THE LAST FOND HOPE GONE. The Major Loses His Grip on the Working-men, Who Slew Him.

NEGLECT AND DEATH OF A BOY.

The Senatorial Riddle Caused by Anderson—A Warning to Council Bluffs Mashers—Incidents and Pointers.

The Irrepressible Major. Mayor Anderson, who starts out as an independent republican candidate for senator in Page and Fremont counties, seems to be causing much trouble, and the Clarinda Journal thus depicts the situation:

The senatorial trouble in this district is a most vexatious thing and it all comes from the ambitious and ambitious Mayor Anderson, who, defeated for congress a few years ago, seems determined to recapture himself, even if he has to bulldoze and overrule the rights of everybody in his way. His own county sat down on him by a majority of nearly 700, and the opposition to him is still great in his own county. For this reason he was not a candidate in any state in either county. Not a single paper in Fremont county regarded him as a possible candidate. He did not dare to appeal to the people of the district in the usual way, but to excite no suspicion, he slowly worked the premises, so that at the county convention the vote stood for senator, Anderson 92, Perry 12, Wm. Eaton 4. The next step in the campaign was to come to Seneca and rally the Page county out caucus. Mayor Anderson had selected his own delegates and he was present. It was, therefore, one man against fifteen: one man dictating to all Page county that he should furnish two-thirds of the vote necessary to elect a senator. Anderson set himself up as a bigger man than all the republicans of the district. Such outrageous action on the part of Mayor Anderson deserves and will receive the condemnation of all fair-minded men. The Page delegation conceded the nominee to Fremont, but did not propose to be browbeaten out of any voice as to who the candidate should be.

A Child Dies From Exposure. From Dennison, through the medium of the Review, comes the details of the horrible death of a little 7-year old boy, which has called forth the righteous indignation of the community.

Andrew Brinkman and his family, consisting of three children to which he was the father, and of a wife and two children to which she was the mother—both parents having been twice married—resided three miles north of Dennison.

The family is extremely poor. They own a team and cow, and having no income, all the children from the 13-year old boy down to the 3-year old girl worked on the farm by day.

There was a little boy named Henry, 7 years old, of weak constitution and delicate health, to whose charge the herding of the cow chiefly devolved. He was barefooted, and his little legs showed bruises innumerable, owing to the cold and the grubs and brush. He went out on Saturday noon on the hill opposite the house to herd the cow as usual. Evening came but no boy; the father had gone to town; the little children searched some of the mother—and it was his own mother—called. She heard him not. The father and a neighbor came home about 8 o'clock. It was dark and they searched with a lantern, but they required at two neighbors, but at 1 o'clock in the morning they gave up the search and went to bed. During the night the cold cruel rain came down.

On Sunday it rained again, and the little search was made. On Sunday noon that father and mother went five miles from home to a christening and merry-making, staying until Monday noon. They still thought it was a trick of the neighbor. No effective search was made until Wednesday, after G. McAhren, who township trustee had been notified, who made appointments with the neighbors to meet at 8 o'clock in the morning. About 10 o'clock the child was found, about 200 feet from the house on the hill opposite in the hazel brush. Evidence showed that he did not die until Sunday or Monday. His little legs lay out about two inches of the ground. He died in extreme agony.

Whether the child fainted from weakness or was attacked with sudden illness, the cause could not be determined. The body and the surrounding proved that he died as late as Sunday or Monday. There is no evidence that the parents were criminals by intent. The death is simply the result of stupidity, indifference and gross negligence.

An inquest was held on Wednesday evening. Dr. Fitzgerald, coroner; A. H. McAhren, August Anderson and M. T. Hill were the jury. J. Fred Meyers, clerk. Ten witnesses were heard and the verdict in substance was that the child came to his death by exposure on Sunday last, and that the parents were guilty of gross negligence. We understand that Dr. Fitzgerald has issued warrants of arrest with a view of having Brinkman and wife answer for manslaughter.

Sensible Friends of Labor. The rain interfered somewhat with the meeting of the workmen on Sunday evening, it being a dark and dismal night for folks to wander out. Still there was a goodly sized audience of about sixty or so, and there was a goodly amount of enthusiasm shown. Judge Bartlett, of Omaha, was present, and was the principal speaker of the evening. He discussed the labor question at some length, and the listeners seemed interested.

There were several loud orators, who gave their views pretty freely in regard to local matters. Among the speakers were Mr. John Short, Mr. John Ahles and Mr. Kilgore. The city administration got some very sharp raps from these gentlemen, and some very plain truths were told of the causes of complaint on the part of the laboring classes. The little mayor was present, and he thought he saw an opportunity to win back the workmen by his usual snuff and unimpeachable promises. He generously offered to rent a hall for their next meeting, provided they would go in with him on a "grand rally," but as they had learned from past experience that such "suff and rallies" meant simply a rush for the mayor, they very promptly sat down on the little scheme, and to make matters worse for him, they told some very unpleasant things for him to hear. This last effort of the little mayor will probably cause him to let the workmen alone, so that they may go ahead with their regular business, which they have the good sense enough to manage without his help or advice.

Owing to the stormy condition of the night, and the consequent falling off from the natural attendance, it was decided to adjourn the meeting until Wednesday evening, at which time it is expected there will be still more interesting addresses, and the invitation is still a broad and cordial one for all to attend, except those who have got personal or political schemes to get through.

The Female Ball Players. The advent in the city yesterday of the young ladies who are gaining such a reputation as athletes and base ball players, caused as was to be expected a good deal of curiosity on the part of the gay young men, and the sly old ballbats. The company made a street parade, but they gave no seeming encouragement to the wistful glances, and the deftly worked handkerchiefs and twirling canoes of the pretty young men, who sighed for a further acquaintance. The fashion plates who are thus so eager to charn the charmers, should be warned by the experience told of two Des Moines youths, who had the same ambition, and who had their ambition gratified. It is said that these two young squires of Des Moines, succeeded in getting slightly acquainted with two of the young ladies, and that they flattered themselves they had made such an impression that they could induce the ladies to take a drive with them. The girls were fully prepared to handle just such young fellows, and so they consented, and the young men secured an elegant carriage, and away they rolled into the country roads, where the scenery was supposed to be especially fine. Having got a distance of two or three miles from the city, the pleasant ladies suddenly stopped, and the young fellows were so near out of what little wits they had by seeing both the ladies pull revolvers, and as the masculine eyes looked down the barrel, the request was made that the owners of the eyes get out at once and go home, or get tight any way they could. One thing was certain. They could ride no further in the company of the ladies. The young fellows were too frightened to beg, and as they sank gasping on the ground, the carriage was quickly turned in the direction of home, and several hours later two woe-begone souls of the best tailor made clothes came dragging wearily into the city, and sneaked away at the alleyways—by ways so as not to meet any of their acquaintances, among whom the joke had by that time got pretty well circulated. Council Bluffs young men probably have more sense than to allow themselves such a trap, but if there is a stray foolish fellow, who has any such ambition to make a conquest, he should bear in mind the warning.
