

PROF. BELL A BAD DECEIVER

Did the Now Renowned Electrician Steal Another's Ideas?

PUNGENT TELEPHONE TALK

Indulged in by Elisha Gray in the Case Before Secretary Lamar-Oleical Collision in the Patent Once Hinted Broadly.

Contesting Telephone Interests.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The hearing of the telephone case was resumed today before the secretary of the interior, Mr. Gant, for the citizens of Memphis, read a long list of affidavits and authorities that he intended to put in evidence as tending to show that Bell was not the original inventor of the telephone. Among the papers was a communication from Acting Attorney General Goode, expressing the opinion that Bell was the original inventor of the telephone, and that Elisha Gray had been fraudulently issued, justifying in his opinion the hearing of a suit by the United States to set it aside. A number of affidavits were read, including one by Elisha Gray, in which he states that his carbon telephone was patented in 1876, and that he had not heard of Bell's experiments until he (Elisha) invented his telephone, but he had read an affidavit made by Bell in 1876, in which he claimed to have invented the telephone in 1876.
