

SUCKED IN A SEWER.

Reported Horrible Fate of Two Bodies in an Omaha Sewer.

Early yesterday forenoon a well known business man told a Bee reporter that Mr. W. R. Fisher had just told him of an occurrence which, if true, was most horrifying; so much so, that the reporter determined to say nothing of it in the EVENING BEE until he could satisfy himself about it.

During the day every effort was made to learn the facts and the reputable business man was asked again at 10 o'clock last night about it. He replied that he had seen Mr. Fisher during the late evening and asked him again and particularly about the report and gathered these facts, if the statements were facts.

Fisher says that his little niece declares that she saw three well-dressed ladies walking along west of the main works in southwest Omaha beyond the terminus of the sewer there. They were deep gully which fell during the storm, and because of the stopping or chocking of the sewer, could not be carried off, and had washed out a passageway under the sides of this gully. That these three ladies into this gully, filled with water, mud and filth, by the giving away of the banks or overhanging sides. That one of them succeeded in getting out all mud-stained and covered with filth, and went away. That the other two fell in, disappeared and were seen no more, the presumption being that they were drawn or in some way got into the sewer and of course

DIED THERE.

"Are you certain about this," queried the gentleman of Mr. Fisher, who replied that he did not see it, but his niece declares she did see it "with my own eyes," and that all the neighbors say they saw the three ladies walking upon the paved-in banks. No questioning could change Mr. Fisher's story and the strange part of it was that the man and his informant are of good repute and would hardly be parties to such a scandal as this. And yet how two grown women could be thus killed in a city like Omaha and not missed by somebody, and another one pitched into a gully filled with water and filth and tell nobody she had "spelled her niece dead," which the "niece" declares she did, is a state of affairs which the Bee man, glibly as he may be, could not gulp down at once. The story is decidedly fishy (as he is told to the reader, as repeatedly told to the reporter. At a late hour a visit was made to the section named in this article but nothing more was learned than is given here. The Bee tells as a common rumor, but it distinctly declares that it doesn't "swallow it whole."

JAILED FOR WIFEBEATING.

"Married for Fifteen Years and has Benten me all this Time."

A reporter stepped into Judge Stenberg's court about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and saw closely veiled a small woman who silent and alone. Presently an officer brought in a dark visaged man who was very pale and left him standing near the woman, by whom he quickly took a seat. The reporter was obliged to hear their muttered conversation, and in fact did not try very hard to avoid it, because he expected it was "bearing on the case" as the pettifogger says. Well, presently the judge called "Mr. Spain" and told the dark visaged man he was charged by his wife with assault and battery, the specifications being that he frequently, but particularly Wednesday and yesterday morning, beat her. Spain arose, heard the judge through, and in a matter-of-fact way said he was guilty. The judge directed the woman to remove her veil and take the witness stand, that she might tell the circumstances of the offense to enable him to measure the proper degree of punishment deserved. The woman, whose face showed much of care and many lines of trouble, age, sickness or something, stated in a straight-forward manner that she had lived with the man as his wife for fifteen years; that he had several children; that she had "kept" him all winter and supported herself and children, and that the man often gets mad and beats her and then roughly and kicks and pulls the hair of the children and herself. That this has been his habit for years, and that she couldn't stand it any longer. To this statement the man (who veiled) replied: "I have nothing to say, I let her say what she will, I will not tell on her. That is mostly both; I did slap her face with my open hand; she knows why; but let it go."

The court directed him, as it was the first charge against him, to be imprisoned for thirty days. He received his sentence without a word or movement and she started out. He called her back to say goodbye and speak one word about their home matters. She answered in a monosyllabic and left the room, while the policeman took the man to jail to meditate on the ups and downs, the ins and outs (especially the ones) of married life.

These circumstances have been narrated here for a purpose. Not that it is pleasant to parade before the readers of a reputable and family paper the happenings of the police court, but to call attention to the fact that such cases as this are really happening here in a supposedly refined and Christian city. Think about it. Fifteen years of life as man and wife; children born to them; mutual joys and sorrows, plans and hopes; and during these fifteen years constant beating of the woman who bore his children, and during the fewer years of their young lives, constant hair pulling and kicking of the little ones that she claims as his own flesh and blood.

It is folly to sentimentalize about "the man who lays his hand upon a woman save for an act of kindness, is a wretch whom the base flattery to name a coward." This don't stop the practice or change the facts. It is useless to repeat words of reproach to a father who beats his helpless babies, because no fine sensibility is left, if they ever existed, for such a beast. It is a cold fact that on every day these things are happening every day in high and low places.

It is not for the reporter to do more than record the fact that such is the case; it is for the BEE's readers to devise some plan to stop this degrading state of affairs. These assaults and blows are not confined to men upon women by a great deal; but no matter from whom

THE COURT HOUSE WALL.

The Commissioners Decide Upon Material—Enforcing Strict Collection of Taxes.

