

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS Thursday Morning, September 10, Office No. 12 Pearl St.

MINOR MENTION.

Flower pots at Homer's, 23 Main. Retter, merchant tailor, for fine goods

The Knights of Labor are to give their fifth annual ball in Masonic hall on the evening of the 23d.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians are arranging to give a grand ball in Masonic hall on the first of October.

Yesterday afternoon the county supervisors went out on a personal inspection of a proposed road in Lewis township.

The canvas coverings of the books in the recorder's office are getting so badly worn, that the county board has ordered new ones.

Mr. Dave Friedman, who formerly was in the store of his uncle, H. Friedman, in this city, has opened a dry goods store in Tabor.

The lighting up of the street lights is hailed with joy by the citizens, who have tired of floundering through the mud and dark, and the city at large is relieved from much risk in the line of suits for personal injuries.

Word has been received from a former Council Bluffs man, now in California, that there met Mr. Derksen, who recently went out of the barber and bath business here, and left so mysteriously for parts unknown.

A number of the citizens of Oakland have joined in a remonstrance against the county board giving to P. P. Clayton, of that place, any permit to sell intoxicating liquors for medical purposes, etc.

A young fellow who was too drunk to give any very intelligent account of himself or his experience, was brought into the police headquarters yesterday, and claimed that he had been beguiled into a box car in the railway yard by some fellow who acted very friendly to him, and that he had there been robbed of about eight dollars.

Burnham, Tulley & Co. are preparing to occupy all of the building in which their office is now located, and are fitting up the main street front.

The taxes in Council Bluffs will be about thirty mills under the new levy, but it is to be remembered that the assessed valuation is very low.

It does not look now as if any great amount of paving would be done this year. It was intended to let the sewerage of most of the streets go at present, and to get the paving done at once, but there will be no more shipments, and no active work until the sewers and curbing can be put in.

A short time ago there was a little flurry of sensation here over the disappearance of Jesse Baldwin, traveling man for Wirt & Daquette, and the discovery that he was a little short with his accounts, and a good deal short with his private bills.

The building completed will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. The architects are Eckel & Mann, of St. Joe, who have had as their superintendent, J. M. Carter.

The second game of base ball this season between the Minden club and the Athletics of this city took place yesterday afternoon at the driving park in this city.

The outfield was a little muddy at the beginning of the game but the sun dried it up nicely before the game was over.

The game opened with the Athletics to the bat, and Barry, Oliver and Dougherty went out in one, two, three order. The Minden club scored three runs, all they made during the game.

Strook hit a grounder and reached first, when the fielder threw the ball over the first baseman's head, and by a block ball Strook got home, as did Stubbs, Bierwein and Liston afterward, counting four

THE NEW CAGE. Prisoners Will Now be Kept in a Cylinder Weighing Forty-Five Tons. A New and Novel Jail.

It was the intention to move the prisoners into the new county jail yesterday, but there were so many citizens who were anxious to look through the new building, that the day was devoted to their accommodation, and Sheriff Guttar and John W. Carter, the superintendent of construction, put in their time in showing visitors about, and courteously explaining how easy it was to get into jail, and how hard it was to get out.

The new jail is a novelty which is well worth visiting. The peculiar feature of the jail, which marks it as different from any other is that the cells are arranged in the form of a great iron cylinder, which revolves about so that only one cell is at the opening at any one time.

This cylinder is three stories high, there being ten cells on each floor, the weight being five tons, and his ponderous weight is hung from above, instead of turning on a track below. The strangest part of the arrangement is that the great cylinder can be turned by a simple crank with very little force, a man with his left hand moving it readily.

It is the intention to have a little water motor in the basement, and then by simply moving a lever the cylinder will be set to rotating. It is suggested that when there are prisoners who it is feared may be a trifle to cut out, the cylinder can be moved by a motor kept moving slowly all night, so that the prisoners do not remain long enough in one place to do any mischief, or even to crawl out if they had any partial break.

It seems that prisoners have little chance for escape from this new jail. A cage of iron bars completely surrounds the cylinder in which the cells are. The entrance on each floor is guarded by two doors. The officer standing outside does not have to unlock even the first door, but can swing the cylinder around until the cell appears in which is the desired prisoner, and then by a simple movement the inner door is opened, and the prisoner can step out of his cell. Then the officer can open the other door and let the man out, but the other prisoners are way beyond any possible reach of the officer, and it is impossible for them to make any break on him, while he is taking a man out, or putting one in. He can handle any number of men in the same way, and they cannot get within reach of him until he chooses to let them.

Each cell is provided with two iron bunks, and with a water closet, and the center of the cylinder is a great ventilating shaft, and chamber for water pipes, so that each cell is supplied with water and drainage, and the best of ventilation.

There are also on each floor two exercise rooms, where the prisoners can be allowed to walk, eat, wash, etc., at the discretion of the jailer. These are no less secure from escape, and are ingeniously arranged so that the turnkey can take the men, one at a time, out together, without making it possible for them to make any break or to get near him.

