LIVING AT SMALL

The Experience of Tradesmen and Artisans in Chicago.

Why Economy in Ordinary Households Can be Practiced by the Assistance of a Thoughtful Wife-Laying up for the Puture.

Chicago News: "It takes all I make to support my family," dolofully remarked a hard-working carpenter. "With four little ones," he continued, "and a wife, my 81.25 a day do su't go a great way There is so much for rent, so much for the table, then shoes and clothing for the children, and with something for wife myself at the end of the week we have nothing."

"I get $31 a week," said a stained-glass artist, "and have four children. It costs me $10 a month for rant, and it takes $30 a week to set our table. We live well, but save nothing."

The speaker was an American who dressed well, smoked good cigars, and occasionally took his family to the

"I earn $12 a week," said a cane chair maker, who is a German. "I have four children, "said he, "and a wife to provide for and it costs me $3 a week to set our table. Since marrying, about five years ago, I have bought and almost paid for a house and lot on North avenue, so now I pay no house rent. The property is worth $1,500. My other expenses will not exceed $2 a week on an average, and every Saturday night I manage to put by $5 for a rainy day. We have lots to eat, and my children have never been sick a

For the purpose of getting all the facts regarding the cost of living in Chleaga, a Daily News reporter yesterday taiked with a number of artisans whose labor brought them from $10 to $35 a week, secording to their skill and the desirability of their work. The noteworthy fact that it is not the amount earned so much as the amount saved that brings independence was developed in the brst interview. When the secret of saving was asked the answer was: "It all depends asked the mawer was: "It all depends on the wife you've got.

"Now," said the speaker, who was a timer, "I earn $2.75 a day, and out of that I have to support my wife and two children. I pay $10 a month for house rent, and exactly $0.50 for the grocer's and butcher's hills. It costs exactly $1.25 a week for our clothing which includes bedding and towels. Last year I laid by $5 every week and at the end of laid by $5 every week and at the end of the year was exactly $.63 ahead."

The speaker thought a man could live well on $12a week and support at least one child and a wife, provided the latter is economical.
"But," said he, "if you ain't got the right kind of a wife the arrangement won't work. I have been married twice. My first wife was too young and didn't know the value of a dollar, so I left her. I courted my second wife three years, and you can bet I knew her well before I married her. She proved to be just the kind of a woman I needed, and we can get along all right and are as happy as can be. We have all we want to eat; in eat," said he, "and there has been no spends the money. During the week I dian affair get a dollar or so, but I am lucky if she gives me more. We are saving people. Speakin but you've got to be saving these times if you expect to get ahead."

and his wife, for $s a week. The other | dividing of the remainder among settlers household expenses, not counting on the government of course, paying for sickness, should not exceed $3 more every week, so that a man earning $18 n week could easily save $5 or $5 of it. In inaugurated in the Indian territory, and that way he could use his first years say was very favorable to the proposed ings as purchase-money for a house and purchase of the Cherokee strip by the and make monthly payments till the indebtedness was discharged."

Again the virtues of the "good wife" were sounded. "You must have a good wife, though, if you expect to save anything," said he. "Women are so funny. thing," said he. "Women are so funny. Some of them think if they save anything they are doing it for some one clse, so if they want a thing they buy whether or not it does them any good."

"Save nothing?" exclaimed a brick-layer, who earns $1.50 a day eight months in the year, and who has to support eleven children, his wife, her mother and himself. "I have nothing left at the end of the building season," he d ! clared, 'and in the winter I work in the packing houses. Drink! Of course I do; I take a glass of beer now and then, and treat the boys once in a while; but I am economical enough, for all of

"I never drink at all," said the foreman of a carpenter shop, who carns $15 a week and has a wife and three children. He continued: 'I have been married four years and have three children. It costs me about $10 a week to live. The first year after I was married I bought a house at Maywood worth $1,800 and since then I have almost paid for it. Our grocer's bill amounts to about $6 a week and for meat and milk we spend $! more. It costs us about $2 a week for clothing. We never spend a cent for anything foolish, and I'll bet you there is not a happier family in the state."