Yesterday morning the county commissioners met to consider the plans for the new retaining wall, and to decide upon the material to be used in its construction. The commissioners decided upon a wall 105 feet in length; the main body will be built of Fort Collins or some other substantial stone, while the "cut stone-work" will be of Berea sandstone. Bids have been advertised for to be opened May 1, and the successful competitor will be required to give a bond of $10,000 to complete the work within ninety days.

The plans and specifications of Architect Meyers for the grand entrance have been adopted with a few modifications. A flight of twenty-five stone steps will lead from Farnam street to the court house. The steps will be six feet long, twelve inches "in the head" and six inches "in the heel," and will approach from east and west, a landing 8x8 feet at their top, from this landing a flight of light steps leads to that conducting one to the court house, aggregating forty-nine steps traversed from the vestibule of the edifice.

In front of the building an arch will be constructed inscribed, "Douglas County, 1855." At its base the wall will be five feet thick, at the top two feet nine inches, set on a foundation of stone and concrete, and surmounted by casing and surrounded by a balustrade.

The following resolution was adopted: Resolved, That the county treasurer be and he is hereby directed to collect all delinquent personal taxes due Douglas county, and a strict adherence to the law is insisted upon.

Investigating the Hog Disease.

Deputy Sheriff Crowell received yesterday morning the following circular letter from the department of agriculture, relative to the swine disease which has been raging in Nebraska. Accompanying the circular is a series of questions pertaining to the general symptoms of the disease. The letter reads as follows:

SIR:—During the year 1884 diseases of swine prevailed to a wide extent in the state of Nebraska, and the losses were so great as to attract the serious attention of all those interested in this industry. This department has been appealed to by many prominent breeders of this state to investigate the disease, looking to a discovery of the cause of the malady that have proved so destructive to swine animals, and recommend such sanitary and preventive measures as the exigencies of the case may require. It was the intention of the department to send a competent veterinarian to conduct the investigation within the borders of the state, but this has been prevented for the present by investigations of destructive contagious diseases prevailing elsewhere, requiring the constant attention of the full professional force of the Bureau of Animal Industry. In view of this fact the department has determined to institute a preliminary investigation by addressing by circular letter to its regular correspondents in Nebraska, and to many other prominent and intelligent stock-raisers of the state whose names have been furnished. If those receiving this circular will promptly and as accurately as possible answer the questions on the opposite page they will confer a favor on the department and assist in collecting information which may prove of great importance to the swine industry of the state.

A return envelope is enclosed, which can be used without the payment of postage. Very respectfully, NORMAN J. COLEMAN, Commissioner.

The department's determination to investigate and define the cause and symptoms of the disease will be received with satisfaction by the farmers throughout the state, whose losses by the hog malady were unusually heavy during the year 1885.

Notes from the Courts.

Nothing of importance was done in the district court to-day, and the usually busy halls are deserted and lonely—barring of course, the presence of the clerk and his deputy.

COUNTY COURT.

Patrik Gavin, the quondam editor of the Fourteenth street twilight sheet filed a suit in the county court yesterday against Charles W. Kyle, claiming $1,000 damages for the assault and battery committed upon him by defendant, on the 4th day of March. The plaintiff alleges in his petition claims that he was sick for the time of three weeks, and has suffered grievous and permanent injuries, as the effects of the beating.

Perego & Moore commenced suit against J. W. Stein, on an account of $127.45.

Suits on defaulted accounts were commenced against Christ Spect by Kinsey & Miller for $183, and by J. A. Wakefield for $300.

Judge McCulloch rendered decision yesterday evening in the ejectment suit of West & Fritcher against the Times-Dispatch, deciding in favor of plaintiffs, who will once proceed to dispossess the defendant.

U. P. yesterday gave notice that the 5 cent reduction on grain for farmers of Nebraska will be restored on May 1st, 1885.

H. H. Stone has been appointed general manager of all roads operated by the Burlington company east of the Missouri river.

James S. Bartle has been appointed third assistant general freight agent of the C. B. & Q., with headquarters at Chicago.

By general order, Mr. G. W. Holdrege is made general manager of the R. and M. R. R. in Nebraska, office at Omaha.

The U. P. is repairing its tracks, etc., all over its routes preparatory to the spring trade.

Capt. J. H. Hill was in Omaha yesterday arranging for rates to take veterans to the U. S. A. at Beatrice this summer. On June 10th next the Editors Association of Iowa will meet in Omaha to arrange for an excursion on the U. P. to Halley Idaho, and Oregon.

Council Bluffs Correspondence.

As Mr. M. A. Tyson, living at Eldon-wood, Nebraska, was getting on the train yesterday evening at Missouri Valley, he was jostled roughly by two strangers, and on entering the car found that $65 and his pocketbook were gone. The passengers made up a purse to enable him to get home.

The alarm of fire sounded last night at 10:30 turned out to be a false alarm.

