

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS. THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 15. OFFICE: No. 12 Pearl Street.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week.

H. W. TAYLOR, Editor. MANAGER.

MINOR MENTION.

Refer, the faller, for fall goods.

The city council is to meet Saturday afternoon on important business.

A. J. Mandel now rolls out on the street a new wagon for use in his business.

R. Morrison, as a plain drunk, was yesterday given the usual dose of light business for police court these days.

The cases of Shields and Trank, for robbing Charles Hunter, are to be heard before Justice Franey on Saturday.

There will be a social and supper in the parlors of the Methodist church this evening given by the ladies of the church.

The ladies of the German Lutheran church are to give a social this evening at the residence of Charles Barghusen, No. 224 Benton street.

Rev. Thomas Harrison, whose name as a wonderful revivalist is a familiar one, is to commence next Sunday a series of meetings in the Broadway Methodist church.

A report gained currency yesterday that the body of a child had been found in the reservoir of the water works, but it could not be traced to any reliable source and it does not appear how such a story got the start.

A goodly number of the conductors who have been in convention at Denver arrived here yesterday on their return home, and took a special east over the Northwestern, the train being taken out by Messrs. and Jennings.

This far thirty-seven saloon men have paid their license for October, leaving about seventeen yet to be heard from.

Among the delinquents are some of the most prominent and reliable of all, and they will probably drop in shortly.

An attempt was made Tuesday night to burglarize the boarding house of Mrs. George Smith, corner of Mynter and Sixth streets.

The following appeared to be darkies, were frightened away before they had time to secure any plunder.

James Mithen has just completed his large and convenient new residence, corner of Seventh street and Washington avenue, and is proceeding to move in.

The many friends of this worthy citizen, who has lived here for over thirty years, will rejoice to see him so comfortably located in such a fine home. He deserves just such prosperity.

Two colored women, denizens of Pierce street, had a row yesterday afternoon, and got to thrashing each other.

The only damage was to a neighboring window, which was knocked out of time by a flying shot. The police went up to arrest the women, but found the fight over, and the combatants quietly sleeping, and not liking to disturb their slumbering innocences, the boys in blue marched back to headquarters without them.

It is quietly whispered that the members of the mayor's police force have been generously given a chance to take shares of stock in the new business enterprise in which the mayor is interested.

From the whimsical and arbitrary officer but two has invested in one $10 share, and the dividends on this stock will probably enable them to get along on their present salaries even if they do have to take an average of twenty-five per cent discount. It is understood that everybody cannot get such a chance in such a wonderful enterprise.

One of the citizens was yesterday watching the progress of the paving on North Second street, when three dogs came running along abreast, a big Newfoundland being the center one, and one smaller dog on each side of him.

No eager wags there in the race, they did not notice the citizen until close on him, when one of the little dogs darted one side of him, the other little dog took the other side, and the big Newfoundland struck the citizen fairly amidships, and for a moment the air was full of dogs and citizen. Those in the vicinity had a merry laugh, except Mr. S. S. Keller, who some way didn't think it was so funny, awfully funny, that is, for a few minutes or so.

An attempt is to be made to get the aldermen to put in writing all resolutions which they present in council meetings.

This has been tried in the past but never worked very satisfactorily, the aldermen not always liking to face afterwards the resolutions drawn up themselves, and which later reflections sometimes show to be the wisest or most politic which could have been framed.

By the verbal process an alderman can readily have the minutes corrected so as to conform with his later judgment and wish, and if there is any howl on the part of the dear people they can lay the blame on the clerk, he having made a mistake in putting the motion down. Written resolutions are not always as convenient in this respect, but if real honest accuracy is wanted, and everybody is willing to stand up fully to the responsibility which belongs to them, then written resolutions are a help, and should be adopted as expediting business greatly.

A man named Grady, who works for Ben Marks, and who has the distinction of being a cousin of the mayor, Grady, has been annoyed greatly of late by a dog barking and snapping at him as he passed along the street near Henry Miles' residence, and hearing that the dog belonged to Miles, he told Miles that if the dog ever bit him he should shoot the offender. This seems to have been the starter for ill feeling between the two men, and yesterday they came to meet a woful war took place, and Miles is said to have thrown a brick, hitting Grady in the head, knocking him silly, and cutting a hole which had to be sewed up.

It is claimed that he struck Grady in self-defense, as Grady had a knife. He was discharged. Grady claims that he had his pocket knife in his hand whittling something when the brick came sailing suddenly his way, and that he did not attempt to think of using it.

Mr. Lawrence Marston and Miss Lilian Dunstan, supported by an excellent company, appear to be closing at the opera house, this closing their engagement here. With such a strong play as "A Wife's Honor," and so ably presented, it seems that there should have been crowded houses, but such was not the case. The public does not show much fairness in distributing its patronage.

