Some sneak thief gained a dress coat by slyly visiting the residence of A. J. Brown on Sixth street. At a meeting of the trustees of the public library yesterday afternoon the old officers were re-elected. Ten new show cases arrived yesterday at Erseman, Rodda & Co's, which will be placed in their fancy goods department.

All bound volumes of magazines and reviews can be hereafter taken from the public library-this by vote of the trustees yesterday. While the city authorities are ucging property owners to clean the snow from sidewalks, it would be well for the city to have the walks cleaned around Bayliss

Frank Peterson, a boy, attempted to do mischief to the ice skating rink Sunday night. He was given such a lecture from Judge Aylesworth that half frozen tears run down his cheeks as he promised to behave himself hereafter.

Red Oak is already tickling itself over the prospect of being the next place at which Dr. Cross will be tried. It is welcome to the trial, if it yearns for it. If fair trial is wanted Council Bluffs would be as wise a choice as any place.

John Cole, who was arrested Saturday for assault, had a hearing before Judge Aylesworth yesterday and was dis-charged, he showing that he had indulged his physical strength in punching a fellow who had insulted his wife.

A pleasant little eard party was given Saturday evening by Mrs. Dr. Macrae, at her residence. The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Sapp, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Champ, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gonover, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. B. Zerveley, Mrs. Mark Duryea and Miss Kitty Conover.

The council is to meet this evening in accordance with adjournment. The bids for extending the new sewer ditch cannot be opened, however, as expected, but will have to be put over until to morrow evening on account of the official organ neglecting to put in the advertisement in time. It is expected therefore that the council will do little this evening beyond adjourning for twenty-four hours. The committees were out yesterday selling tickets for the charity ball, and selling tickets for the charity ball, and meeting with pretty good success. It is expected that every citizen will cheerfully buy a ticket, if financially able to do so, and the fund thus raised will go far toward relieving the sufferings of many in this city. Council Bluffs has no greater amount of poverty than other cities, but there is enough in every city to call forth a special showing of practito call forth a special showing of practi-cal christianity on the part of all who are able to divide their worldly possessions.

In Justice Schurz's court the time is again being occupied with the case of Moore & Co. of Omaha against Hunt, who is also from across the river. The suit is to recover on a grocery bill. The defendant claims that he has tendered to the firm all that was due them, but they refused to accept it, claiming a larger amount. Ha claims that there has been an overcharge, and that the firm's claim is not just. The case was tried last week, but the jury disagreed. Now it promises to take up several days more.

One of the papers in this city made a seemingly generous offer to the committee of arrangements of the charity ball yesterday. The offer was to donate the first page on Thursday morning next; the committee to secure advertising, the proceeds to go to the fund. The maker of this offer informed them that the fund could easily realize $70 from this source. The committee started on the work of solicitation among the largest advertisers, fixing their rates for space on the $70 basis. They met with no success. They doubtless blame the merchants, inwardly, at least, for a lack of enterprise. The true reason for the merchants refusing, as stated by several to other parties, was that the same paper had only been charg-ing them $20 for a full page. The old grandmother has a tender spot in her heart, but under the circumstances it is difficult to get business men to pay something for nothing.

The Ticket Sellers.

The committees having in charge the sale of tickets for the charity ball, which takes place this coming Thursday evening in Masonic hall, were out yesterday hard at work selling. They all made good reports to a BEE man who visited them last evening.

Mr. Simon Eiseman, chairman of the first district sub-committee, said: "Car committee will sell all the tickets we were given. The people are giving us much encouragement. Mr. Cavin sold all his tickets and has been back for more.

Tom is a worker, I tell you."

Dr. Seybert of the second district committee, said: "We're doing bang up for the time we've had."

J. W. Peregoy, chairman of the fourth district, said: "I don't know how the other districts have done, but we did first rate. Andy Jackson and myself have sold sixty-five on Main street and we didn't work very hard either."

Z. T. Lindson, chairman of the third

Z T. Lindsey, chairman of the third district, said: "I've been unable to go out with the tickets to day, but Mr. Wirt and Mr. Cocke have had good success and J. think to markey the said of the said and I think to-morrow considerable money will come into the hands of the committee, as many persons are yet to be seen."

