Light woolen materials are far more comfortable for dress shirts than cotton fabrics.

Polonaises of cream-colored India silk are worn over skirts of embroidered muslin or lace.

Lace flounces are worn on grenadine dresses, the trimmings of the corsege being also of lace.

Babies are promptly cured by Red Star Cough Cure. No opiates or poisons.

Black grenadine dresses broche with velvet remain in vogue and rival those of satin and lace.

A woman lavishes all her affections on a pup dog it is a sign that her fine feelings are somewhat blunted.

Jabots of colored muslin, edged with deep lace plaited and fastened in the center with a knot of muslin, are again popular.

Hemstitch and drawn work are exceedingly popular upon the flounces of dresses of white material, whether woolen or cotton.

An Iowa girl has an album in which she keeps pictures of all the young men who have flirted with her without coming to the point.

It is her rogue's gallery.

"I never speak of us girls."

This is the revised version desired for the young man who has to escort his girl past an ice-cream saloon.—[OH City Blitz.

It is always well to have a piece of each silk ball dress to make the slippers which are to be worn with it. Some clever women are able to re-cover their slippers themselves.

A good test of suspected butter is to drop a piece into a well heated frying pan. If it melts it is butter. It is sweet and cushiony or bold, but not sputtering. If it be oleomargarine, it will sputter until melted.

The novelty of having one of the decks of a steamer fitted up as a skating rink is to be introduced in New York this summer. The vessel is to make trips up the Hudson in the daytime and be moored at her wharf at night, when roller skating will be indulged in.

"HOW HIGH IS DOT?"

The Badgers are a peculiar race, and to one who has been in a community where high license means $1,000 and low license means $300 to $500, their peculiar idea of what to play for "high" and what to play for "low" are very amusing.

Wisconsin has for years been drifting along under the suggestion that while

Johnnie Barleycorn was being talked about a good deal, but hardly creating as much of a sensation as in Iowa.

It is apparent by even a hurried con-act with residents of various parts of the state, that Johnnie Barleycorn was

"WHAT'S THE MATTER?"

The Council Bluffs Bee man recently had the pleasure of a whirl through Wisconsin, and aside from the joy of greeting old friends, and the annoyance of dodging old wash bills, gleaned some facts which will prove specially interesting to the Bee readers.