"My wife and four children take all the money I can earn, "said a earriage black-smith, whose wages amount to $13.50 a week. "We pay $10 a month for four rooms on Poriland avenue," said he, "and bless me, though I do not drink or use tobacco, the rest of my wages goes for living I can't save a cent. A wood-worker employed in the same shop, who is unmarried, said he carned $12 a week, paid $4.50 of it for board, and, as he was engaged to be married, made it an invariable rule to put away

"I carn $25 a week," said a stained-glass glazier, "and it takes $18 a week to set the table for myself and wife and three children and pay house rent. We clothe ourselves out of the remaining $7 and lay up a dollar or two, but we don't save anything worth mentioning."

A steam-litter, who carns $15 a week, and has a wife and one child, said that he unid $10 a month for the rent of three unid $10 a month for the rent of three unid $25 a work and sooner have faced the cannon's and has a wife and one cidld, and that he paid $10 a month for the rent of three rooms. I cost him about $7 a week to set his table. He had considerable sickness in his family, and at present he could save nothing. Before meeting with missace nothing. Before meeting with missace that it is a like practice to put by reg.

Crown Him! crown Him! Lord of all, together the faces before me.

HOW GIRLS "MAKE UP."

A Chicago Professor's Views on the Subject Presented in a Learned Manner.

Chleago Tribune: "Those girls," said the professor, 'are making some of those beautiful arched eyebrows you so often see in ball rooms. These sowed on the net are a less expensive kind, and are only used on special occasions. The real ow is very expensive and can only made by a person of great skill. I have an operation to perform this afternoon, and if you like I will explain to you how it is performed," leading the way into an elegantly furnished room in which was a large chair similar to those used by dentists, "The patient sits here," the professor continued. "In this cushion to my left are stuck a score or more of these needles you saw being threaded. Each stitch having only two strands of hair, to faciliate the operation and number of needles must be on hand. As each thread is drawn through the skin over the eye it is cut so that when the first stage of the operation is over it leaves the hair bristling out an inch or so, presenting a ragged, porcupine appearance. Now comes the artistic work. The brow must be arched and cut down with the utmost delicacy. A number of hours is required to do it."

hours is required to do it."

"It must be very painful and tedious."

"They don't say it's a picnic excursion," laughed the professor, "but eyebrows, small as they are, are very important in the makeup of the face. You have no idea how old one looks when entirely denuded of hair over the eyes. The process I have described is painful, but makes small eyebrows and adds a but makes good eyebrows, and adds a hundred per cent to the looks of a person w o was without them. It is, too, so much better than the blackening and smetics some people use, especially people who have only mere prefenses of brows comprising a few coloriess hairs."

My mother took me on her lap and taked to me kindly, then made me kneel down by her while she prayed for me, and then the family joined with her in singing 'All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name to Coronaton.' THE NORTHERN FRONTIER. The Improvements and Enlargement of Fort Niebrara.

