

THE DAILY BEE COUNCIL BLUFFS.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 25.

OFFICE: No. 12 Pearl Street.

Delivered by carrier in any part of the city at twenty cents per week.

H. W. TILTON, Manager.

BUSINESS OFFICE, No. 43,
NIGHT EDITOR, No. 23.

MINOR MENTION.

Pants to order, from $5 up, at Reiter's.
To-morrow the semi-annual examinations in the public schools commence, continuing three days.

Orell & Day have bought $25,000 more of the city sewer bonds, the purchase being made for other parties.

The machinery is being put in place in the paper mill, and the mill is expected to start up in the course of a week.

Johnathan W. Warfel, one of the Standard composers, was married Sunday night to Miss Eliza E. Roper, of this city.

The employees of the Council Bluffs National bank, together with some of their friends, made a jolly sleighing party last night.

Mrs. Mary Frainey has been appointed administratrix of the estate of her husband, the late James Frainey. The estate amounts to about $10,000.

There were two drunks polished off in the police court yesterday, one a colored man, Bill Criss, the other a white man, "Shoey." They were both fined.

The Harmony mission ladies have a social this evening at the residence of Mrs. Booth, on Benton street. Music and refreshments are among the attractive features provided.

To-night Rev. G. W. Crofts gives a brief talk at the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. These meetings continue to grow in interest and will be continued through the week.

It was not Arch Harvey, the colored man, who was arrested for stealing a deer from Louie's restaurant, but James Harvey, who gained some notoriety as the bartender for Gerstenberg.

The awning over Reiter's tailoring establishment became so weighted with snow that yesterday it took a tumble, proving an overwhelming avalanche for an unfortunate passer by, but not seriously injuring him.

Charles Denny, a switchman in the Northwestern yards, while making a coupling Sunday night, was struck in the stomach by a coupling pin. It is feared that he is injured more seriously internally than appears at present.

Col. E. J. Abbott has given the Abe Lincoln post, G. A. R., a very pleasing bit of handiwork. It is a bar and pendant monogram, cut from wood, and nicely decorated, making a very handsome and appropriate ornament for the hall. It was designed and made by himself.

A horse belonging to L. Neumas and attached to a sleigh took a lively spin down Broadway yesterday morning. The chief damage was the breaking down of the cigar sign of "D. King & Co." A lady passing along the street had a narrow escape from being run over by the flyaway steed.

A number of prominent Masons from here attended the funeral of Conductor Manning at Missouri Valley Sunday. Among them were E. L. Shugart, Z. T. Lindsey, Charles Duquette, Mr. Van Gieson and Dr. Lacy. There was a large number present from Blair, Neb., a special train being run from there.

Mrs. James Craig was happily surprised last evening by a visitation of a party of her friends, who captured her at her home, No. 812 Third street. The occasion was her birthday, and the other members of the family being in no secret, everything was arranged for a merry-making, and such was the result.

Mrs. Partridge applied at police headquarters Sunday night for an officer to arrest her boy, who was roaming the streets drunk. An officer started out after him, but found that some one had knocked the boy down in a quarrel, blacked his eye and scratched his cheek, while some other fellow had picked him up and carried him to his home.

The mayor yesterday telegraphed Mr. Griffin, of Eastport, Iowa, that the latter's runaway daughter is here in a sporting house, and that the police would arrest her if he would guarantee to return her. The girl is quite young, and says that if she is sent to reform school she will have to go, but as soon as she gets out she will return to her fast life. The girl seems to have hardened rapidly in her fast life.

Correct Abstracts of Title and Real Estate Loans at McMahon & Co's, No. 4 Pearl street.

Where the Crowd Goes.
"Please take our ad out of the paper," said the gentleman in charge of the bankrupt sale at Ben's old stand to a BEE man yesterday, "we have had such an immense crowd all day we can't wait on more than half our customers. After advertising we expected to do a large business, especially on account of the low price we put the goods out at, but I have ordered all our advertising discontinued to-morrow, at any rate, and see if we can do justice to our customers. Come around Tuesday and perhaps I'll have an ad for Wednesday's BEE." So the BEE man departed, leaving a regular jam of customers purchasing at the bankrupt sale.

Personal Paragraphs.
E. E. Hart has returned from his trip to Kansas.

H. W. Young, of Sioux City, was here yesterday.

Robert Fitchet, of Chicago, spent yesterday in the city with friends.

C. Haldene, of the firm of Wright, Baldwin & Haldene, has returned from his eastern trip.

W. S. Draper, of the Western Manufacturing company, of Lincoln, Neb., was in the city yesterday.

From invitations received by friends in this city it appears that Frank Brewster is to be married February 2, at Osceola, Neb., to Miss Belle Pulver. The lucky young man is well known here, having resided here for some time.

POINTERS ABOUT THE POOR.

