEN AWAY.—On all cash purchases of fifty cents and upwards at Seaman's closing-out sale, 405 Broadway.

The mayor offers $50 to any citizen who will capture a burglar and deliver him at the city jail. Why not offer the reward to the police?

J. T. Harter is cleaning out the ditches along avenues A, B, C, etc., in a manner which pleases greatly the residents in that part of the city, who say that it is the best work done yet in that line.

Since the burglars made a break for the private office of Mark Duryee, manager of the Ogden house, even the bell-boys have been armed, and a sorry time time is in store for the next thief found loitering about there.

The mud and rubbish has been allowed to accumulate so on the paved streets that a stranger visiting the city would hardly know that Council Bluffs had any paving. There should be some system of cleaning adopted.

Even the democratic organ will not have the gall to say this time that Council Bluffs sent a large and enthusiastic delegation to Omaha to attend the ratification. A little too wintry a night.

A delegation of young men from the Omaha association will visit the Y. M. C. A. this evening to hold the monthly conference. These gatherings have all been profitable and well attended. An increased attendance is expected this evening. All young men are invited to be present.

The Nonpareil says it "believes that it is honorable journalism to acknowledge and rectify errors that may occur in its columns. A gentleman always apologizes when he finds that he is in error; a conceited fool never." As that paper has never apologized for publishing that bogus News editorial, and never acknowledged or rectified numerous other grave errors that have lately crept into its columns, it seems in its own opinion to be "a conceited—but give the old lady time. She is a little slow getting around.

Very True.

It is not strange but very true that when people want boots or shoes for mud, snow and actual service they know that is the only kind we keep, and come to us for them. We appreciate the favor shown us. Z. T. LINDSEY & Co.

"Tell the Truth."

The Globe, which is, in fact, only the dear old lady's evening dose, gives the above heading to an article attacking THE BEE. It starts out with, "THE BEE, with its usual bad grace, raises a hue and cry concerning the excavating on lower Broadway, preparatory to paving. Mr. Tilton should have read the contract before publishing his attack against the city government, etc." The old lady's twilight nap is characteristic of the old lady herself, and is on a par with the bogus News' editorial. Let the Globe surprise itself for once and "Tell the Truth." The fact is, THE BEE makes no such attack, and raises no such hue and cry, and the lie is made up out of whole cloth. Yet the Globe itself admits there is some cause for complaint, but that "the property owners will have little if any extra excavating to pay for." They may have some to pay for after all, eh?

To Shoe Dealers.

Remember we give Chicago discounts and terms on Rubber Boots, Shoes and Arctics, and have the largest exclusive store west of Chicago.

Abusing a Child.

A colored man named Freeman, living on Washington avenue, was yesterday arrested on complaint of some neighbors, who say he was beating his little child in a most brutal manner. Freeman has not any great reputation for kindness toward his wife and children, and if he is half as brutal as is charged, he should be made to feel the smart of the law this time.

Closing Out,

To close the business I offer my stock of miscellaneous books, picture, fancy goods, notions, fire screens, easels, willow and cane high chairs and children's rockers, at prices never known before in the west. H. E. Seaman, paper, books and stationery, 504 Broadway, Council Bluffs.

Order hard wood of P. Overton.

THIEVES AND THUGS.

A Man Held Up on Main Street and His Pockets Rifled.

Another Victim Claims to Have Lost His Roll.

Several Arrested on Suspicion.

A man named J. R. Crouch, was held up and robbed on Main street about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been in the saloon formerly kept by Capt. Russell on Broadway near Seventh street, and on leaving there went up to Main street and down Main street to near Gregory's blacksmith shop, where he was attacked, thrown down on the sidewalk, and after a struggle was relieved of what money he had, about $8.00. He noticed two men follow him out of the saloon, and was quite certain that they were the ones who robbed him. From the description given of them. Officers Cusick and O'Brien yesterday arrested two fellows, who gave their names as Tom Howard and Frank Clifford. Howard was charged with the robbery and Clifford as an accomplice. Howard had $5.25 on his person, and the other had no money. They will have a hearing to-day. The man who was robbed is a farm hand. He did not receive any serious injury, but his clothing is badly torn.

MISSED HIS MONEY.

A man named Foss complained yesterday that he had been robbed of $40. It appears that Saturday night he was in a condition where he required help to get to bed, and his son and Mike Kildare, well known to the police, are said to have put him in his little couch. Foss on waking found two $20 bills gone from his pocket. Kildare was taken into custody yesterday, and the police are working at the case to see if they can get more light upon it.

