WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—[Special Telegram.]—A cavalry officer of the army says in today's Washington Herald: "I have been in Washington long enough since the meeting of the present congress to talk with several members of the military committees of the house and senate, and this is what I learn from them, and what has been confirmed by other members of congress not on the military committees. The present congress appreciates the present needs of the army—that is, the necessity of legislation which shall give the different arms of the service on a basis with the other arms of the service."

It is the intention of the appropriations committee to report the bill on Wednesday, and to take further action on Tuesday. This bill usually provokes little discussion, but the recent action of the senate has given it a prominence in the senate to-morrow immediately after the morning hour for the educational bill, and the chances are in its favor.

PRECEDENCE FOR HOME RULE

Unless Parnell's Pledged Measure Receives First Consideration, Trouble and Liberal Downfall are Certainties.

The English Political Situation.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—[Special Telegram.]—The new cabinet is popularly known as the Gladstone-Morley cabinet. Morley's was the first appointment publicly known. It was universally understood to signify that Gladstone had resolved to favor home rule. Gladstone's sole chance of a majority in the present house lies in securing Parnell's support. Morley is his first bid, and Parnell's approval. Morley's brilliant abilities, singularly rapid rise in public life, and extreme radicalism on the Irish question, explain Gladstone's departure from all precedent in making the most important of all the cabinet offices to a man wholly without official experience. Lord Aberdeen's viceroyalty brings another new man to the front whom his friends know to be able, devoted, and conscientious, and likely to win the good will of the Irish people.

Committee Clerks Who Are More Important Than the Chairman.

Kentucky Cleared It Out.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—For the past twenty years the chairmanship of the committee on expenditures in the war department has been held by a member from Kentucky. In years past this committee, which by the way, never has had any work to do since the investigation into the conduct of the affairs of the war department by Secretary Belknap, has been known as the barroom of the house. The Kentucky friends of the Kentucky chairman have seen to it that visitors to this blue grass committee room have plenty to drink, and he has announced that he would inaugurate a new regime and that the people who wanted a drink hereafter must accompany him to the bar of the house restaurant. The result has been that the sales of "red liquor" in the house restaurant have been something enormous.

DYSPEPSIA

Cases its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a goodly amount of medicine. Murphy of Lowell will champion the Hennepin bill as usual, while the new member from Erie county, Col. Weber, will rally his colleagues to the support of the Erie proposition. It has come to be regarded as a certainty that the national government will take some step towards the permanent improvement of the New York state canals, that the state will eventually abandon it, and as the water routes of the Erie canal are of little value without the Erie outlet, it seems that the proposition to extend federal aid to the canal should meet with consideration before new water routes further west be begun.