Some of the Troubles of Fairly Distributing Supplies.

TAKE THE THAW IN GOOD TIME.

Merry Social Doings at Avoca—The Gerstenberg Nest Still Troublesome—Personal and Paragraphs About the Bluffs.

More Blessed to Give Than Distribute.

The labor of raising money and supplies for the relief of the poor of the city seems to have been far easier than that of properly distributing what has been thus gained. The ladies who gathered at the headquarters of the committee, on Pearl street, had all they could do yesterday, as on Saturday. At an early hour in the morning there was gathered a crowd of men, women and children waiting for the doors to open, and throughout the day the applicants continued to come. Many of these did not appear to be suffering.

Some of the men were hale, hearty looking fellows who seemed able to work, and to whom some chance to do manual labor would apparently be the truest charity. Some of the females were nicely dressed, feathers, white aprons, frizzes, earrings, and other indications of partial prosperity appearing in the crowd. Still there were many who not only appeared to be in want, but who doubtless were so. Some of the cases would call for sympathy from a saint.

The great trouble was to discriminate and place the relief where it would do the most good. The ladies very wisely adopted a rule for their guidance. In no case was any sympathy shown unless the case had been learned by actual investigation, or where case was vouched for as worthy by some member of the ward committee. Great care is thus being taken to prevent waste and fraud. In many cases the committee simply take the address and then look the matter up in detail.

Some annoyance has been caused by the exaggerated reports as to the amount of provisions, clothing, etc., to be distributed. The supply of these articles was nowhere nearly as large as most suppose. Some of the clothing contributed was absolutely worthless and had to be thrown away, as it was unfit for use. The supplies that could be used to advantage were quickly disposed of to those known to be in need. Some complaints can be justly made about persons contributing worthless stuff, but such complaints are few. There was a lot of tea, for instance, which the committee did not dare to give out, it seeming to be ground hay mixed with copra, or some such mixture. A little tin cup used to dish it out was quickly covered with verdicts, and the committee became alarmed lest the tea would poison those who used it.

On the other hand there was cause for complaint about those who desired help. In some cases those who sought relief were very particular what they took. Some would not take a new, serviceable shoe because it tied with a string instead of being furnished with buttons and a button. There were in the gathering of supplies five barrels of broken crackers. These crackers, right from the factory, are as nice as any that can be bought for money. It is well known that some of the best families in the city are housed at the factory broken crackers for their own table use, these crackers being nice and fresh, and for many purposes just as good as the whole ones, while they sell for little less. Many of those who claimed to be really suffering for food turned up their noses at these broken crackers. This was enough to make one feel that they had better go and don't food a while longer. Such foolish notions robbed many of the cases of the sympathy which they would otherwise have gained.

As was to be expected, many of those who were first to apply for help merited it the least. One man with a family of looking females, drove up to the rooms in a wagon drawn by two horses. He admitted that he owned the horses and wagon, but said he had been troubled with rheumatism, and in the extreme cold had not been able to work. His claim will be looked into. One nicely dressed young lady, apparently healthy, asked for help without a blush. She claimed she was sent by one of the committee, but was directed to go back and get a written order first. She departed and did not appear again.

Many of the cases prove to be chronic ones. They are needy, and probably always will be dependent on others. These seem the saddest, for they are the most hopeless, and it seems impossible to help them. They will become self-supporting. Another class of cases quite plentiful is where the wife and mother, with a large family of little ones, are really suffering, and yet a hale, hearty husband and father is able to do about nothing for their support, and drinking up whatever the others of the family can get. It is difficult to handle these cases. The man ought to be made to work, or allowed to starve, but the family cannot be allowed to suffer on his account, and if they are helped the man goes on eating and drinking and sleeping, lazily depending day after day without an effort to help his condition. Dr. Lawrence, who has had a good deal of experience in this sort of work, says that he has tried different ways to reach these cases, but has almost given up trying. He has sometimes placed the provisions in some neighboring house, directing the family there to deal out a little at a time to the needy family, taking good care to do so when the good for nothing man was away from the house. Still this did not work, for the man would find out, and would so abuse his family that they would resort to all schemes to get food for him, or things to sell for whisky rather than suffer his abuse.

One of the class of worthy cases is that of a woman living on lower Broadway. She has a family of five children, the oldest only five years old, the youngest a babe. She is not strong, and cannot leave her little family to work out. She does what she can to earn money by knitting, doing patch sewing and such work. Her husband was a mechanic, doing well at his trade, being an excellent carpenter and stair builder. While at work on the Masonic temple here, earning $2.75 a day, he suddenly disappeared, leaving his wife and children, going no one here knows where. She has not heard from him since. Some think he has got to drinking, and some say that the man became crazy and wandered off. However this may be the wife and little ones were left with no means of support. They were occupying rooms in a little house owned by a woman who could ill afford to give them help, but this woman has generously given them the use of the rooms free ever since. She has also helped the family in other ways. A little girl, the daughter of the woman, with all this the struggle against the wolf has been a hard one. Her relatives are all in the old country, and not able to help her. Thus she finds herself in a land of strangers, deprived of husband, and with the burden of supporting herself and three helpless ones. The woman was nearly heart-broken over the disappearance of her husband, but she has rallied with a brave heart, and is keeping her little flock together and struggling on.