A MIDNIGHT PROWLER.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning P. M. Pryor, of THE BEE office, living at No. 819 Sixth avenue, was arroused from slumber, and heard somebody apparently working at the kitchen door. He went there, and called out "Who is there?" There was silence for a moment, and in response to another more sharply put query, the prowler replied that he wanted to find the way to Dale's barn. He did not wait for any great urging to go, but quickly skipped out, the marks of his feet showing that he had taken across lots in his haste to get "to Dale's barn," or somewhere else. Pryor had no gun with him, but has now arrayed himself like a walking arsenal, this being the second visit made to his house. If another one comes Pryor will doubtless get that $50 reward offered by the mayor.

Ladies' Stribley & Co.'s fine and medium fine shoes reduced in price.

BLAINE BETTERS,

How Some Had to Pay for Being Too Sure of His Election.

Saturday afternoon some of the novel bets made before election were paid off, much to the amusement of the by-standers, who watched the sport with glee, although the weather was anything but favorable for street corner gaping. E. H. Odell, the secretary of the board of trade, was one of the victims. Because his favorite, Blaine, did not get there, he had to make good his promise to Gus Bergman, which he did by kicking his white Blaine hat along Broadway, shouting "Hurrah for Cleveland" every time he kicked. There wasn't much left of the hat or of Odell's voice by the time the kick was over. Gus Bergman marched along with him, beating a big bass drum with two sticks, one not being enough to express his delight and enthusiasm. Bergman, as a bass drum soloist, showed himself to have great force and spirit, but lacked in that delicacy of touch which characterizes such artists as Wall McFadden. Still his debut was a success. Jim McMahon was another victim. He wheeled George Marwood along Broadway in a barrow, and he too shouted for Cleveland, as often as his gasping breath and waning strength would permit. Neil Voorhis was still another victim. He had to shout for Cleveland as often as his democratic friend, John Templeton, did. They carried brooms with flags on top, and Oscar Keplinger, and Whittlesey, the brother of the Globe's city editor, followed suit. Altogether it was a novel procession. It was cut short by the wind and snow, which proved alike disagreeable to victor and victim. Harry Hunter, of the Nonpariel, was to have been among the shouters for Cleveland, but as the old lady who employs him has not yet given up that Blaine is defeated, he was excused by Mr. Templeton until later in the season, but he still promises to come out in due time.

HELPING THE HEATHEN.

The Missionary Meetings Held Here Yesterday.

In accordance with the action of the Presbyterian synod, missionary conventions are being held at different points in the state to awaken, especially among the Presbyterians, renewed and increased interest in the work of spreading the gospel in foreign lands. Such a convention, or more properly meeting, was held here yesterday. It was planned to have a Saturday evening meeting, but the storm delayed the trains so that some of the speakers did not arrive and the meeting was not held. Yesterday forenoon there was a large and interested audience gathered in the opera house to hear Rev. Dr. Johnson. He spoke particularly upon the work in India, a subject with which he has been made very familiar by a residence there of twenty-two years, and he expects soon to return to that field in which he has so long labored. He spoke of the necessities of the work, the accessibility of the people which the work has already accomplished and is accomplishing, and gave some very interesting narratives concerning the customs and peculiarities of the people.

In the afternoon at the opera house there was a fair sized audience gathered to hear Miss Harplan speak on the work in Siam, a field where she has been laboring for five years. Her address was a very interesting and instructive one.

Another meeting was arranged for the evening with Rev. Dr. Mitchell as speaker. He is a member of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church. Rev. T. S. Bailey, the state synodical missionary, Mrs. Walker, of Colorado, and others who are greatly interested in the work, were also present.

TEDIOUS TRAMPING.

A Man and His Wife Walk From Davenport to Council Bluffs.

There appeared at police headquarters here Saturday a man and woman who had, indeed, a strange tale, they claiming to have walked clear across the state of Iowa, from Davenport to Council Bluffs. Their pitiable appearance, their apparel, their marks of exposure, their shoes with soles worn clear off, all seemed to bear witness to the truth of their statement. They were objects of pity, indeed. The man gave his name as Duke Gregory, and said that three years ago he married the woman in Omaha, her name being Clark. For two years he worked at brush-making, but a year ago met with an accident which crippled his feet, and laid him up for six months. Being out of employment and out of money, he concluded to start back for Omaha, hoping there to meet some of his old friends, and get employment. The officers at headquarters chipped in enough change to get the sorry couple plenty to eat, and paid their fare across the river.
