

THE DAILY BEE

Saturday Morning, April 4,

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Yesterday was bright, warm and balmy, a typical spring day. May their number increase.

There will be no services in Unity church next Sunday on account of scarlet fever in the parsonage.

A Scandinavian mass meeting will be held at Swedish library's hall, 1114 Farnam, Saturday evening, April 4, at 8 p. m.

The workingmen's central committee will meet at police court room Saturday evening, April 4th, at 7:30 sharp. Ed. Aspinwall, Sec.

One hundred and ten names will be registered this month for the payment of the social tax. This is an increase of twenty since last month.

Policeman Crawford is now the happy father of a new boy. The baby tips the beam at eleven, and Mr. C tips the boys--with the clear Havana.

Threatened commissioner has caused side walks to be laid all about the city, much to the relief of pedestrians generally and night workers particularly.

The case of Charles Kyle, who is accused of criminal assault upon the person of Editor Gavan, of the Times-Dispatch, is to be tried this afternoon before a jury.

Julius Meyer, the Third ward councilman that is to be left yesterday for Lincoln, where he will close up some business pertaining to the June Sanzerbund.

The meeting at the Baptist church last week was filled to overflow. Mr. Chubbuck will only remain a few days longer. His subject last night was "How to get married."

A mad dog created considerable excitement near Sixteenth and California streets yesterday afternoon. It was finally dispatched by a policeman who emptied his revolver into its body.

City Clerk Jewett is offering bets of $100 to $25 on the election of Boyd. He also offers to loan the $25 on a guaranteed check. On these terms he ought to "collar" a multitude of wagons.

The B. & M. headquarters on Farnam, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, will soon be enlarged, work now going on preparatory to the construction of a large addition to their present building.

Mrs. C. G. Olsen, upper Davenport street, reports a seven-year-old boy lost. He is dressed in dark gray suit, skull cap and red stockings, with scar on left temple. He strayed away yesterday morning.

The attention of the several candidates for mayor and councilmen is respectfully called to the solution of this problem: An irresistible political force meets an insurmountable obstacle; required the result.

The body of Mrs. Olive Phillips, wife of the well-known Pullman conductor, arrived here Thursday night from Chicago. The funeral took place yesterday morning from the residence, corner Cumming and Idaho streets.

Mr. F. S. Lewis, the democratic nominee for auditor, desires it stated that he is no relation to Jason R. Lewis, the professional workman. Mr. Lewis believes that enemies have tried to circulate the above statement to his detriment.

The city council adjourned last Friday night to meet next night for the purpose principally of considering the plumbers', draying and gas companies' ordinance, but no quorum attending the mayor declared the council adjourned for want of one.

County Treasurer Rush has sent to Lincoln for copies of the various bills pertaining to the "five per cent fine" law, and upon receipt of the same Gen. Cowin will render his opinion as to the legality of Church Howe's decision, passed by the last legislature.

The Academy of Music is being extensively remodeled by Col. Woods and a cozy little time museum is being provided. The establishment will be one of the most comfortable amusement resorts in the state when the process of renovation is completed.

There was a disastrous runaway on Sixteenth street yesterday morning, a team of horses belonging to Contractor Walker becoming frightened and starting off at breakneck pace. Hopkins, the driver, was thrown violently to the ground, but fortunately, beyond a few bruises, was uninjured.

Mr. C. L. Fish, who has extensive barbed wire interests in Chicago, is in the city. He represents a company of Chicago capitalists who intend to start a barbed wire factory in this city. The location will probably be on the bottom, near Metz's brewery. The stock has been fixed at $500,000, only a portion of which will be paid in.

The young men about town have a good joke upon one of the small men of the force, who tried to learn how he might stand on nothing and kick a football with both feet without disastrous consequences. He learned, and his physician says that he used nearly a skin of silk sewing up the cuts in his bitten tongue, while his family are certain that he has not taken a seat since the acrobatic experiment.

Each day brings immigrants from the western states for settlement of Nebraska lands. Yesterday forenoon the waiting room of the depot was filled with people going to locate in this state. One family of mother, father and ten healthy children, all but three able to work, was going to locate at Stromberg, in this state. Each one that can do so under the law intends taking a homestead, which will make a small republic of their own out there.

Constable Frank Blyler, of Des Moines, was in this city and Council Bluffs Thursday, looking up witnesses in the Wolfe murder case which is just now creating considerable excitement in the Iowa metropolis. The girl Rosey Lewis, who is now imprisoned in this city for larceny, is supposed to know something about the crime but though she admits that she was in a sporting house adjacent to the place where the murder was committed, and knew the accused woman, she says she knows nothing of a criminating nature.