A German, whose name was not learned, was robbed of $200 last evening at the transfer here. The game was the old freight check game. He left for Joplah to consult the police.

A SOUTHERN FAKIR.

The Omaha Police on the Lookout for a Notorious Confidence Man.

Marshal Cummings received, Wednesday, a card from the chief of police of Atlanta, Georgia, saying that a notorious confidence man and swindler H. L. Wilkins, alias P. H. Stevens, who has lately been operating in the south, is now supposed to be in Omaha, for which point he started some days ago.

The man Wilkins is a fair running mate to "Fuller," the notorious "con"—bird now in jail, and Omaha merchants must be on their guard against him. It seems that after operating in Atlanta and turning several large-sized tricks in that city, Wilkins went to New Orleans. Concerning his success, there, the Times-Democrat has the following to say:

"For a number of weeks C. Carbajal has been keeping a grocery and bar room at the corner of South Franklin and Canal streets. A few days ago he was called on by a stranger, who gave his name as Philo Stevens, and who made a proposition to buy him out. After striking a bargain, by which Stevens was to pay $1,500 for the barroom and grocery, they took an account of stock, and everything was arranged to turn the business over to the purchaser. The check was to have been signed and delivered yesterday at 12 noon. Mr. Carbajal having occasion to go out to buy some butter and blacking, left Stephens in charge till his return. Mr. Carbajal's boy, Oscar, was also in the store. On going out Mr. Carbajal had left the safe open, containing about $30. Sheriff, after he had gone Stephens went to the safe, took out the money and told the boy he was going to the postoffice for stamps and would be back in a few minutes. Tapping the money with him, Stephens went away and never came back. He had played his game fine and it worked at last, though not so nobly, for a smaller amount than he expected. Mr. Carbajal is much put out at being taken in by the stranger, but consoles himself with the hope that he will be captured. Stephens is described as about fifty-five years of age, gray hair, clean face, five feet eleven inches, dressed in dark clothes, wears a diamond shirt stud."

Every effort is being made to locate the man, and it is probable that he will soon be apprehended. The country is being flooded with postal cards, as follows:

ARREST THE SWINDLER.

Skipped from Atlanta, Georgia, April 5, H. L. Wilkins, alias P. H. Stevens, alias R. D. Fuller, alias Anderson, etc., about fifty-five years old, gray hair, thin nose, large gray or blue eyes, height about five foot nine inches, worn black coat, blue trousers, white shirt, diamond shirt stud, weighs about one hundred and fifty-five or one hundred and sixty pounds, florid complexion, gets acquainted quick, talks long, wears a short, white, even-cropped mustache (may be shaven clean now), halls from Fredonia, New York, Erie, Pa., or Dunkirk, New York; claims to have an only son in Florida; he wants to start in business in Chicago; your officers to confidentially post all retail grocers. His axiomatic is to buy out grocery stores, handle the cash and skip.

A. B. CONNELLY, Chief of Police, Atlanta, Ga.

Charge—Cheating and Swindling. The police have not yet succeeded in locating the man in this city, although he is well known to have affiliations which would bring him here.

AN ERBING WIFE

The Search of a Soldier for His Run-away Spouse.

The Cheyenne Sun is responsible for a semi-sensational tale, which will be of considerable interest to some Omaha people, and especially those of army circles. William Glenn is the name of an Irishman who for more than twenty years has been a soldier. When but a boy he enlisted, and served through the rebellion in the union army. At the close of the war, he again enlisted, and has present in his possession discharge papers from the Sixth Infantry, Tenth Infantry, Sixth Iowa, Twenty-first Infantry, Twenty-second Infantry, in which he served twelve years, and Third Cavalry.

While on duty at Pittsburg, Pa., on the occasion of the riots, he became acquainted with a young woman with whom he fell in love. They were married and moved out west, eventually going to Fort D. A. Russell, Cheyenne. Since that time one child has been born to them.

Three years ago they drifted to Fort Omaha, where he was obliged to leave her. In his own words: "As I stepped into my saddle, I kissed my wife and my good-bye; she wrote to me, 'I gave her what money I had, and promised to send for her, and she said she would come. Three times since I have sent her money, in care of the paymaster here, to come to me with, but she never came. Finally she did not answer my letters, and for two years I have been waiting until the time came when I could prove my post of duty and return to see what had become of her and my child.'"

Finally, while stationed at Fort Grant, he heard that his wife was living at Cheyenne with the little son, the mistress of a man there by the name of Howard. Glenn made assiduous search and finally succeeded in locating his gully wife, who had cast off the name Glenn and assumed that of Howard. He went to her and reproached her for her conduct in deserting him. The erbing wife burst into tears, and at first appeared penitent, but would give no promise of reform, and would not leave the man Howard. She refused, too, to give up the boy.

Glenn says that she does not care whether his wife continues living with Howard, but declares that he will institute replevin proceedings of law to regain his boy.
