A case in point was referred to, in which three men, representing themselves in the employ of the poundmaster, had driven off cows which were in charge of boys, and taken to the pound. In presenting the communication Mr. Furry waxed warm, and characterized the poundmaster as a scoundrel and a villain if he tried such men. He gave notice that he would introduce a resolution asking that the poundmaster be suspended. Referred to the committee on police.

The Pugilistic Party. The Burke pugilistic combination arrived in the city last night and are quartered at the Millard. The party consists of "Jack" Burke, "Young" Smith, the champion pugilist of England, Tom Chandler, the celebrated middle-weight boxer, James McKeown, the "Irish giant" and John McCoy, also a well known boxer. They will remain in the city and may give an exhibition here Sunday. McNally, the O'Neill pugilist, is anxious to stand up for a few rounds before Burke, and he will probably be given an opportunity to acquire some notoriety in that direction.

A reporter for the Bee met Mr. Burke last night and had a short chat with him on a variety of topics. The pugilist is medium in stature, of muscular, athletic figure. He is of very pleasant address and converses rapidly and intelligently. "Yes," he said, "I am going through 'o Frisco, and there I expect to meet Cleary. I shall fight him for the championship of the state of California, and a purse of $5,000. Cleary is a first class man, a good boxer, and a hard hitter."

"What do you think of the Sullivan-McCaffrey fight?"

"Well, I hardly know what to think about the matter. Sullivan drove McCaffrey all around the ring, and didn't have to work very hard at her. The fact of the matter is that Sullivan is the best man in this or any country. He can whip me and McCaffrey together. By the way, I have made a match with McCaffrey for $5,000, and made the agreement by telegraph last night. No, I don't know where we shall fight."

A Drunken Wife Beater. Capt. Sullivan and Officer Crawford were summoned about 12 o'clock last night to the corner of Eighth and Jones streets to arrest a man for beating his wife and driving her and her five-week-old baby out of the house.

When the officers arrived at the place designated they found the woman sitting by the side of the road with her infant in her arms, shivering with the cold. She could not speak English, being a Swede, but the neighbors said that her husband had driven her from the house and was inside asleep. Upon the officer asking to be admitted the man refused to open the door, which was then forced. A struggle ensued to secure the man, but with the assistance of others the officers managed to hold him and put on his clothes, and he was then marched to the police station. There he gave his name as Alexander Belander. He was locked up on the charge of wife beating and being drunk and disorderly. Judge Sengber will deal with his case this morning.

Army Matters. Col Henry was beaten yesterday making up and sending out the certificates of excellence to the marksmen and sharpshooters of the department of the Plat. There at present 800 marksmen and 100 sharpshooters in this department.

The following named enlisted men have been relieved from further duty in connection with department rifle competition at department rifle camp near Fort Omaha, Neb., and will proceed to their respective stations:

Sergeant Ferdinand Ludders, Privates Frederick Neide and Thomas White, company E, Twenty-first infantry to Fort Sidney, Neb.

Privates George McMahon, company E, and Bennet Nelson, company E, Fourth infantry, to Fort Omaha, Neb. Leave of absence for fourteen days has been granted Major Robert H. Hall, 22d, Twenty-second infantry, acting instructor general.

A Plucked Pigeon. D. C. McGuire, a young man who has but recently arrived in this city appeared before Judge Stenberg yesterday and told a pitiful tale of how he had been robbed by a couple of thugs Tuesday night. He said that he was walking down South Tenth street Tuesday night or rather early yesterday morning when he was set upon and beaten by a couple of roughs. They knocked him down and robbed him of all the money that he had as well as several valuable pieces of jewelry in his possession. They then threw him into an excavation near the street where he lay for some time unconscious. The police captured William Hughes and Frank Klidginton as being the men who committed the assault. Both pleaded not guilty and were remanded together with McGuire, the witness, to the county jail for trial.

The Cavalry at the Reunion. HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT NEBRASKA, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, OFFICE OF CARNEY DIVISION, SILVER CREEK, NEB., AUGUST 31.

Circular No. 1: As heretofore requested in general order it is desired to make the Carney display a special feature of the coming reunion at Beatrice, and the best ever had in the state; all that is necessary is that the company in adequate supply of saddles and bridles, and for this we must be mainly dependent on the kindness and friendly interest of citizens and soldiers who may assist in this object, and it is therefore asked as a special favor that all such as can do so will bring saddles and bridles with them for their own use or the use of others who may desire them. There will be no risk of loss, as each can retain his own. There will be plenty of horses that can be used, and all having swords and sabres please bring these also.

A. V. Cole, Department Commander, CHAS. WOODRICK, Chief of Carney.

An Injunction sued. Late Tuesday evening Mr. James Cummings of the Omaha Lithographing and Stationary company, procured from Judge Neville a temporary injunction restraining Mr. E. P. Davis of the Novelty Iron works from cutting off the motive power, need in operating the machinery of the company in which the plaintiff is interested. It seems that for some time there has been a misunderstanding between Mr. Davis and Mr. Cummings. The latter claims that Mr. Davis threatens to cut off the motive power of his plant at Omaha Lithographing and Stationary company from operating their machinery.

The order of injunction was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Crowell, and after some trouble he succeeded in finding Mr. Davis and serving it upon that gentleman.

The Viaduct's Cost. A reporter met Councilman Goodman yesterday, and asked him something about the proposed viaduct improvements.

