The insurance men in this city and all the property owners on Main street be-tween Eleventh and Sixteenth avenues have signed a petition to the council to place No. 4 hose in that vicinity, the insurance on property in the neighborhood being far greater than any other part of the city in the same territory.

The sound of his stentorian voice, and the gathering of the crowd on the corner, gave rise to a report that the salvation or why had struck the town the corner here. army had struck the town, the army hav-ing been expected by some. Peter C. Miller has been making some marked improvements in his wall paper and painting establishment, No. 13 Pearl street. A new front has been put in and over it appears one of the most attractive signs in the city. The letters are so large and so clean cut that anyone passing anywhere in that vicinity cannot but notice that there is a "wall paper" house on Pearl street. Mr. Miller is preparing in all ways to have his full share of the business this spring, and he will doubt-less succeed as he has in the past. One of the evening papers killed a Macadonia man Saturday night. At least it gave notice of the death of J. J. Bolin of Macadonia, and had a meeting called of the Odd Fellows to prepare for the funeral. Alderman Shugart had the gratification Saturday afternoon of shakgratification Saturday afternoon of shak-ing hands with the alleged deceased, and Mr. Bolin himself turned up here in the evening ready to prove that he was a long ways from being dead. Mr. Bolin denies emphatically that he ever died, and his word is certainly not to be doubted about a httle thing like that. How the report started is a mystery. A young lady who is completed in any A young lady who is employed in one of the most prominent offices in the city, received a check from her employers received a check from her employers Saturday, after banking hours, and de-siring to get it cashed made that request at one of the Broadway retail houses, where she was in the habit of trading. The young man to whom she presented the check doubtless had been so thor-oughly alarmed at confidence games, that he lost all idea of courtesy, and he replied to the lady's request by saying, "A fellow would be a fool to cash that check, and nobody but a fool would ask to have it cashed." The insult given the lady will not only cause her to buy her goods elsewhere in the future, but the young hady 's brother has blood in his eye. It seems that while it is necessary to be It seems that while it is necessary to be cautious about cashing checks, there is no need of a man to so far forget himself as to thus needlessly insult a lady.

Her Parthenia surprised and delighted every-body. So pure gentle and maidenly this record made against him without having a chance to face and examine the witnesses whose statements led the com-mittee to this conclusion. He is also charged with conduct unbecoming an of-ficer, for having told his men to stay on their beats, and threatening them with body. So pure, gentle and maidenly, with the childrike traits of the character so naturally and sweetly brought out, and the whole figure so full of dignity and re-finement, and yet free from consciousness and beaming with innocence, it was a creation that challenges comparison with the best Parthenias we have seen on our stage. Even the friends of Miss Olcott were surprised at the change from the evening before. It was hardly the same ligure. Erect, graceful, this Greek maiden trod the stage as proudly and gently as a Hellenie miss might have done in the days of Pericles. The audience was large and grew enthusiastic. Mis Olcott was called before the curtain after every act, and was applauded again and again as she went through scenes that stirred the audience. If she makes another such a stride from last night to to-night as she did from Pauline to Parthenia she is famous The Firemen Want a Hearing. The members of No. 4 hose company have requested the council to give them an investigation. There have been intimations that their convivial habits and their own carelessness were the causes of the fire on Main street, in which four of their number were badly burned. The boys feel that some action should be taken to set them right before the public, and are very anxious for some sort of a hearing. The council does not seem inclined to have any investigation because there does not appear any evidence to warrant going to this trouble. If the firemen cannot get an investigation they are desirous of having the fire committee or the council as a whole inquire into all the the council as a whole inquire into all the facts which they can get at in an informal way, and then if they find no ground for an investigation to pass a resolution to that effect, or to take some other action which they can present to the public as a vindication. WANTED-Saloonkeepers, please go to Council Bluffs, lowa, 27d1m* The above advertisement is appearing daily in one of the Des Moines papers.

It may be that the mayor of Council Bluffs, in one of his enthusiastic visits to the gathering of liberty lovers, has had the advertisement inserted. He attempts to justify this in part, at least, by claiming that it was not safe to hae all the night police pulled off them beats at once, leaving the city unpro-tected. He wants to have a hearing on tected. He wants to have a hearing on this, as well as the charge that he used filthy language in regard to the council. The probability is that there will be steps taken for giving these men another hearing, if they continue to desire it. The charges which the report of the commit-tee virtually find to be correct are serious ones. If those concerned desire to have the matter aired up more fully they should be granted the request. If the request is for the mere purpose of smooth-ing the matter over until after election and then letting it die out, then such a scheme should be killed by having a prompt, full, public showing of all the facts, hit whom they will, and no matter how hard.

The Sewer Ditch War.

The tangle about the new sewer ditch is now to get into the courts. Mitchell Vincent, who had the contract for the work already done, has claimed that his contract covered the proposed extension of the ditch, which has been known as section 23. He has made different propositions to the council, so as to be allowed to go on with the work, and the city attorney has given the opinion that he had the contract as he claimed. The council, however, decided to advertise for bids for doing the work of extension, and after receiving some, rejected all and decided to make a temporary extension, which would serve as an outlet for the ditch this spring, and to do this under the supervision of the city officials, and with a force paid by the city instead of by any contractor.