Such is but one of the many worthy cases which the committee are finding out, and to whom relief will be given. Those who have contributed of their means to furnish relief to the suffering should realize that the real work falls on those who have to distribute, and the committee, instead of being a target for fault-finding, should receive the sympathy and the cordial support of all. They are using wisdom and care in distributing, and are entitled to the confidence and help of all in this work, as in the giving.

If you buy footwear without first getting prices at the Boston boot and shoe store you will lose money.

Father Lenahan's Farewell.
Rev. Father Lenahan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Sioux City, has announced his intention of leaving his charge and entering a Jesuit college in St. Louis. The reverend father is well known in Council Bluffs, and has frequently occupied the pulpit in Father McMenomy's church. His friends here are numbered by the score, and his departure from the scenes and friendships of many years labors will be sincerely regretted by all.

The Sioux City Journal of Sunday gives the following account of a farewell call on Father Lenahan:
An adjourned meeting of the friends of Father Lenahan met at Justice Foley's office last evening. The object of the meeting was to take final action expressive of their pastor, who is about to leave Sioux City.

The finance committee reported receipts amounting to $233.30. The committee on resolutions, through its chairman, Mr. James P. Wall, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:
Whereas, Rev. B. C. Lenahan, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church, who for many years has labored among us in the service of God, is about to leave Sioux City for another field of duty; and

Witness, by his progressive, intelligence and broad and liberal charity, he has endeared himself to all the people of Sioux City of every creed; therefore be it
Resolved, That we part from him with deep regret, and with sincere words can but poorly express; that our prayers and best wishes shall be with him for his temporal and eternal happiness; that recognizing the usefulness of his life, a life devoted to spiritual labors and not to the accumulation of the world's goods, and solicitation of his temporal comfort, we tender him this token of our affection, urging its acceptance in the same spirit in which we offer it.

The finance and resolutions committees, numbering fifteen gentlemen, then proceeded to Father Lenahan's residence, where the presentation was made on behalf of the meeting, of the father's friends, and the people of Sioux City generally, by John Brennan, who was appointed for that purpose. Responsive to some brief remarks by Mr. Brennan, Father Lenahan replied in language and manner so feeling as to bring tears to the eyes of the visitors. He said that he expected the kindly impression that had been made by his friends, but the financial part of it was unexpected. He should soon retire from the rectory of St. Mary's, and he would be glad to see the eyes of the visitors. He said that he expected the kindly impression that had been made by his friends, but the financial part of it was unexpected. He should soon retire from the rectory of St. Mary's, and he would be glad to see the eyes of the visitors.

The Old Nest.
A short time ago Freddie Gerstenberg was sent to jail for ten days for assaulting his wife. His conviction was due largely to the testimony of his old bar tender, Jim Harvey. In revenge Gerstenberg sneaked on Harvey, and claimed that Harvey, with one Jim Brady, stole a dead deer from Louie & Metzger's meat house, in the rear of their restaurant. Inquiry led to the information that a short time ago that firm lost a deer, which seemed to corroborate Gerstenberg's story. The two men were arrested, but they deny the charge, and say Gerstenberg is the one who stole the deer. Harvey was taken to his place and there out of Harvey has been arrested before on different charges, most of them of a trivial nature. Brady has also been under arrest for petty offenses, but has thus far escaped punishment. It seems that the Gerstenbergs have been having a nest which ought to have been broken up long ago. They have been piling up costs in the courts on account of their family difficulties until it has reached a point where the nonsense should stop, and summary measures should be taken to either make them stop or else keep beyond the city limits.

All About Avoca.
Avoca, Iowa, Jan. 25.—Weather topic exhausted. Once in a while we hear of a train that has succeeded in shoveling its way through.
The coal and ice men are the only happy ones, the demand for coal keeping the former busy, while our ice houses are being filled with some very nice ice by the latter. The alarm felt among our ice consumers in the early part of the winter that there would be none fit to put up has long since vanished, and they are almost persuaded to think from present indications that there will be plenty of ice six months hence.

Sleighing would be fine but for the drifts, making the roads almost impassable in places.
F. G. Hetzel, our popular hardware man, nevertheless sails around town in a new cutter.

The many different designs of sleds, cutters or anything one has a mind to call them, that were visible on our streets yesterday was really amusing, from the stylish turn of our lively man, George Dudley, down to the dry goods box with runners, home made.