A party of Mexican gentlemen, residents of San Miguel county, New Mexico, passed through Omaha yesterday, having purchased a number of thoroughbred animals for cattle raising. San Miguel is a rich stock country, with the A. T. & S. F. R. running through its entire length. Its capital city is Las Vegas (the meadows), near which are the celebrated Hot Springs, at which the A. T. & S. F. railroad company erected the fine "Mount-Suma hotel" which was destroyed by fire a year or more ago, and upon whose ruins a finer one has been built.

Suit was Thursday instituted against E. H. L. Bierbrock, United States marshal of the district of Nebraska, and his bondsmen, John L. Webster and John B. Furry, by Bernard Sieder, of Madison county. This action arises out of the attachments issued from the federal court against the goods and property of the firm of Gross Bros., doing business in Madison. The prisoner alleges that the property taken by the marshal under these processes belonged to the plaintiff, and was valued at $5,046, and the damages arising from the wrongful seizure are laid at $3,580.

Thursday afternoon a number of little children, boys and girls, aged from five to twelve years, were playing in an alley between Jackson and Howard, Eleventh and Twelfth, when they discovered a demijohn of sweet wine in an empty cellar. They immediately appropriated it and tasting its contents, became enamored of the sparkling, ruddy liquid. Within half an hour the process of absorption had become so complete that all of the youngsters were thoroughly intoxicated. They were discovered in this condition by a passing acquaintance, who procured an express wagon and had them taken home to their horrified families.

There appeared in the local columns of the BEE yesterday an article relative to Captain Tyler, which would not have been published had it come under the eye of the editor, to whom it should have been submitted. Even if true in every particular the editor of the BEE would not have permitted its publication, as he does not believe in such stuff being allowed to defile the columns of his paper. As to Capt. Tyler, it is but just to say that he is 71 years of age, and in his dotage, and that he is very fond of little children. It may be possible that the statements regarding him have been exaggerated and that his actions have been misconstrued. Nothing of the kind was ever before said against him, or even suspected.

Judge Benke yesterday evening had a call from two females, one of whom laid before him for perusal a letter belonging to herself which a third female had opened, read and interlined with matter unfit for publication, and very distasteful to the person's feelings. She called to know if the judge could not issue a paper to put this vile opener of letters and writer of vicious matter into the penitentiary. The contents of the letter were infamous and filthy, and she was sent to United States Commissioner Anderson, who, upon learning that the letter had not been taken from a postoffice or United States mail-carrier, concluded that he, as United States commissioner, had no jurisdiction. The outraged feminine left in a jiffy, determined to wreak vengeance upon the despoiler of her already badly spotted character.

Jim Porter and Archie Thurecks, two young negro boys, on yesterday afternoon got into trouble. It appears that out beyond Cumming street a number of Italians are at work shoveling. During the day they had laid aside their coats and vests, placing them on the bank, and while absent from that immediate place at work, these two young offenders went up and took from the pocket of a vast a twenty-dollar note. When the owner soon after discovered its loss he called or sent for Policeman Donahue, who proceeded to hunt up the parties described. Seeing one of them running off, he "cut across" and overhauled the little darkey, who was carrying the pocketbook in his hand, and at once handed it to the officer, saying he had received it from his father. The officer arrested the boy and found $7.50 in money. He claimed that he had given $10 to the father and $2.50 to his partner Archie, and told the, or a story which decided Mr. Donahue to arrest the others. At this writing Jim Porter is in jail and will have his hearing in the morning. This is only one of the numerous cases of theft, robbery and confidence games reported during the past thirty-six hours.

MAY MUSIC.

The Organization of Musicians Effected Yesterday for the Festival.

The May Festival association completed its organization Thursday night in Meyer's hall, selecting the following committees:

Executive Committee--C. D. Dorman, W. B. Wilkins, T. J. Pennell, G. D. Thayer, F. S. Smith, George F. Mayer, W. H. Alexander, R. W. Breckenridge, Julius Meyer, Martin Cahn, C. E. Burmeister.

Chorus Committee--W. B. Wilkins, G. D. Thayer, George F. Mayer, Martin Cahn, F. S. Smith.

Music Committee--C. D. Dorman, George F. Mayer, G. D. Thayer, George F. Mayer, Martin Cahn, F. S. Smith.

The first rehearsal was held Thursday evening, and called out about sixty singers, comprising some of the best musical talent in the city, together with a number of instrumental players. It is thought that when the project is fairly on its feet that the grand chorus will have, in all, about 140 voices. Next Tuesday afternoon there will be a rehearsal for the ladies, and again Thursday a full rehearsal, with all voices. Mr. George Sauer, of the Musical Union Orchestra, is director.