F. A. Conover, chairman of the fifth district, said: "We have had quite good success. We've done pretty well; we've success." sold all our tickets, got another bunch and they're mostly all gone. Only three business houses on the west side of Main

A CLERICAL LAWYER'S SUCCESS.

Three Coroners in Quest of Office-Ticket Selling for the Charity Ball-The Governor's Request for Broadwell,

The Shuttlecock Game. The telegraphic news in yesterday's BEE that Judge Shiras had rendered a decision in Dubuque in the liquor cases, causes some comment here. Several eases from here are in nearly the same condition, and the decision is a foreshowing of how these home cases will be deeided. In different parts of the state action has been started in state courts to get injunctions restraining saloous from doing business. The defendants have in many cases sought to have these cases transferred to the United States courts, and while state courts have in several instances granted this motion of transfer, the decision of Judge Shiras is the first one given by the United States courts in

He held that he must remand the cases because the plaintiffs from their petitions only ask to have parties enjoined from keeping saloons open, and that this was a proper exercise of police power by the state and no violation of the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States. He clearly intimated, however, that if the plaintiffs undertook to restrain a brewery from operating, or in any manner to de-prive parties of their property without compensation that then his ruling might be entirely different. He said that while the attorneys in argument raised and discussed questions, which if actually in these cases might give the federal courts jurisdiction, still as the plaintiffs did not imdertake to do anything more accord-ing to their petitions in these cases than restrain parties from carrying on saloons, he could not now pass upon thes. not fairly arising in the petitions for in junction and retain jurisdiction. The holding of Judge Shiras does not at all determine that any proceeding to enjoin a brewery under the Iowa statute would be constitutional, but on the contrary rather intimates that in such a case be would retain jurisdiction on the ground that such restraint would be depriving the brewers of property without due pro

The defendants have given notice of an appeal to the supreme court of the United States, and some predict that they will tie up the cases for a year or so

If the cases brought here should be re-manded back it is claimed that there can be no delay, as the record here does not show any transfer to the United States court, the decision on the motion to transfer being held until the United States court expressed its opinion. Then the state court, if the cases are remanded, will simply overrule the motion to change and proceed to determine the cases. Whether the Dubuque cases are in the same condition as those here is not known. Here Judge Loofbourow granted the motion to transfer, and the district court record so shows. Hence in ease he United States court remands and an appeal is taken to the supreme court, delay may be caused. In the cases brought in the circuit court here a like motion was made to transfer the cases to the United States court, but a decision on that motion is held back until the United States court decides whether it will entertain the cases. If it refuses to entertain the cases, the motion will be overruled in the state court and proceed ings go right along. Such is the hopeful view taken by those who have been interested in the prosecution ot the saloon

Victory at Last.

Rev. J. Fisk, who has lived here for years, has received glad tidings of joy. Mr. Fisk is an attorney as well as a preacher. In his earlier years he was in the same law office with Stephen Douglass, and was acquainted with Abraham Lincoln in the earlier years of that great man's life. His reminiscences of some of these celebrated characters have already found their way to the public through the columns of the BEE. Mr. Fisk's own life has not been lacking in interesting events. Years ago he was the district attorney of New Orleans. Some technical complications arose about his successor in office, and Mr. Fisk held over another term. Litigation began in regard to the matter, and Mr. Fisk was kept out of his salary and fees. He sued kept out of his salary and fees. He sued the city for this amount. The city claimed that there was a legal defect in his claims on the office, and refused to pay him. He claimed that he had rendered the services, and of this there was no doubt. Having rendered the services for two years, and the city having accepted of his services, he claimed his compensation. The case has been fought in the courts for years. It has been in the supreme court of the has been in the supreme court of the United States for some time and now the old gentleman has received word from his attorneys that the court has decided in his favor. The amount which such a decision will bring to the old gentleman will be about $10,000. It is to be hoped that the good news may prove true, and may be followed by the speedy payment of the claim as he is at a time of life now when he needs all that is justly due him and a snug little sum like this would place him in comfortable circumstances. Mr. Fisk has worked hard among the various missionary enterprises of the city and done much to make others happier and better, and hence many will rejoice to see him get a bountiful silce of prosperity.

