In response to an address of greet ing by Gov, Robinson the senator told of his experiences as a Boston school boy. He drew a number of lessons from the battle anniversary and then turned his attention to politics. He spoke facatiously of the willingness of some republicans to express their confidence in the stability of our government by voting the opposition party into power and advanced the opinion that the experiment would not be repeated. Never had the republicans been more united and determined than at present, and their struggle in 1888 would be made with perfect faith that victory.

SOCIAL SHABOWS.

Gossip, Personal and General-The Hymenometer.

Society was not very active in Omaha last week. The social movements were few, unimportant-and languid. Now that the post-lenten reaction is passing off, people are preparing for the dullness of summer life, and the balls and parties of the season of 1884-5 will soon give way to the festive plonic and the excursion.

But people are coming and going, and here and there small events are taking place, which are worthy of reflection on the printed page-and the society reporter still lives and case is budding out, it is whispered, in promising shape.

Once more the machine tells the story. This time its tale is a strange one. On the golden dial there are indicated the names of a prominent North Omaha grocer, over fifty years of age, and of a giddy, gushing blonde, with a pronounced penchant for roller-skating. "The orange-blossom-white-illusion-crisis is soon expected in this case." and state for the year 1884 would be understated rather than overertimated, by understated rather than overertimated, by taking the amount deposited at the mints and assay offices, as domestic bullion. The total deposits of silver bullion, exclusive of redeposits at the mints and assay offices, was $36 670,731, of which $32,305,086 was entered as domestic.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—[Special to the Kansas City Journal.] The appointment of Hugh Brinker of Warrensbury, Mo., to be expected in this case," says the still, small voice of the hynemometer.

And for the last time, the index hands swing around. Again they link two names in sweet unity—those of a book-keeper in a lower Farnam street wholesale grocery house, and a younglady who plays the organ for one of the denominational churches of this city. Just when the decisive date in this case is to be, the instrument, just now, makes no predictions, definite or vague.

But enough for the present—the hymenometer is muzzled.