The choruses to be given are these: Spring seasons--Hayden; Wandering March--Lohengrin; Wagner's Pilgrims' chorus (male)--"Tannhauser"; Prisoners' chorus (male)--"Fidelio"; Wagner's "The Merry Widow"; "Moses in Egypt"; "Rossini"; Fisherman's chorus--"Masaniello"; "Auber".

It is intended to give three concerts, two evening and one matinee performance, probably on May 29 and 30.

The Musical Union will furnish orchestral support for the concerts.

Coughs, Cold and Sore Throat yield readily to B. H. Douglass & Sons' Capburn Cough Drops.

Scalded to Death.

A horrible accident happened Wednesday afternoon, the fatal termination of which occurred yesterday morning.

It appears that little Ray Veirs, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Brice Veirs, resident on Izard street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth, was sent with his elder brother to procure a bucket of hot water from the exhaust hole of Woodman's lined oil works, which is filled with steaming water, and communicates directly with the boiler. The little fellow tumbled into this steaming pit, and, before he could be extricated, was terribly scalded. His system received a shock from which he did not recover. The little fellow lingered in great agony, half-conscious, and half delirious, until about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when he passed away.

The family thus plunged in deepest mourning will have extended to them the hearty sympathy of their large circle of friends and acquaintances in this city.

THURSDAY NIGHT'S ROBBERY.

Mr. Kelly, the Victim, Tells His Own Story--An Intelligent Statement.

To the Editor of the Bee.

I have read your account of my robbery in the morning paper. In the main it is correct, but I will give the circumstances more minutely. I and my family of six persons were ticketed for Abilene, Kansas, from Shelbyville, Indiana, by way of the C. R. I. & C. C. R. I. & P., and U. P. railways. We had just left the C. R. I. & P. train at the transfer and as we passed through the depot Mr. Charles Mares, who was directing passengers to their respective trains, asked me where we were going. I told him to Abilene by the U. P. road. He said, "are you sure?" I said I was, but thought I would show him my tickets. I showed him one, after taking my pocketbook from my side pocket. He handed me back the ticket and said, "take the train to the right."

I passed on after replacing my pocketbook and coming to the car I was directed to take it to the rear of the platform. My family was coming after me and as I was ascending the steps two men hurried upon the platform of the front car, one crossing over just in front of me and putting his hand upon the door knob tried to open it. It was locked. I also took hold of the knob to be sure; I could not get in. Just at this time a third person crowded by me and I turned to come down, saying to my family to go to the rear of the car. I missed my pocketbook as I was passing back where my family had gone. I at once surmised it had been taken by these three men and went at once and notified Mr. Mares. He spoke to Mr. Greeley, the passenger agent, and they secured an officer to look after the parties. Not suspecting these three men as thieves but thinking they were passengers like ourselves, I gave them no special notice, but my son noticed that they followed me and thought he could identify one of the parties. Accordingly Mr. Mares and Mr. Greeley went to start for the train, which was about to go for Omaha. My son pointed out a man as looking very much like the man. Mr. Greeley asked the man where he was going. After hesitating, he said to Omaha, and upon being asked if he had a ticket, said he had not.

Mr. Greeley and Mr. Mares were anxious to arrest the fellow, but the policeman did not seem so anxious, unless he was positive beyond a doubt that he was the fellow. The train started and he was shadowed across the river by Mr. Mares, who said he jumped from the train after crossing the river.

I found Mr. James Connor, of Sibley, who said this same fellow had tried to victimize him.

Mr. Mares and Mr. Greeley proposed to come over to Omaha and see if we could find him. We came over with the result as stated this morning, except instead of tickets he had a bunch of punched conductors' checks on most all railroads.

The fellow is beyond doubt an accomplice in crime with the man who escaped by the numbers, nor the man himself as being one of the party he will escape conviction.

The check was upon New York for the $1,000. I at once notified the bank to withhold payment. I also lost not less than $200 in bills and five tickets to Abilene, Kansas.

The U. P. railroad officials have given me a pass over the Missouri Pacific to the Kansas City. They have acted with great credit to themselves in this matter and in trying to bring the guilty to justice.

THE COURTS.

Yesterday's Proceedings in the District Court in Omaha.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Wakeley presiding. In the case of Hartigan vs. the school district of Omaha, a juror was withdrawn and judgment by consent entered against the defendant for $45.02 and each party to pay his costs.

In Baur vs. Heithold a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $118.59 was entered for work and labor.

Throughton vs. Driscoll, for work and labor, on trial at the hour of adjournment.

COUNTY COURT.

