

REPUBLICAN REJOICING.

The Grand Old Party Plants Its Eternal Colors on the Ohio Ramparts.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND MAJORITY.

Forsaker Elected and the Entire Legislative Ticket Carried for the Republicans Throughout the State.

The Ohio Election.

[The election in Ohio was for state and county officers, for thirty-seven senators and one hundred and ten representatives of the general assembly, and upon four amendments to the constitution of the state, one changing the elections from October to November, and one changing the term of office for township trustees.

Governor Hoadley is the democratic candidate for re-election, J. B. Forsaker republican candidate, and Rev. A. B. Leonard the prohibition candidate for governor.

There are 2,017 voting precincts in the state. Comparison will be made with the vote for governor in 1883, when Governor Hoadley was elected by a plurality of 12,220 over J. B. Forsaker.

Prohibition vote will be compared with same vote in 1883, when the total was 6,362.

THE DAY.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—The election in this city began without disorder. Up to ten this morning no arrests had been made. Two causes contributed to this result, the division of the precincts so that not more than three or four hundred voters are in any one, and the fact that nearly all precincts are located near the polls.

Rain was reported over almost the entire state last night and to-day. This will doubtless have a decided effect upon the vote.

The rain ceased here between 11 and 12 o'clock, but the day is not entirely clear. The sun is out, but the clouds are still heavy.

At Columbus, Oct. 13.—The election is passing quietly and without incident. The vote will be polled. It is believed that if it should clear away, the day will be a fair one.

from all the doubtful precincts, and have elected their representatives. They claim a majority on the joint ballot outside of Hamilton county.

The weather last night and during the early hours this morning was anything but conducive to enthusiasm. The air was damp and chilly and a 1/2 inch rain fell almost continuously.

Judge Forsaker spent the night in an office near the telegraph building, where with a few friends he read telegraph returns. He was gratified with first indications, but was not quick to claim an advantage.

When the news became conclusive, he wore an expression of relief. He read the programs of congratulation, and after his n gain had reached a figure sufficient to overcome the majority against him in 1883 he went to his home on Walnut hill.

A KILLING AT CINCINNATI.—Charles Worman was drinking in Mrs. Berdick's saloon, at the corner of Eighth and Broadway, to-night, with a number of men. A quarrel began, and Worman was stabbed and killed on the sidewalk outside. Lincoln Hatery, one of the crowd, has been arrested.

HOW THE POOLS SORT.—The evening pools here were selling 1/2 to 3/4 in favor of Hoadley's election. At 10:10 p. m. 2 to 1 was given for Forsaker, but he would be successful by 6,000 majority.
