WANTED: A candidate for lieutenant-governor. Apply to D. B. Hill, Albany, N. Y.

A bill for the gradual abolition of slavery has passed both houses of the Brazilian parliament.

Governor Hill has received congratulatory messages from many eminent democrats, but Grover Cleveland has not yet been heard from.

The Boston Advertiser pays a high compliment to Agent Gassman, of the Crow Creek agency, and commends him to the president as a proper person to receive the benefits of civil service reform.

There is blood on the moon. The democratic factions in Omaha are sharpening their tomahawks and scalping knives for the deadly hand to hand combat, which is to be fought out between the cohorts of Miller and Boyd and their opponents under the leadership of Charley Brown.

Permanent exhibitions are becoming fashionable in all large cities, and are making state fairs take a back seat, although there is no good reason why the two shows should conflict in any way.

Why can't the city council take steps to grade Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, between Farnam and Harney, so as to enable the county commissioners to extend the court house retaining walls and enclose the grounds this year?

The rules of the British postoffice with regard to offensive partisanship have recently found their way into the hands of Postmaster General Vilas. They read as follows:

(1) That no postmaster or other servant of the department shall serve on a committee having for its object to promote the return of a particular candidate.

(2) That he shall not support or oppose any particular candidate, either by public speaking or writing.

(3) That no notice soliciting votes for any particular candidate shall be affixed either within or without any postoffice or other place under the control of the department, and that within such building no memorial or address with a party object shall be for signature or be exhibited.

The Bell telephone and the Western Union monopolies recently charged that Attorney-General Garland had given the permission to institute the government suit against the Bell company at Memphis for the purpose of contesting the validity of the patent, and that it was improper for him to do so because he was connected with a competing telephone company.

COUNCILMAN FURAY will introduce an ordinance to create the office of city veterinarian, who is to act in conjunction with the state veterinarian. This proposition should meet the approval of the council and the ordinance should be passed without delay.

Tree-Planting and Forest Preservation.

The people of this country are fast becoming aware of the importance of the planting of trees and the preservation of the forests. The proceedings of the fourth annual meeting of the American Forestry congress, which has just been held in Boston, show that many able and influential men, from all parts of the country, are interested in this movement.

At the recent meeting in Boston some very able addresses were delivered upon forestry by eminent men who have given the subject much thought and study. Much valuable information, numerous statistics and important suggestions were presented, and we have no doubt the result will be an increased interest in forestry.

There is abundant evidence in America of the effects of the cutting down of the forests. In central New York, where this has been done, streams that thirty years ago kept mills going and furnished a never failing supply of running water, are now dry in summer, yet with the warm rains and thaws of spring overflow their banks.

condition. They are put on the market and purchasers who are not familiar with live stock ailments, frequently buy and introduce them among their healthy stock.

A Bumptious Territory. A Cedar county farmer sports a pumpkin shirt stud weighing 14 pounds. A collision of freight trains in the Plattsmouth yards wrecked several cars.

The letter of the executive committee of the Knights of Labor to Manager Callaway of the Union Pacific, in response to his own manifesto, while temperate in its tone, is caustic in its reference to the duplicity heretofore practiced by the company in disclaiming responsibility for the employment of Chinese in the Wyoming mines.