Besides the cells in the cylinder, there are two departments, of five cells each, one of which is to be used for the women and the other for juveniles. Each of these departments is furnished with a bath tub and other necessities, and well arranged. There is also a hospital cell-room, for the care of any prisoners who may chance to need special care.

As each cell has two bunks there can easily be accommodated in the cell a total of eighty-two prisoners, and in case more room is needed there can easily be arrangements made for accommodating almost twice that number, as the corridors and exercise rooms could be fitted up with bunks, and made to hold many safely, and there are store rooms and other places, which can easily be fitted into cell rooms. It seems that the jail will be large enough for all the purposes of the county for many years to come, and under all possible emergencies.

The ventilation of the city jail is ample, for shafts run from every cell, and room, and closet, into the main shaft, and all impure air is readily carried off. The building is to be heated by steam, lighted by gas, and supplied with hot and cold water. In fact it seems complete in all its appointments.

In the basement are rooms, two in number, where the boiler and other things can be kept. In the front of the main floor are two rooms, one for a kitchen and the other for a dining room, and upstairs there are bedrooms for the accommodation of the jailer's family.

There are two large stone rooms up stairs also, which will prove convenient. The roof is of slate, and the building being almost wholly of iron, steel, brick and stone, it is practically fireproof. The bars used in the cells and cage are of iron and steel in alternate places, and are so strong and so peculiarly constructed that it seems impossible to break them or to drill them.

The building completed will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. The architects are Eckel & Mann, of St. Joe, who have had as their superintendent, J. M. Carter.

The mason work was done by Wickham Brothers, of this city; Haugh, Ketchum & Co., of Indianapolis, furnished the iron work; John E. Spencer, of this city, did the cornice work and roofing; J. B. Terwilliger, of this city, did the painting, and G. S. Lawson the carpenter work.

Miss Grace Osborne has gone to Des Moines to resume her college course there.

T. A. Belt started out on the road yesterday in the interest of Gilbert & Uterback.

J. W. Chase, a prominent grain man of Red Oak, was at the Ogden house yesterday.

Walter Stillman, son of Dr. Stillman, has gone to Davenport to enter upon his sophomore year in college there.

Donald Macrae, son of Dr. Macrae, left Tuesday night for Morgan Park, Ill., where he will resume his studies in the military institute.

Miss Celia Hughes, daughter of the well known contractor, has returned from a pleasant visit to friends and relatives in Des Moines and in Colfax.

Dr. Seth H. Craig, formerly warden in the penitentiary in Fort Madison, and now a resident of Wynome, Nebraska, was in the city yesterday, greeting friends here, of whom he has many.

The T. N. Bray stock of boots and shoes will be removed to-day to 106 1/2 Main street, two doors below the old stand. The stock will be closed out at greatly reduced prices.

for Council Bluffs, Rogers, Nobles and Barry getting put out. The Minden club ended the last half of the second inning by Parker and Wyland striking out and Crow getting out on first by Strook's throw to Nobles.

THIRD INNING. Dougherty hit one to the pitcher, who threw it to first. The baseman hunted all around for Dougherty, and on finding him laying on the ground with his hands on the bag, touched him, at which the umpire, Mr. Lake, of Des Moines, shouted "out," which rightly caused a big "kick," but the ruling was final, so the play went on. The Council Bluffs boys got hot and Oliver and Strook went out on first. The Minden's now took their turn and G. Griest went out first, C. Lake out on a fly to Bierwein in left field, and D. Ely struck out.

FOURTH INNING. Stubbs led off with a right foul, which was a stunner, and broke his bat. He then sent a grounder to right short and gained his first. Bierwein followed with a hot one to second, which was the cause of putting out Stubbs, and G. Gelst sent the ball to Wyland on first, which caused Bierwein to retire. Rogers then made his fly a hit to the pitcher and was finally put out by a throw to Wyland by E. Gelst, but the umpire said "hold," which made up for Dougherty being "called" out. The Minden boys kept quiet. Nobles then made a hit to right field. Liston sent one to left field, who held it after the pick up so long before he threw it that Liston got to first, Rogers to third and left three men on the bases. Barry struck determined to get up to the bat, but his third attempt to hit the ball was a failure. The catcher missed it, but, picked it up and jumped on the home plate, the umpire shouting "out on first," caused a roar to go up from the spectators. Rogers getting out at home closed this inning for the Athletics. E. Gelst started in for Minden but was put out at first. C. Kelly sent a grounder to Strook on second, who failed to pick it up in time. Wyland sent one to right short. By a passed ball Kelly and Wyland each got a base. Parker then took first on called balls. J. Crow sent a fly to Bierwein who caught it and threw to Strook, but Wyland was there and Strook sent it home to Liston, who put Kelly out.

FIFTH INNING. Dougherty hit a long fly over the left fielder's head and reached second. Oliver failed to reach first in time. Strook sent one over the left fielder and caught second and Dougherty counted. Strook got to third on a passed ball, and also got in on another. Stubbs got first on called balls, and stole his second base. Bierwein sent a fly to center which Lake caught. Rogers got to first on one to center also. Stubbs scored, and a wild throw home. Rogers home. Nobles struck out. Oliver caught on G. Gelst in center on the Minden's again entering. Lake and Ely struck out.