When some cheap sort of a show with high enough rates of admission come along they are quite liable to give it a full house, but when a some such meretricious entertainment as this comes here empty benches are as liable to greet them as full ones are to greet the side show. One of the reasons, perhaps, is that not very good judgment is shown in the amusement management here, too many poor shows being allowed to occupy the house, and it is often being crowded. Council Bluffs is fast losing ground in amusements, and the better class of entertainments are avoiding coming here. Just such lack of appreciation as was shown the company which has just closed its engagement here naturally tends to prevent their return, and the use of their influence to keep others away. There seems to be a need of some radical changes out where in order to bring up the amusement standard here.

YEARNING FOR NOTORIETY.

The Traverser of Mud at a Public Institution Fall Flat in Their Own Gutter.

A FEMALE COUNTERFEITER.

Damages Awarded Against a Railway—Notes From Near-By—Personal Paragraphs.

Can't Get the Notoriety.

The mayor and his private secretary, the successor of J. Alfred Ferguson, and who has adopted the middle name of his predecessor, "Fred," have been trying to attract the attention of the trustees of one of the public institutions of the state by making all sorts of foolish statements about the management. A few days ago the board met in regular session, and they sent word to the would-be agitators that if they wanted to have a hearing they could do so. The young man had the cheek to go before the board, and made so pitiable a showing that the board took compassion on him and accepted his apologies, and his promise to retract any statements he had made against the institution, and gave him a full hearing to satisfy himself as to the workings of the institution, and the falsity of the reports he had been circulating. The young man expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied that he had been in a wrong and that there should be no more dirty work done by him, but he had not digested the big dinner which he had eaten at the state's expense before he was picking up fresh mud and throwing it at the institution and its management. This utter disregard for any seeming fairness, and utter contempt of his own word, and the groundlessness of the reports spread abroad in this dirt, is the reason for the management of the institution and the respectable press have paid so little attention, and the silent contempt which they have shown towards him, will probably drop in shortly.

A Female Counterfeiter.

Mrs. Athelia Oates, who has pleaded guilty to the charge of raising ten dollar silver certificates to twenties, was yesterday sentenced in the United States court to two years in the penitentiary at Anamosa. This woman is on some accounts deserving of sympathy, although she appears to have shown little towards her poor victims. She is in a delicate condition, and will ere many months have additional cares of motherhood upon her. The judge, it is understood, is willing to do what he can to help her friends secure a pardon for her in view of her condition and future, and probably such an attempt will be made at an early date.

Against a Railway.

In the federal court yesterday, the case of Summers against the Wabash railway company came to a close. In this case the plaintiff claimed $5,000 damages for injuries and for the loss of a pair of mules. It seems that in driving over the railway crossing the fast flying "cannon ball" train came skipping along, and not only killed the mules but threw him from the wagon and, as he claims, seriously injured him. He claimed that the company's employees neglected to sound the whistle, or to give any warning of the approaching train, while the company claimed that such signals were given, and that there was contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff. The case has been hotly contested, but the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, making the damages at $5,000. One of the remarkable features of the case is that it is the only case decided against a railway company at this term of the court, although there have been numerous trials of railway cases.

The Bee on the Wing.

MISSOURI VALLEY, Oct. 14.—The fall campaign opens here this evening, the republicans starting out with a grand rally, and the Hon. D. B. Henderson being the principal orator. Everything so far, since the nominations, has been quiet and dull, but of course both parties here, as they were in Ohio, are confident of success, but this being a republican county the democrats have little to expect, except to keep down the majority. Missouri Valley has taken in two additions and now the town has a population of 3,000. A stranger arriving here is surprised to find it such a large and thriving place with such a handsome hotel as "The Cheney." There has been a large number of improvements here during the past year that are noticeable on every hand, and business with the merchants opens up in good shape as the season advances. This being a railroad town, the Chicago & Northwestern, the Sioux City & Pacific and the Fremont, Elkhorst & Missouri Valley railroads, all running in here, it also being the terminus of two of them, of course has many more or less of a hanging population. A large number of the men in the employ of the different roads have their own little property here, and several of them put up houses this season just passed. The brick yards have been turning out brick in large numbers, and the town is putting on metropolitan airs.

On Arriving Here the First Time.

On arriving here the first time the BEE man was to find such a scene as he saw at Harmon & Carlton run. It is a temperance billiard hall and patronized by the best class of people in the Valley, and besides the billiard business they run a barber shop, cigar store and a news stand, from which, early every morning, they start out the BEE and deliver it by carriers to all parts of Missouri Valley.

Lumps cheap at Homer's.

Neola Notes.

A contest given by some of Neola's vocalists last Thursday evening, was very good. If you doubt it ask the two boys that tried to sue a free show and were interviewed by "Manager Brown" the next day. They put it up and agreed to give the concert a puff if he would keep still. J. E. Hensworth has returned from Persia, where he has been moving houses for some days past. On arriving he found his boy very sick from the effects of a wound, caused by running a rusty nail in the bottom of his foot last July. The boy is improving some, but it is feared that there is a piece of the nail still remaining in his foot, or that the bone is dead or diseased. Riley Clark, esp., and wife have recently returned from the St. Louis fair, where they have been for the last week. W. W. Watson has also been to the fair at St. Louis.

