THE LIBEL CASE. The Jury Return a Verdict for Mr. Rosewater.

The Remaining Testimony in the Suit--A Complete Vindication. Yesterday morning all the arguments in the case of Mr. E. Rosewater against the publishers of the Republican were finished...

sworn for the defendant testified as follows, examined in chief by Mr. Hall. Have lived in Nebraska, continuously for over twenty years, came here in March, 1862...

Q. Do you know the charge of rumored reports against Mr. Rosewater which is the subject of this action? A. Yes, I know what the substance of the action is, and I know of these reports.

Q. Do you know what Mr. Rosewater's reputation was in the state of Nebraska as to his having been loyal or disloyal during the war or having been charged with being arrested as a confederate spy?

Q. How general had that report been in circulation in the state of Nebraska? A. In the state of Nebraska it was talked among political men particularly; I know that it had been charged in communications and public speeches; I have charged it myself.

Q. You speak with reference to years, for many years has that report as you have named it with the circulation that you say it had been current? A. There was considerable excitement during the war between the terms and Mr. Rosewater made a strong political fight upon him and upon all those that sustained Mr. Hitchcock...

Q. What do you mean by a public meeting? A. I mean that he has stated in my presence, that he was in the confidence of Secretary Stanton and that the most important things of the war were passed through his hands.

Q. Do you claim that the federal government established a proclamation that all northern men ought to get out of their line, and that was the reason that he was a spy? A. I did not say so.

Q. Did you ever hear this story about Rosewater being a spy before 1875? A. The first I heard of it was when he got mixed up in this fight with Mr. Hitchcock; that was some time after 1882 that it started.

is that he did not come voluntarily within the lines, but having got within the lines the provost marshal swore him in, and he went in like this regiment that went out to fight the Sioux Indians...

Q. You had considerable controversy with Mr. Rosewater? A. Yes, sir. Q. It was rather bitter? A. Only politically; personally we always talked of matters.

Q. That is one of the reasons why you think it is a confederate spy because you are bitter politically? A. No, I would not take my chances of charging it publicly if I could not prove it.

Q. What if anything did you know about the general circulation of the report in the state of Nebraska, before December, 1882, of the fact that Mr. Rosewater had been a traitor to his country...

Q. How long had these rumors been in circulation before 1882? A. I cannot say as to that. Q. For several years? A. I should judge so.

Q. You heard it since 1882--have you or have you not? A. As that I could not say. Q. Was it one of the counsel in this case? A. No, sir.

Q. One of the gentlemen connected with the case? A. I was asked if I ever heard such a thing as his being a rebel spy, or his being in the rebel service, and I told him that I heard the charge made that he was in the rebel service.

Q. How long ago was it that you heard of that? A. It must have been six or eight years ago, ten may be. Q. Did you say that Mr. Halcoll made his speech to a public meeting?

Q. I do not remember, but probably Judge Halcoll will; he made that speech as certain as I am sitting in this chair. General O'Brien will probably remember it.

Q. Did you hear the statement of Mr. Halcoll? A. I did. Q. Did you hear the speech to which he alluded?

luded in his testimony and also the one to which Mr. Hawes alluded? A. Mr. Halcoll, that at various times in speeches he made this of a rebel; I never heard but one speech and that was at the court house at a waterworks discussion where Hancock and Halcoll were on one side and myself and the citizens on the other; I think I very emphatically pronounced the language a falsehood at that time but it was not a charge as contained in this paper; he said in the implead that I was captured, that I was in the confederate service and I stated it was false.

Q. Did you ever see any newspaper article making the same charge prior to the appearance of this article which we have under consideration? A. I saw an article at one time in the Omaha News which I was told Vandervoort had written which bore some resemblance to this; it was not the same thing; I believe that I published a denial of that; I published some documents.

Q. Cross-examined by Mr. Thurston. Q. What was the date of that? A. I think it was in 1881 or that was the culmination of a ten or twelve months' controversy.