SIXTH INNING. Wyland came in as catcher while Kelly went to third base, but the change made no difference, as the Athletics "got onto" Minden's pitching. Liston and Dougherty hitting "torrors" to center field, and the Athletics got in seven runs this inning. The Minden club concluded as they did "clock," they had better quit, as they had to take the train for home at 5:25.

THE RENS were made as follows:

ONLY ONE DOLLAR. A Big Damage Suit Ends with a Woo Verdict.

The jury in the case of C. E. Stone against the city, reached a decision about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having been closeted since 5 o'clock the evening before.

The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse, for after a dreary trial and this long closing, the jury decided in favor of the plaintiff, and fixed his damages at one dollar.

There were practically two cases involved, Mr. Stone claiming damages on account of the water flooding his residence caused by slipping on a defective crossing. The award of only one dollar is rather discouraging to those who are so ready to jump on to the city with other suits for damages.

A Volcano, Curiously Formed, Lancaster, Penn., New Era.

The laboratory of the Keystone Normal school, where it will hereafter be used for purposes of instruction. It was formed spontaneously at the Macungie furnace, in Lehigh county, on the top of a car of melted iron cinders. As the extreme crust of the slag cooled and consequently contracted, the interior gases, cramped for want of room, burst out at the surface in jets and spurts, as in a natural volcanic eruption, and proportionately quite as high, gradually forming the frustum of an irregular cone, with an opening in the center from bottom to top. Through this opening the melted matter was forced up from the mass below, running over at the top of the cone on all sides and dripping downward, cooled into beautiful stalactical forms. After the gases had become exhausted an opening was made near the base of the cone, giving another outlet to the matter left in the crater, which left the opening in the cone clear and comparatively smooth. The height of the cone is 20 inches, outside diameter at bottom 10 inches, and at the top 5 inches. Its growth occupied half an hour. Its weight is 90 pounds. This is a good illustration of the manner in which volcanic peaks are supposed to be naturally formed, confirming the theory that, as the crust of the earth contracts by cooling the interior gases and melted matter requiring more room, mountain ranges are raised, and at the weaker points, openings are forced, from which the imprisoned matter escapes, and volcanic peaks and craters are formed, just as in the specimen above described.

LICENSE LAW. How it was Enforced Yesterday by Threats of Seizure. The Money Comes In.

It was a feverish and busy day among the saloon men and city officials yesterday, the time being up at 10 o'clock in which to pay up, or shut up, in accordance with the mayor's proclamation. The city clerk was kept busy making out receipts and taking in money, and Judge Aylesworth was so crowded with business that he did not have time to get his dinner. As a result of the morning's work about $1,600 was put into the city's treasury, and fifty-four saloons were given the needed permit of the city to "sell drinks not prohibited by law."

Some of the soiled doves also appeared in their brightest feathers and dropped into the strong box their fines. The only one of the gambling houses which had not paid contributed $108. The record at last stood: Number of those who had paid $25 a month for August and September, 40; number of those who had not paid, 4; number of those who had closed, or gone out of business, or been stopped by injunction, 6. A number, six or eight, had arranged to pay, the actual cash not having been received but the license deemed secure.

Then the mayor started out to make the few delinquents come to time. In the morning Judge Aylesworth had issued a few writs for search and seizure, it being expected that the parties named therein would stand a fight, but they submitted gracefully, and would not stand out, so the writs were not served.

In the afternoon it was talked that Billy Lacy would not pay his license, and Oliver Lower and a few others still held out. The mayor wanted the papers to arrest them and search their places, and seize their stock of liquors, but Judge Aylesworth was not to be found. He was hunted for all over the city, but his honor was among the missing. The little mayor was wroth, and deemed that the judge had shirked from the responsibility of helping carry out the license law. Justice Frayne was sent for, and, although he climbed up on the workbench of the superior court and attended to some of the collections of fines, he refused to sign the writs for the seizure of the stock of the delinquents. He said he didn't want to mix up in the business, and that it was Judge Aylesworth's duty, not his, to see that the law was enforced, but would not come. The mayor went after him and interviewed him, but the justice had known the mayor so long that he was suspicious and flatly refused to do anything in the matter, on the ground that when Judge Aylesworth wanted him to sit in his place he always requested him personally to do so. Then Justice Hendricks was called on. He signed the papers and issued the writs, and the mayor called attention with glee to the fact that he and Hendricks were both Virginians and had more pluck than the northern blood showed.

The writs and warrants were placed in the hands of officers with instructions to serve them, or else to secure the money in advance by the plan laid out by the mayor was to first labor with the delinquents, and then if they would not pay, to serve the papers, and to bring the delinquents into court, and to search the places, and either cart off the liquors to some safe place, or to leave an officer in charge of the saloon, and keep it closed for business.

Lacy and Lower held off for some time, and the officers went so far as to take their stand in their places, and at last they concluded to pay, and have peace. Thus the cruel war is over, and peace will probably reign for a month.

The prohibitionists declare that this business will not affect their plans. They do not intend to bring any more injunction cases, until the thirty-nine now pending are decided.