For everything in the grocery line give the new firm of Kintz & Rleeb, 162 Broad-way, a trial Everything new and fresh. Fancy groceries a specialty. Woman's Presence of Mind.

From the Creston Gazette are learned the following particulars of an accident which befel Mrs. O. M. Rudy, wife of the local manager of the Iowa & Nebraska telephone company at that place:

Mrs. Rudy prepared to fill the tank of a gasoline stove from a can containing a small amount of gasoline, having previously, as she supposed, turned out the flame. Such unfortunately was not the case, and in pouring the gasoline out of the can into the tank some of the fluid was spilled on the stove and immediately ignited, causing the can to explode and setting Mrs. Rudy's clothes on fire. Here it was that she displayed a wonderful presence of mind that few persons would be equal to under such circumstances. She rushed out of the door, carefully closing the door behind her, threw herself on the ground and Mrs. Rudy prepared to fill the tank of extinguished. Although suffering severe-ly from burns she returned to the room which was still filled with flames and telephoned to her husband at the central office with instructions to turn in the fire alarm. As soon as the fluid was ex-hausted the flames died out with-out burning the woodwork or furniture. Seeing that no further dam-age could result from the fire, Mrs. Rudy again went to the telephone, counter-manding the call for the department, just in time to stop the chemical engine at Montgomery street. The room was black-ened with smoke and the ceiling cracked from one side to the other by the explo sion. Mrs. Rudy sustained serious burns. the most painful on the threat and chin. Her eye brows were singed off and both her ears and hands badly burned. Her injuries were very severe, but her friends in Council Bluffs, of whom she has a large number, will be relieved to learn that her physician promises her speedy recov-ery without distiguring scars.

Broadwell's Case.

S. A. Broadwell, the Logan broker who was sentenced to the penitentiary, is still being kept in jail here, but there seems little prospect of his friends coming forward with the necessary bail to secure his liberty during his promised appeal to the supreme court. Broadwell has claimed to be a great friend of Gov. Sherman, and predictions have been made that the governor would pardon him. Mayor Vaughan and other of Broadwell's friends, while in Des Moines, presented the case to Gov. Sherman, and about lifteen minutes before Gov. Sher-man retired from office and was suc-ceeded by Gov. Larrabee, the following was penned: To Perry Reel, Sheriff Pottawattamic county:—Please delay further action in the case against S. A. Broadwell, and de-tain him in your custody until his case can be presented to the attention of Gov. Larrabee within the next thirty days. B. R. Sherman,

Sheriff Reel says that it is a very pretty etter, but that it has no effect. It does not pretend to be anything but a request, and he does not look upon it as in any way authoritative. He says when he gets ready to start with Breadwell for the penitentiary he will start. The letter does not have any weight with him. His duties are defined, and be cannot take the responsibility of keeping Broadwell in jail here for thirty days. Unless some-thing more than friendly letters results from the efforts of Broadwell's friends he will probably be started for Fort Madi-son within a day or so,

Wha Is Coroner? With three claimants for the little office of coroner, the decision is to be left to the courts. Dr. Bellinger, whose claim is based on the fact of his being elected by the people, does not propose to submit to the action of the county board, which body refused to accept his bonds because he did not qualify within the time prescribed by law. It is claimed that when the board thus refuses to accept the proffered bonds they can be presented to some judge for approval. Through his attorney, Mr. Jacob Sims, he has peti-tioned Judge Connor, of the circuit court, to fix a time at which the bonds can be presented. So soon as that time is fixed, and arrives, the legal tight will com-mence. It is understood that proceedings in quo warranto will also be com-menced against Coroner Faul. The third coroner, Connell, seems inclined to let these fight it out, while he waits the result, with the intention of suing the county for his fees, in case there is any legal grounds to support his claim for the office.