Gen. James S. Brisbin writes in the Gen. James S. Brisbin writes in the Chicago Tribune as follows: Fort Niobrara is in the northwestern part of the state of Nebraska, and we are just now very pusy building. The post is a very pleasant one, and being enlarged from a five to an eight company post. When the tresent improvements are completed it will be one of the best and most confortable posts in the Department of the table posts in the Department of the Platte. All the quarters, for both officers and men, will be supplied with both rooms, and contain all the modern im-provements except electric lights. The new sets are three company barracks, three double sets of officers' quarters, and three cayalry stables. Capt Lunu's company, Fourth infantry, are making the adobes for the new buildings. and are doing their work well. The cap-tain has enormous yards and four mills at work, turning out 7,50) adobes each per day. The yards are being gradually extended and the capacity of the mills being increased, so that it is expected that the yards will soon yield 10,000 adobes per day. It will take fully 250-000 adobes to lay up the walls of the new buildings here, but as about one-third buildings here, but as about one-third break in manufacturing, Captain Lunn will have to make over $30,000 to do the work required. Captain William Bisbe's company H. Fourth infantry is out in the timber cutting saw-logs. The men have cut about 600 so far, and will continue to cut until 1,000 logs are scored. I was surprised to find so much lumber in this section of Nebraska. I had supposed there was none, but we are getting out ping saw-logs two and even three eet in diameter within two miles of this We have a good saw-mill, with planing mill, shingle-mill, etc., attached laways like to have plen y of lumber, and a big lumber-yard at a military post is a great comfort. I expect to get out 100,000 feet this fall, which I think is dong very well in a no-timbered country. WELL PLANNED AND BUILT.

This post was originally laid out and built by Col. Upham, Fifth cavalry, and a better planned or constructed post I have never seen. Every building in the post is large, roomy, and airy, having none of that squatty, contracted appearance so common in our forts. From the large parade-ground down to the smalllarge parade-ground down to the small-est building, everything is upon that large and liberal plan so agreeable to those who have to live here. I do not know Col Uplam but he must be a large-minded man, and knows just how a post should be built. I hope the government will remember this, and when it has other posts to build send Uplam. Army arch itecture is as a rule, the meanest in tecture is, as a rule, the meanest in the world, and when I think of the places and houses where we have had to live in out west it makes me siek. Low ceilings, little eramped-up rooms, had ventilation, small barracks where the men were growded together like a herd of sheep— his was the rule in army buildings, and the exceptions were few and far between There is nothing of the kind here. The sarracks are large, and every man has com to move about; the ceilings are sigh and the centilation perfect. In the officers' houses the rooms are large, the officers' houses the rooms are large, the ceilings high, and the buildings all well ventilated. There is no cheap paper on the walls to hide the cracks and dirt, but the walls are painted and the rooms solid and clean. The houses have the appearance, inside at least, of city resiences, and the evidences of comfort and convenience appear the moment one opens the wide doors. How Upham did so much work here with so little money is a puzzle, possibly he did what so many officers do-helped himself and relied more on the resources of the country than the appropriations. A good saw-mill a d 300 or 400 willing men are a great help in building a post. Many hands, dropping even a pebble each, soon make a great pile. The Preacher Can't Preach Unless he has good digestion and his blood is in prime condition. A ROMANCE OF THE BORDER. A White Captive Marries a Comanche Chief-Her Son Now Searching for a Stolen Sister.

Quina Parker, chief of the Cohudy Communences, near Fort Sill, Indian Terri-tory, accompanied by one brave and three warriors has gone from El Paso. Tex., to the Mescalero Agency, to find his sister. He bears letters from promnent military officers vouching for his igh station and character. He is very realthy, and has traveled extensively. He called on President Gloveland this ammer. He is the only surviving son of Cynthia Ann Parker and a celebrated Comanche chieftain. Cynthia Ann Parker was captured near the present town of Groesbeck, Limestone county, Texas, when only eight years of age at the time of the massacre of the Parker family, and remained a quart of a contury among the savages, forgo ting her mother tongue and marrying chief. In 1866 Capt. Ross, of Wac captured her in a tight with the Indian At that time she was dressed in male a tire, but although much bronzed and habit a perfect Indian, they were satis-lied that she was a white woman. She was brought to Camp Cooper, near the present town of Belknap, and her vener-able uncle, Isaac Parker, after a long effort, identified her as the long-lost by speaking the name of Cvathia Ann upon which a ray of recollection, sprung up in her mind. After twenty five years of obliteration she regained her native language. Her Andian husband was dead and she desired to gether two chil-dren, one of whom was Quina and the other is the lost slater at the Mescalero Agency. This is dust one of the many thrilling incidents in the pioneer history of the Lone Star State.
