THE DAILY BEE
COUNCIL BLUFFS.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 1.

OFFICE: No. 12 Pearl Street.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week.

H. W. TILTON, - - - Manager.

MINOR MENTION.

Reiter, the tailor, for winter goods.

The Knights and Ladies of Honor have a hop to night at the Arcanum hall.

Winter hats at greatly reduced prices to close them out at Mrs. O. A. Rogers.

The council had no quorum last evening. Another attempt will be made at 4:30 this afternoon.

Parties have been looking over the city within the past few days with a view of starting new gas works here. They were favorably impressed with the preliminary survey.

A team belonging to William Martin, and attached to an express wagon, took a run near the transfer. The team came to a sudden halt by one of them falling down and breaking his neck.

Supervisor Jones, who was in attendance at the board meeting yesterday, reports a fast husking on his farm. The man got away with 155 bushels in nine hours and thirty-eight minutes.

The police made 136 arrests in November. The cash receipts paid into the treasury was $80, a little more than fifty cents apiece. It pays better to run in cattle or collect license on dogs.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy, of Connecticut, are in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Olmsted. They are on their wedding trip, and are going as far west as Denver. Mrs. Eddy is a cousin of Mr. Olmsted.

Four teams and about eight men are being employed in general work on the streets. No special street improvements are now being made, the work being patching up bad places and making necessary repairs.

Prof. Bartholomew's wonderful horses continue to delight large audiences at the opera house. These animals are certainly marvels of training and intelligence. The novelty and excellence of the entertainments ensure great crowds at all times and places.

Ed Wright, the well known stenographer and type writer, has severed his connection with Van Brunt, Thompson & Co. to accept a position with the Council Bluffs Insurance company. He is one of the best in his line in the west.

Not much attention is paid to the ordinance requiring the taking out of building permits. But one permit has been granted, or even asked for, that solitary instance being an alderman, who wanted to have his record straight in every detail.

The Young Men's Christian Association has arranged for a rare musical treat for the people of Council Bluffs, in the form of a concert by Mme. Fry's concert company. The date fixed upon is December 15, and the place the opera house.

David Dunkle has bought out the saloon which has gained so unenviable reputation under the management of Freddie Gerstenberg, and proposes to make a decent place of it, in comparison to what it has been.

There have been very few places in the city, public or private, which have been decorated with mourning goods in consequence of the death of Vice President Hendricks. The sorrow is doubtless just as great, but the absence of the usual tokens is noticeable.

The Milkmaid's entertainment in Masonic hall Thursday evening promises to be a novel one. It will be the opening of the fair to be given by the ladies of the Congregational church. Friday evening another entertainment, entirely different, will be given.

The mayor and a number of aldermen of Nebraska City arrived in this city last evening, and called in a body at the BEE office. They will this morning inspect the water works, paving and other improvements here under the guidance of the mayor of the city.

If the patrol wagon, which lies idle, could be traded off for improvements in the fire alarm system, it would be better for the city. The $600 put into the patrol wagon to gratify a whim of the mayor is needed in a good many places, but in none more than in the fire alarm system.

Fred Gerstenberg now promises to leave the city for the city's good. He says the BEE has said so many mean things about him that he don't want to stay here any longer. The BEE has only confined itself to chronicling the facts in which Freddy has been prominent. In some new field he may be more of a man.

Tom Deerwester, who sells canary birds, was arrested Monday night for passing counterfeit money. It was claimed he got a man to change a half dollar for him, and the half being bad he refused to take it back. As no one appeared yesterday to prosecute him he was discharged.

The county board met yesterday, and made estimates on the work done on the court house. The bill for piling was allowed at $5,046.08. The work seems to have been done to the entire satisfaction of the board, and much confidence is expressed that the new building will have a foundation which will stand for years to come.

The organization for the helping of boys is not dead. The officers of the association have some money in the treasury, and will solicit fresh contributions as fast as there is need. The purpose is to find good homes for boys who have none. Little has been done during the summer, but as cold weather advances, the demands for such an organization naturally increase.

L. M. Ostrom, a farmer in Pleasant township, has become insane, and yesterday was taken to the asylum at Mt. Pleasant. His mother died in an asylum, so that the trouble seems hereditary. Last winter he fell on the ice, hurting himself quite badly, and this injury seems to have brought out the lurking mental disease, or since then he has been growing worse and worse.

Miss Fuller, of Mt. Pleasant, together with the Misses Merkel, of this city, are to give a concert in the opera house on December 11. This will be a rich musical treat. The Misses Merkel are great favorites here, and are always gladly listened to. Miss Fuller is a songstress in whom Iowa has cause to take special pride. She expects soon to further her musical culture in Europe. With such Iowa artists the house should be crowded.

City Clerk Dalrymple still holds in his possession $309 of city warrants, subject to the orders of the powers that be. The warrants were paid into court for saloon licenses and fines, but the council has ordered the clerk not to receive them or give the parties credit for them. He simply holds them, therefor, as a custodian, until the court and the council come to some agreement as to what shall be done. The judge holds that the city should receive its pay in the same kind of stuff with which it pays its bills. The council take a different view, and say such a policy would drain the treasury of cash and make warrants a drug in the market.