Mrs. C. N. Voss and Mrs. F. G. Hetzel entertained the M. L. P. club Monday evening, thirty-six being present. The gift prize was won by Dr. F. C. Hetzel, and Mrs. E. C. Harlow, while Hon. D. Hunt and Mrs. M. Gardner carried off the small untwined.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Hoopes, Mr. and Mrs. Lotta Hancock, Hattie Bailey and Emma Harlow complete the list of Avocates who took in the masquerade ball at Walnut Thursday evening (and owing to the gentle zephyr that so long ago was beautiful snow as to stop the trains) were compelled to stay until Friday evening. Of course it could terminate in nothing else but the very best time I ever had in my life. We all know it so pleasant waiting for trains.

The Social Hour club gave a party Friday evening, which was pronounced the party of the season. The number present, was enough to make it pleasant for all taking part, therefore there have been too many.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Coffman left Thursday morning for Waukau, Kan., where Mr. C. has a brother. They expect to remain two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hardman, Gus Seiffert and George Harris, of Hancock, and W. H. Wigley, of Walnut, were Avoca visitors Wednesday evening, having come to meet with Lotta Hancock and her friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Harlow. The evening passed with the usual amusement, progressive euchre. Mrs. N. Hodgson and Dr. Xautent were the lucky ones, with Mrs. E. D. Hoopes and J. C. Hetzel, the happy possessors of "the twins."

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hancock and daughter Lotta, who have been visiting here for the past two or three weeks, returned to Davenport Sunday.

Mrs. F. Benjamin and Mrs. E. W. Barber entertain the euchre club next Wednesday evening at the residence of the former. They will have eleven tables. The Young People's Euchre club will be entertained by Dr. A. T. Huxley at the residence of Hon. J. K. Powers Tuesday evening.

It is indeed a pleasure to note the success of W. R. Campbell, who has been working in the BEE's interest here and surrounding towns. It does not reach us quite as early as the Des Moines Register, but what is a few hours to wait, when by waiting one receives three times the amount of general news. The Harlan, Carson, Oakland and Hancock people find it just the paper they want, and it reaches them as early as the daily BEE. To all non-subscribers would say: Try the daily BEE, say for six months, and the result will be your name will remain on the subscription list as long as you wish a daily paper of any kind. S. Y. Z.

Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Bushnell will entertain the Married Ladies' Progressives Euchre club Wednesday evening at Mrs. Meyers' residence. The sleigh will start from the residence of J. N. Baldwin on Sixth street at 7 o'clock sharp, where members are requested to meet.

No Time for Delays.
The city council did not get a quorum yesterday afternoon and adjournment was taken until the regular monthly meeting next Monday night. The delay is a serious one to some of the business pending before the council. There is the ordinance in regard to the clearing of snow from streets. That has not been passed beyond a second reading. The indications of a thaw shown yesterday, made more apparent the necessity of having everything arranged so as to prevent flooding of streets. There is a large quantity of snow, more than has been on the streets of Council Bluffs for years. When this goes, if allowed to remain as now piled up, it may cause serious trouble, especially if the thaw is a rapid one. There was considerable work done yesterday by private parties. Some of the gutters were cleaned out, where the snow was piled high. If allowed to remain a thaw would cause many a basement to be flooded, if this were not done. Many will neglect this until required to do so by law.

Another serious matter pending before the council is the proposed extension of the new sewer ditch, so as to have an outlet south of the city. At present the ditch has no fall and no outlet, and there seems to be no preventative of the present ditch filling up and overflowing, in case of rains and thaws. About $24,000 has been spent in making the ditch thus far. It is estimated that it will cost $4,000 more to extend it to an outlet. Already the ditch has filled up, owing to the lack of an outlet, and about $4,000 has been spent in re-digging the ditch. The old council wanted to extend the ditch south of the limits and secure the needed outlet, but did not feel that the city could afford to do so then. As a result of this economical delay the city has had to pay extra almost as much as it would have cost to have made the extension last year. Still there remains the work to be done. If not done there is a probability not only of damage by floods, but also of the ditch filling up again, necessitating another expenditure of several thousand dollars, perhaps. In view of such possibilities it seems that the council should act promptly, and decide either to extend the ditch or to take some other course, as may seem best under all the circumstances.

Another important feature of the matter is that Mitchell Vincent, who has had the contract for the work this far, claims the contract for the extension of the ditch. The city attorney has given his opinion that such is the case, but the council look at the matter differently, and have been advertising for bids. Mr. Vincent has a large force here, and is anxious to go to work as soon as possible. The intimation is made that the city may be involved in a suit for damages, if great care is not taken in acting on the matter. Vincent claims that he has rendered the situation too much of a crisis to warrant the aldermen in absenting themselves from meetings of the council.

The Hardman Hard to Beat.
