EMANCIPATION.

The Meeting Held Last Night at Capitol Avenue Skating Bink.

Stirring Speeches in Condemnation of the Indignity Offered to a Colored Citizen.

The emancipation meeting held at Cap-Ital avenue skating rink last night was fairly well attended, but those who were there came late. A few ladies graced the occasion with their presence. Music was furnished by the Omaha Bee band. Mr. E. R. Overall called the meeting to order and stated its objects. The Rav. G. M. Frost was called to preside.

Mr. Frost, on taking the chair, said that he stood in such a place 40 years meeting then would not be attended by or not. over fifteen or twenty people. They came together to be ridiculed and laughed Anthony Burns, at the cannon's mouth, was taken back to slavery.

The responsibility of that insult to Mr. Woodby, declared Mr. Frost, don't rest with Manager Boyd. It rests with Mayor Boyd. Had he have come out the next day and condemned the act, there would have been nothing thought

A letter was read from A. J. Poppleton, saying that it would give him pleasure to speak at the meeting, but he could not be present on account of absence from the city.

A. H. Willis was elected secretary.

P. J. Williams, Gen. O. O. Howard, J. R. Simpson, W. H. Stephenson, and J. M. Haskell were nominated and elected vice-presidents.

outrage, Mr. Edward Rosewater was introduced as the third speaker. One of the most impressible lessons in his memory taught him by his father was that our forefathers were slaves in the land of Egypt. Remembering this badge of inferiority put upon his ancestry by caste prejudice he would repeat the language of Disraell, when taunted in the house of commons about his origin by a British aristocrat, "While your ancestors were worshipping idols in Druid groves, mine were ministering at the high altar in the temple of the Lord. At all times he had labored to lift the burden from these who are oppressed. Mr. Rosewater related how, when a mere boy, he carried letters to John M. heard his side of thestory.

Dwelling upon the absurdity entertained by some people that they would be contaminated by sitting in an opera house where there were colored men and women, Mr. R mewater said that he had seen Senators Conkling, Lamar and Bay-ard walking arm in arm with B. K. Bruce, the negro senator from Mississippl. At Chicago last spring he saw the distinguished men of this nation sitting on a stage with black men. The convention, composed of gentlemen who represented the best and brightest elements of American culture and citizenship, was presided over by a negro. What sense is there in supposing that colored people going into the opera house would contaminate the dudes and dudines of Omaha. He had seen white women raise their noses to au angle of forty-five degrees when a free negro entered the car where they were riding, but as slaves their presence was

The speaker paid a high compliment to the progress of the black race since they become free. Twenty years of liberty and a black man sat upon the floor of the United States senate and Wade Hampton didn't get up and go out of doors on account of it. Twenty years of liberty and the grandest convention of men ever held on earth was presided over by a chairman as black as any man in Omaha.