Christmas presents at Homer's.

For the best and cheapest oysters call at Chicago Lunch Counter, 404 Broadway. Oyster soup all day, only 10 cents.

FOUND AND MADE A NOTE OF

A Sensational Breaking Up of a Dressmaking Establishment.

A CONFERENCE OF CHRISTIANS.

A Remarkably Healthy City—The City Finances—Other Gleanings of News—Personal Paragraphs.

A Sensational Partner.

A few months ago a bright looking, rather attractive young woman arrived in this city, claiming to be from the east. She opened dressmaking rooms on Pearl street, near First avenue. Her skill as a dressmaker did not seem to be wonderful, and there were numerous complaints among her lady patrons as to her work. Among a few it was whispered that she was not so much interested in dressmaking as in other less respectable but more profitable use of her powers. There was no open talk about her, however, and no general suspicion, but that the little woman was just what she pretended to be. She did not make a great success at dressmaking, and business being dull with her, she concluded to get a partner, for her. Her representations were so smooth and plausible that she induced a young woman to take a half interest in the business. The new partner belongs to a most highly respected family, and during her long residence here has borne a spotless reputation. She is also looked upon as being thoroughly posted and very skillful in dress-making. This partner had not been in the concern very long before her suspicions were aroused, and she found that there were some gossip concerning the little woman from the east. She proceeded to investigate, and as a result of her watchfulness a startling revelation was made. The little woman from the east was in the habit of sleeping in the establishment. In order to find out just what was going on after the business of the day was over, the new partner resorted to strategem. She got one of the girls in the shop to return, just after all had left the place, and make an excuse for stepping out into the back yard a minute. The girl asked the little woman from the east to go out with her, as she was afraid, it being dark. While they were thus gone the partner slipped into a hiding place behind a partition. She awaited the results. The girl soon left the shop for home, and the dressmaker supposed she was alone, never dreaming that her partner was hidden there. The partner had further prepared herself by having her three brothers stationed outside the building, ready to respond to the first signal for help. Time wore on. It was nervous waiting for the plucky partner. Four hours passed, and then her waiting proved not in vain. A young man entered. From her hiding place she recognized him as a young business man of this city. The young merchant and the dressmaker sat and chatted in a very fond and familiar way. Finally they retired to another room, and the investigation having proceeded far enough to satisfy the hidden partner, she could bear the excitement no longer. She gave a wild screech, and ran for the door. Her three brothers entered, two from the front and one from the rear. The amorous couple were found under circumstances which were decidedly unpleasant for them. Of course there was a scene. The worthy young woman who had been duped into forming a partnership with the dressmaker could not stand to have her reputation jeopardized by such scandalous proceedings, and the business of the firm had to be brought at once to a stand-still. The dressmaker naturally consented to selling out her interest, and this settlement was reached after a good deal of trouble. The wayward woman stepped out, and the partner will continue the dressmaking business alone. Her many friends and patrons sympathize with her in the queer position in which she has been placed by no fault of her own, and by her being duped so badly in becoming associated in business with such a woman. The dressmaker from the east left the city yesterday to start in business elsewhere.

A Healthy City.

Council Bluffs appears by the records to be one of the healthiest cities in the west. In October there were only nine interments here, and of these three died elsewhere and were shipped here for burial Another committed suicide.

In November there have been twenty burial permits issued. The causes of death were varied. Three died of cancer, two of old age, two of softening of the brain, and one each of paralysis, marasmus, heart disease, membraneous croup, lack of vitality, liver complaint, congestion of brain, pneumonia, paralysis of the heart, uteric fever, hemmorhage, overdose of morphine. One was sent here for burial, having died elsewhere.

Such a record for a city of 25,000 to 30,000 inhabitants shows this to be a remarkably healthy place of residence.

Having put in a complete new stock of clothing, furnishing goods, hats, caps, etc., Fox & Hughes, No. 915 Main street, invite the public to give them a trial. Their expenses are small, and they can afford to sell cheap.

Alfonso.

He was a king in spirit and in truth—
Noble by nature as he was by birth,
And there was valor in his royal youth
Sweeter by far than all the gifts of earth.

For when the plague ran riot in his land
And piled Madrid with dying and with dead,
Then went he forth with succor in his hand
And soothed his people while his courtiers fled.

God rest his soul—he played a kingly part
And deeds like his receive requite above;
But comfort thou, dear Lord, the widowed heart
That shared his kingdom and his gentle love.

'Tis not for Spain nor court bereaved we pray—
We pray for her whose young and loyal life
Weeps in the presence of its dead to-day—
God bless the queen—God bless Alfonso's wife!

Gone With Another Girl.

The eyes may sparkle, the lips may smile,
And misery merriment feign;
The tongue may jest, and all the while
The heart feel a bitter pain.

And so it is with the maid to-night—
The maiden fair and young;
Her eyes are bright and her laughter light,
And the jest is on her tongue.

But, O, the maiden's heart makes moan,
And her brain is in a whirl;
For her beau to the skating rink has gone
To-night with another girl.
