Cancer of the Tongue,

Cancer of the Tongue,

A Case Resombling that of Gen. Grant.

Some ten years ago I bad a scrofulous sore on my right hand which gave me great trouble, and under the old time treatment healed up, but it had only been driven into the system by the use of potash and mercury, and in March. 1888, it broke out in my throat, and concentrated into what some of the doctors called cancer, eating through my cheek, destroying the root of my mouth and upper lip, then attacked my tongue, palate and lower lip destroying the palate and under lip entirely and that my tongue eating out to the top of my left cheek bone and up to the left eye. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids, and my tongue was so far gone I could not talk. Such was my wretched, heipless condition the first of last October (1839), when my friends commenced giving me Switt's Specific. In less than a month the eating places stopped and healing commenced, and the featful aparture in my cheek has been closed and firmly knitted together. A process of a new under lip is progressing finely, and;the tongue which was almost destroyed is being recovered, and it seems that nature is supplying a new tongue. I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can also eat solid food again. If any doubt those facts I would refer them to Hon. John H. Traylor, State Senator of this district, and to Dr. T. S. Bradfield, LaGrange, Ga.

Town Lots in Denver Junction Weld County, Colorado.

Denver Junction is a new town of about 200 nhabitants, laid out in 1884, on the great trunk railway across the continent, at the junction of the Julesburg Branch, 197 miles from Denver. The town is on second bottom land of the Platte River, the finest location between Omaha and Denver, and is surrounded by the best-laying lands west of Kearney Junction, Neb.; climate healthy and bracing; altitude 3,630 feet. Denver Junction bids to become an important point, as the U. P. R. R. Co., are putting up manyof their buildings here, while the B. & M. R. R. Co., are expected soon to connect at this place. The present chance for good investments in town lots will scarcely ever be equaled elsewhere. For sale by the lot or block in good terms by

Since the election, June 23, when the bond proposition was voted on by our citizens, and the question unanimously carried by many more votes than the required two-thirds majority, we have wit-nessed a thoroughly healthful and steady inacrese in the numbers of people coming within our borders. Several pleess of property have changed hands with profit to the buyer, no doubt as well as the for-mer owner. Several new buildings are already projected. The following letter, dated London,

The company have made no change from the original prices, but some parties who first purchased lots have resold them at splendid profits, in some cases at double the purchase price.
