UNDER the recent deal between the city council and the county commissioners, the principal city officers are to occupy rooms in the basement of the new court house for a period of five years, or until a new city hall is built. The objest of this move is to protect the city records from fire, as the buildings in which they are now kept are liable to be destroyed at almost any hour. Having secured fire-proof quarters the records should be immediately moved thither. They should not be allowed to remain in the fire-traps another day. In not making the transfer at once the city authorities are guilty of gross negligence. They may delay the matter just one day too
