To keep even with the times, even the street rallway cars of this city began running on a new schedule yesterday. Must have been a difficult undertaking to get this new time-card up. THE BEE trusts the numerous people who have waited in vain for a car, especially on the Main street line, and have gone off thinking no cars ran on that line, will under this complicated schedule meet a car some time or other, and be convinced that a car, or at least an apology for a car, does occassionally run both up and down Main street.

The largest attraction yet at the rink. Be sure and see it Thursday evening, as it may be the last of the season.

COUNCIL BLUFFS. The Wards of this Ci y Roll Up a Solid Vote for the Court House, Little Learned From the Country.

Yesterday was a great day for Council Bluffs. Much depended on the question of whether a new court house and jail should be built here or not, and citizens of all parties, of all shades of color, of all sort of beliefs, united solidly in voting in favor of the propositions submittad. The stores and business places generally closed at noon so as to allow all The city council will try to get together full vote of the city in favor of the proenemies were for once working enthus!astically side by side for one common purpose. What the result will be cannot be told with certainty, as for the city that was settled long before the polls were opened. It was virtually unanimous in favor of the new buildings. But, of course, all depended on the country vote, and returns from all parts of the county cannot be had accurately for a day or two yet. Even those few who are confident that the court house question has carried hardly dared to fire off any too great amount of enthusiastic powder, lest the final news might show a different result. At the election a year ago the propositions were defeated by a majority of 364. In order that THE BEE readers may compare the returns this year with those of last the following table is given of last year's vote:

Daniel Walker to William Lantz, e₂, an attempt to shoot the principal, Prof. ne₁, and part w₂, ne₁, 17, 75, 40, Slattery. It seems there was no shooting attempted, but some wild and bloody threats were indulged in by Jim Maddan, who was angry at learning that Slattery had made some unpleasant remarks about rechools. Slattery was somewhat afraid Madden would carry into execution a threat to shoot him on sight, and had aboutdecided last evening to make Madden give bonds to keep the peace. This is the second time that the professor has deemed his life in jepordy, he having once before been threatened by Alex. Burke.

To Allow Anyone to Die of Diphtheria.

A SNEAK'S WORK.

An Old Lady Robbed of her Hand-Basket and Money.

Yesterday morning an old lady named Mrs. Sullivan, came in on the Northwestern from Cedar Rapids, intending to go to Red Oak to visit friends there. On arriving at the local depot she thought perhaps it was the place to change cars, and stepped out of the car to ascertain. Finding that she must go to the transfor, she stepped back into the car, and to her sorrow and surprise, found that some sneak thief had stolen her hand-basket which she had left in the seat. Besides various trinkets in the basket, the old lady had $16 in money and two notes, proving quite a serious loss to her. Jack Cusick spent a goodly portion of the day trying to get some trace of the old lady's property, but in vain.
