PITS AND PENS.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—Very little interest was manifested in trading on "change to-day. The dullness was attributed largely to the approach of the national holiday and the fact that a majority of the small trades had been closed up, operators not desiring to keep them open over the Fourth of July. During the middle of the week on the bears, discerning some signs of weakness in the wheat market, raided it, carrying prices down to 1 1/2, which developed some activity and brought out some long wheat, but the feeling remained moderately steady and the tone in the afternoon was somewhat stronger, the market closing for the day about 4c under yesterday. The crop report is generally of a gloomy turn, the harvesting reports from Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Kansas indicating that the prospects of the yield are no brighter than reported earlier in the month. It is also stated that the returns from Minnesota and Wisconsin indicated on July 1st that the spring yield would not exceed that of last year. The amount of wheat on passage was reported to have increased 1,000,000 bushels, and the report was also circulated that seventy-two carloads of wheat had passed the Duluth and Grand Rapids docks, which provoked the early weakness. The receipts have continued fully up to the usual average and the shipments are light. There was a report that the corn crop in the north had been cut, and this competition caused a decline, but prices fell off with wheat and closed a shade under yesterday. The large freight companies are not so anxious to see the rate of 36c per 100 bushels of freight now to-day kept the market firm, however.

OATS.

The speculative market for oats ruled weaker, July declining 1/2c; rallied a trifle and closed steady.

PROVISIONS.

There was a very weak and unsettled feeling in provisions. Mess pork declined 2 1/2c; beef early, rallyed 5/16c and closed moderately steady. Lard declined 5/16c.

THE BULLING RATES.

The day's ruling of prices was: Wheat—July, 87 1/2c; closed 87 1/2c; August, 89 1/2c; closed 89 1/2c; September, 91 1/2c; closed 91 1/2c. Corn—Cash, 47 1/2c; closed 47 1/2c; August, 47 1/2c; closed 47 1/2c; September, 47 1/2c; closed 47 1/2c. On the afternoon board wheat was firmer and higher; corn, oats steady and unchanged; pork 1/2c higher, and lard unchanged.

CATTLE.

The receipts are largely on the increase, especially in Texans and greasy natives. Among the fresh arrivals to-day were about 10,000 Texas steers, cars of glucose, and ten or eleven cars of twenty cars. The market was dull and slow from the start to the finish, and prices a trifle lower on the ordinary run of fat cattle. Such as sold for $6.00 to $6.10 on Monday would not sell for over $5.90 to $6.10 to-day. The market was generally a trifle lower on the ordinary run of fat cattle. Such as sold for $6.00 to $6.10 on Monday would not sell for over $5.90 to $6.10 to-day. The market was generally a trifle lower on the ordinary run of fat cattle. CATCHING A MADMAN.

NORTH VERNON, Ind., July 2.—Great excitement was occasioned here this morning by the capture of a will man named Samuel Melvin, of Kentucky, who became suddenly ferocious and at a place on Greensburg street laid at bay all farm wagons that were coming into town. He had a long bowie knife and threatened to kill all who attempted to pass. Some twenty-five wagons were stopped by the desperate man. He attacked Tony Gasper's wagon and turned the horses and wagon over to killing the horses. He then attacked Gasper with his gleaming knife, inflicting wounds upon him, but not seriously injuring him. For three hours he kept on killing and maiming the horses in the most vicious manner yelled and attacked every one near him. He is a powerful built man and no one felt like tackling him. Finally Lon King, Andy Musser and Tom McAdams closed in on him, and a desperate struggle ensued. For a time it seemed that the desperate man would kill them all, but he was brought to the ground by a powerful blow by Andy Musser. They tied him with a rope and carried him away in a spring wagon. Fully 500 persons witnessed the exciting scene.

THE GRIT OF A GIRL.

How Mary Irby Brought Perry Johnson to Time, and Made Him Marry Her.

It became the official duty yesterday afternoon of Judge Barnes to ring the curtain down on the conclusion of quite an interesting and somewhat sensational little drama. It was a drama in two acts and four scenes, but utterly devoid of all theatrical merit or value as a theatrical production. It was a drama of real life, and depicted two very distinct, well-drawn characters. The first two scenes are laid in Des Moines, Iowa, and the last two in Omaha. Briefly stated, the plot, the story and the action are told as follows: Two years ago Perry Johnson and Mary Irby, both then living at Des Moines, met and became acquainted with each other. This acquaintance soon grew into warm friendship, and the friendship into red-hot love. But, as will be seen further along, this love, especially on Perry's part, was not of that pure, holy and sacred character which tends to elevate, enlighten and refine, and Mary's love was of entirely too confiding a nature. The result was they loved unwisely and far too well. Criminal instincts followed and, after having secured the girl's consent, Perry suddenly, unexpectedly, and without letting it be generally known, packed his baggage, deserted his duped victim, and came to Omaha. There the curtain went down on a scene of agony. But Mary Irby was not a girl to be thrown off in that manner. She determined to make it warm for that young man unless he made her his wife, therefore two days ago she arrived in Omaha also. Yesterday she had Perry Johnson arrested on a charge of bastardy and arraigned before Justice Barnes to give an account of his conduct. Rather, however, than have any further trouble he related and agreed to do the handsome by making Mary his wife. Soon as the necessary papers could be procured Judge Barnes performed the ceremony and the young couple went away apparently happy with each.