"We calculate," he said, "that the proposed changes will cost not to exceed $100,000. Of this amount the city will have to pay two-fifths, the railroad paying the other three-fifths. This will make the cost to the tax-payers of Omaha about $40,000. For myself I am in favor of changing the grade of the street, outside of the curb lines, as mentioned in our report. But the property owners on that street objected so, that we were compelled to agree upon the points contained in our report, or else do nothing in the matter at all."

District 37's New School House. The new school house in Douglas precinct, district 37, has been completed at a cost of $10,000, and will be opened to the taxpayers and their friends on Thursday evening. Music, literary exercises and dancing will constitute the programme.

Notice. As the W. C. T. U. have withdrawn their support from the fair, we will not call for the previous solicitors for the booth. The money donated for the same purpose is in the hands of the society and awaits the disposition of the donor.

JENNIE H. KYLE, Sec. Pro Tem.

A BIG LAW SUIT.

A Claimant Who Doesn't Want the Earth, but Only a Good Share of It.

There was filed in the Douglas county district court yesterday afternoon a bill in equity, which will interest a large number of persons in this city. The title of the case is Anna M. G. McCormick against Algernon S. Paddock, Herman Kountze and about seventy others. The object of the suit is to set aside former partition proceedings, which were begun in 1888 by George R. Smith, who was once postmaster in this city, against Mary Ann Harrington. Smith owned 62 acres of land on 15th and 16th streets and was the owner of the balance of the 60-acre tract of ground. The land to be partitioned between the two joint owners was what is now known as Smith's addition, lying at the west end of Farnam street, which addition has been subdivided into Kilby Place, Jerome Park and Highland Place. The land was partitioned between the said parties and ordered sold, and was purchased at the sale by Smith. It is stated in the bill of equity that at the time of the proceedings, notice having been served by publication on the defendant, Miss Harrington, who was a non-resident, had departed this life, and that therefore the claim is now made that the proceedings were wholly void. The plaintiff, Anna M. G. McCormick, by her attorney, G. W. Ambrose, brings this suit to set aside the partition proceedings and to quiet the title. The plaintiff, claiming to have purchased the right of the heirs and representatives of Miss Harrington, lays claim to an undivided interest in about 370 lots, composing the original eighty acres, now embraced in Kilby Place, Jerome Park and Highland Place.

THE FLYERS ON THE TRACK.

How the Entries for the Races are Coming in—The Classes.

Secretary Wheeler, of the Omaha Fair Association, reports that 65 entries had been received up to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, for the races next week, and that many more will probably come in the malls to-day from men who posted them just before the hour of closing Monday night. The nominations now on hand give 11 starters in the 2:40 class; 9 in the 3:00 class; 8 in the 2:48 class; 9 in the free-for-all class; 7 in the 2:30 class, etc. Horses are arriving daily and the race track begins to present an animated appearance. As the flyers are worked out the touts gather pointers for tips, but the chances are large there will be some dark horses in the large fields that will upset the calculations of the knowing ones.

Prof. Hunt, the balloonist, who is to make three ascensions here during fair week, arrived last night from Helena, Montana, where he "went up in a balloon" on the 26th, 27th and 28th of August, to the delight of large audiences. Hunt gives a novel and pleasing performance, sailing away skyward without car or basket, and using only a light trapeze bar on which he executes daring and difficult athletic evolutions. A description of this champion aeronaut was given in the Bee when he passed through Omaha on his way west last month, and there is nothing to add now. He says that his experience in Montana was very pleasing, and that he has made engagements that will keep him on the Pacific coast all winter. The ascensions here are set for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, and will be very attractive and interesting features.

The Higgins Case Settled. The police court was fairly well filled yesterday afternoon by spectators eager to hear the trial of the case of Charles S. Higgins. The jury was called yesterday afternoon consisted of the following gentlemen: A. L. Strang, Gustav Andersen, John Baumer, M. Toft, E. T. Duke and J. B. Redfield.

Everybody supposed that the trial would close off and that Mr. Higgins would fight to the last ditch for the privilege of keeping his windows curtained after midnight. After a little hearing, however, Mr. Connell who represented the city arose and said that he was willing to allow Mr. Higgins to plead guilty in one of the cases, and to dismiss the other sixteen which are pending against him on complaints sworn out by Marshal Cummings. This was finally agreed to.

Mr. Higgins pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs, the other cases against him being dismissed. This is practically, of course, a victory for Marshal Cummings, as it will compel Mr. Higgins to keep his curtains up after midnight in the future.

On the course of his remarks Mr. Connell said that the law would require Mr. Higgins, as well as the other saloon keepers of the city, to keep their curtains up on Sunday as well as after midnight, in order that the police might at any time gain view of the interior. Exception to this remark was taken by the counsel for Mr. Higgins, who said that the mayor's order was to the effect that curtains were to be down during Sunday. The law, however, expressly to the contrary, and Mayor Boyd himself declares it as his belief that uncurtained windows should be the rule all the time.

District Court News. Eliza Flannery filed a motion yesterday praying that she be awarded $1,500 by the city of Omaha for damages to property by the grading of Hickory street.

A transcript of appeal from Justice Selden's court was filed yesterday in the case of Mary Morrison vs. the city of Omaha for damages amounting to $75 to property, caused by an overflow of water. The lower court had awarded damages to the amount of $30 40, but the plaintiff was not satisfied, and the appeal is to obtain judgment for $75 and the cost of the trial.