Bromington Bros. are making rapid progress in their crop corn. Neola now has upwards four grain buyers.

SANDY. If you wish to make legitimately from Ten to Fifty dollars per day write to Judd & Smith, No. 31 Fourth street, Council Bluffs.

Personal Paragraphs.

Ed Wright has gone to southern Kansas for a week or so to visit friends.

Perry Reel was in the city yesterday looking after his chances in the coming election.

Governor Manning and family are busy preparing to move this week to their new home in Topeka, Kansas.

Mrs. Collambine, whose husband, the artist, started some time ago for Mexico, leaves to-day to join her husband.

C. H. Campbell of the firm of Raymond & Campbell, is at Rome, Henry county, in charge of a large force on the new $17,000 bridge which the firm is building over the Skunk river.

H. M. Hughes, superintendent of this division of the Chicago & North-western railway, and H. G. Hurt, superintendent of the Iowa lines of the company, arrived in the city yesterday by a special, they coming to attend the monthly conference of railway officials held at the transfer.

W. F. Conner, who is one of the oldest conductors on the Northwestern, although not looking so, and who is one of the most popular on the line, leaves in a day or so for a brief trip with his family eastward, this being his first vacation in over a year. He has been with the Northwestern for fourteen years, and during the last year or more has not missed even one trip. He is steadily running. He merits a rest and a good time.

Do not fail to call and examine these goods during the next ten days. No trouble to wait on customers.

W. W. CHAPMAN, 105 and 107 Main street.

WANTED—Wheat, corn and oats in carlots.

Liberal advances made on all consignments, by J. Y. Fuller, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Omaha, Neb.

Permits to weld were yesterday issued to W. M. Rogers and Rebecca Pardue, both of this city; also to A. B. Cook and Miss Lillie Jackson, of Council Bluffs.

Mrs. Murphy, who lives on Broadway, near the Northwestern depot, complains that some one has stolen over seventy ducks belonging to her. A warning was then taken out for the arrest of a man who claims that some of his ducks recently wandered off, and that he went after simply his own, but as claimed by others, he got some of Mrs. Murphy's, if not all.

Ludwig & Laver have bought and refitted in first-class shape the place formerly run by Fred Bokemper, No. 101 Main street, and invite all their friends and the public to attend their grand opening and free lunch, Saturday evening, October 17th.

Fred Gerstenberg, who has gained a good deal of notoriety in police circles, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of attempting to kill a man named Murphy. It appears that they had a little trouble in Gerstenberg's saloon during which Gerstenberg pulled his revolver and shot at Murphy, the ball coming unpleasantly close to his head, but not hitting him.

It was a Coincidence.

New York Star: It was in an Ohio town where a soldiers' reunion was being held. Two strangers looked long and fixedly across the dinner table at each other. One had in one's sleeve and the other a wooden leg.

"Say, haven't we met before?" queried one, at last.

"I don't know."

"Wasn't it during the war?"

"You bet!"

"Wasn't it at second Bull Run?"

"Repeat you are."

"Ah! It all comes to me now. The Union line's made a desperate charge but were forced back. A bullet smashed my arm and left me lying on the field."

"I guess so, to a dot," observed the other.

"I was leading" to drive you Yankees back when a bullet entered this 'ere leg, and I was kerrylopped."

"Yes, yes! You were calling for water and had none. Amidst the shriek of shot and scream of shell I crept over to you, and you drained my canteen."

"I reckon I did; and we lay there, side by side, high into midnight. What a coincidence!"

"What a meeting!"

"Put it that!"

"Shake!"

And there was not a dry eye in the dining room. This would have been according to Hoyle and as proper as peanuts, but somebody had to up and inquire what regiments they belonged to, and dead-pan faces followed. Then somebody else remembered that one had lost his leg at a battle, and the other his arm in a gunpowder factory, and the sad tears were plentifully wiped from New York faces.

dozen people remarked that they could beat any such coincidence any morning before breakfast.

Negro Minstrel's Revival.

Philadelphia Record: The disappearance of the old-fashioned, legitimate minstrel troupe has been a matter of sincere regret to old New Yorkers; for they acknowledge being vulgar enough to prefer a good laugh with the minstrels to being bored half to death in a modern French drama. The successive deaths of Dan Bryant, Nelson Keymon, and Billy Harkis removed the monarchs of minstrelsy, but their successors will be royally welcomed as soon as they prove their right to the throne. This week the accompaniments of doubtful respectability were introduced New York without their patronage. A revival of the old-time negro minstrelsy is a short cut to fortune.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and torments of the mind, thus making their victims suffer double affliction. The relief that is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured thousands, to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

They Got Through.

New York Star: A New Yorker who recently made a steamboat trip on the Cumberland river had occasion to ask the captain what time the boat would arrive at a certain town.

"About 1 o'clock this afternoon, God willing," was the reply.

"Why do you put that in?"

"Well, we've got a leaky boiler, a green engineer, and a broken wheel, and must dodge a hundred snags and clay around fifty bars, something or some other, but I got to be powerful willing, and I'd advise you to keep well for'd, and tie a life-preserver around you."
