Opening of the Amusement Season, The season at Boyd's opera house Auction," to be followed by "Za-mo-ra," These two fine spectacular pieces will take up the whole week. In the line of opera we shall have, during the season, Emma Abbott, the Thompson company, and the Boston Ideals; in drama: Barrett, Modjeska, Keene, Salvini, Mary Richard S. Berlin.—Omaha Excelsior. Anderson, Robson and Crane, Fannie Davenport and Rhes; in comedy: Nat go, N. Y., on the 6th inst. She is pre-Goodwin, Joe Murphy, John T. Raymond, Roland Reed, and Mr. and Mrs. Florence; minstrels: McNish's troupe, Barlow and Wilson, and Haverley's; besides Monte Christo, the Kiralfys, and other strong attractions of yarlous kinds. There will be no Uncle Tom's Cabin this season. Considerable new and handsome scenery has been added to the stage equipment. The prices will be the same as prevailed during the opening year of the opera house—25, 50 and 75 cents and $1,-this being a reduction from last year. The curtain will invariably rise at 8 o'clock sharp. The prospects are that the opera house will have a prosperous year of it.

We wish to inform the members of company E, Fourth infantry, through the columns of the BEE, that the rumor which was spread at the Fort to the effect that while attached to company E, Fourth infantry, the treatment we recelved was unsatisfactory to us is untrue. We, as a body, consider company E one of the best companies in the army, and in regard to the first sergeant we cannot speak too highly of him as a soldier and a man among men. The members of his company, in speaking of him, say he is the most just first sergeant in the Fourth infantry. A PRIVATE, Sixth Infantry.

An Evening of Pleasure,

A literary, musical and ine cream feetival will be given at St. Philomen's hall, Aug. 19, 1885, 8 a. m. On this occasion Mr. Thomas Brennan, ex secretary of the Land League in Ireland, will lecture on Thomas Davis, the poet-prophet of Ireland. Some of our fine musical talent will take part in the entertainment, notably Misses Parfette and Whiteside, Miss Fannie Arnold, Miss Chase and Nora Flannery. The proceeds are for the ben-eff; of St. Philomena's altar society.

No Pennies, if You Please.

To the Editor of the Bee. on the southeast corner of Seventeenth and Davenport streets, and her name is Mrs. Matilda Hedrick.

"The banks are beginning to pay out pennirs. Morse, Falconer, Williams and she married a man named John Briley in other merchants are giving them in change, and the publishers of the World have sent east for 25,000 pennies to furnish newsboys for change. The young girl, however, came west with her husband, determined to help him make a home. They settled in the city." nish newsboys for change. The small coin will soon become quite familiar in the city."

So we are to have a flood of pennies. Just think of this, west of the Missouri I object to the whole business, and so do a great majority of the dealers in Omaha, unless I am very much mistaken. When the state of Loung girl, however, came west with her husband, determined to help him make a home. They settled in the state of Loung, and lived there for many years accumulating something of a fortune, baving among other possessions a good farm. Two children were born to them, Lydia and Leonard.

She said that she had received a letter from her relatives in the east, notifying her of her father's death, she had replied that she would come on as soon as she could get the money. A sad paragraph in Mrs. Hedrick's life story is furnished in the semi tragic way in which she lost her daughter Lydia. Some days ago, there appeared in local print an account of the death by suicide of a young, girl Star Fontaine, at the Clother house, Columbus. This young woman afterwards turned out to be Lydia Briley, the daughter by first suicide of a young, girl Star Fontaine, at be Lydia Briley, the daughter by first marrlage of Mrs. Hedrick.