The case of Sears vs. Houck, for commissions for sale of real estate occupied the entire day. A jury was to decide it and will probably do so this morning.

In Mr. Anderson's

JUSTICE COURT.

In the Millard Hotel company vs. the Omaha Athletic association, suit to recover $142.50, and an unpaid account of another, the defendants were allowed till May 24 to answer.

This case on the record shows a list of sixty-three printed names of defendants in the summons, one of the largest summonses yet seen in a justice court, and served by a specially authorized person.

"A Wife and Four Children."

When the BEE reporter went to the jail last night, as is his wont, to learn of the criminal calendar of the night, he heard what was unusual there--the voice of a man in distress, whose language was piteous and refined. Inquiry developed the fact that it was Mr. M. E. Shevren of Greenwood, Neb., who had been sent there by Marshal Cummings to rest up and get fit to go home. A commendable thing, surely. The reporter was suspicious about this man, however, and with the consent of the officer on duty went to his cell door and spoke kindly to the man. He was not the least bit intoxicated, on the contrary showed plainly that he was getting over a nervous excitement that left him shivering but perfectly clear headed. He said he had been drugged, he knew he had and robbed, because he could not have poured enough liquor down his throat in the little time he had been here to have made him so sick and strangely oblivious and yet so clear headed then. Pressing him further he said "I am a merchant dealing in light groceries at Greenwood, Neb.; have a wife and four children there comfortable, and I hope to God happy; my wife is attending to my business while I was going to a farm claim I have near Ainsworth to do some breaking. I came to Omaha Wednesday and went to a well known restaurant to get dinner preparatory to going off on the next train. I had had two or three drinks in this eating house when a tall, large-sized man asked me to take a walk; I went outside with him, he proposed going up stairs in the house by a sort of entrance from the street. We went up and found a lot playing poker. The man asked me to lend him ten dollars. I did so. I had about twenty dollars in money. Presently I had a drink or two with him and I didn't know anything clearly until yesterday (Thursday) I found myself in jail, but was released, there being no charge against me. I went back to that place when I was let loose here, to learn about my money, some thirty or thirty-five dollars being gone. I met the same crowd and I know they drugged me, for here I am again, without a dollar, even a cent; sick yet sicker, my stomach parched and tongue and throat blistered. I am no criminal, but I am ruined now, socially at least. If I could I'd have my wife sent for--please get me some soda and water."

The reporter examined papers taken by the officers, and found the statements of this man as to his business, etc., true. He was wild with nervousness and remorse when the reporter last visited the jail. He is a very bright, intelligent young man, had pictures of his little boys with him, and if his story of drugs and practical robbery are true, it is a shame. But then, he went to the den and got him home this morning. These facts are told to the public with the hope that they may serve a good purpose, especially for those who have "a wife and four children."

Keene in Richard III.

A crowded and an enthusiastic audience witnessed Mr. Thos. W. Keene's great presentation of Richard III. The assumption has been made from one end of the country to the other, and extravagant as that laudation appeared to be, we are constrained to say that it scarcely does him justice. It is a great piece of work, full of thought, originality and characterized by deftness of execution. Some may find fault with the prominence given the bloodthirsty nature of Gloucester by Keene, but in doing so he does not slight the subtle passion of the character. Keene's Richard is charming in its fearlessness, violence and audacity. He is brave, resolute and even when in the last act he is confronted with the vengeance of Richmond, his courage did not forsake him, but buoyed up his uncompromising spirit. Keene's artistic finesse was finely shown in the scene with Lady Anne with Buckingham and the Lord Mayor. Keene showed an admirable grasp of the character and from his first entrance until his realistic death on Bosworth field never for the instant did he lose sight of that character. His assumption alone should make his fortune and if it indicates how he plays the act or Shakespearean parts in his repertoire, he is a genius of whom America should be proud. In the company there are some good actors, notably Miss Hamilton, as Elizabeth; Miss Allen, as Lady Anne; and Messrs. Heager and Moore, as Richmond and Buckingham.

Card of Thanks.

I desire through the BEE to offer my sincerest thanks and assurances of grateful appreciation for the kindly aid and friendly services rendered me during the illness of my late wife, and subsequently in my deep affliction, by my friends of the Douglas Hagne Lodge No. 1; Alimania Lodge, I. O. O. F.; Star of the West K. S. R. and Nebraska Lodge No. 354, B'nai Broth.

SOUTH OMAHA.

The Advantage of Settling in the New Town

The title "South Omaha" does not mean the southern part of the city of Omaha, but is the name of the thriving town commencing at the Union Stock yards on the south, and extending for a mile and a half north, nearly connecting with the city limits of Omaha.

The company here again concluded
