

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

Attorney General Leese Files His Brief in the Mandamus Proceedings.

IMPORTANT POINTS ADVANCED.

Grand Island and Norfolk Making a Fight to Secure the Grand Army Reunion—List of Delegates from Lincoln Posts.

Attorney General Leese yesterday filed his brief in behalf of the respondents in the mandamus proceedings brought by the city of Lincoln to compel Auditor Babcock and Secretary Roggen to register and certify $25,000 in refunding bonds lately issued. The officials named refused to certify to these bonds, and also $50,000 issued in aid of the Missouri Pacific, on the ground that the bonded indebtedness of the city is already nearly $200,000 in excess of the 10 per cent limit.

The delegates representing the G. A. R. posts in this city will start to-day for Red Cloud to attend the annual encampment of the order at Farrington Park, No. 55, sends John C. Bonnell, C. H. Gould, H. Hoagland, H. Masterman, W. Harris, O. C. Bell and D. T. Cook. Appomattox Post, No. 214, sends S. J. Alexander, B. P. Cook, B. H. Gaudin, only Babcock, C. H. Gere, George B. Lane and E. S. Dudley. The most important work of the meeting will be the location of the reunion for next summer. A dozen towns will send in bids and make a fight for the prize, but the real struggle in the end will be between Grand Island and Norfolk. The railroads are interested in having the reunion held at the first named town, as they will then be a more profitable haul, and it will not be surprising if their influence is seen and felt in the encampment. The Lincoln delegates, with a few exceptions, are supposed to be in favor of pitching the tents at Norfolk. They argue that Grand Island has had the reunion lately and should be willing to stand aside in favor of a town which is fast becoming a metropolis of the northeastern part of the state, a rich section that cannot be ignored. Besides, Norfolk is easy of access from Lincoln, the route via Omaha being only 20 miles and by the proposed Northwestern, which will be built before the reunion is held, considerably less. This is how the Lincoln delegation talked yesterday. How they will vote is another matter. The encampment is "one of those things which no fellow can find out."

Mr. Trester, the parties whose land has been condemned by the Missouri Pacific for right of way, has appealed from the appraisement of $2,500 entered in the county court by the company. Mr. Trester reported as a town, and demanded $10,000 from the railway if it crossed his land, or $5,000 if a route over that of his neighbor was decided upon.

Austin Riley and William Mengher were arrested by the Law and Order League yesterday for violating the excise law. Mr. Higby, of the Windsor, received a fine and a very severe reprimand Sunday morning. As he was the only hotel man in Lincoln this honored, he felt very proud, and acknowledged the congratulations of his friends in a haughty, imperious manner. George Fletcher was held in $200 bail by Judge Parker yesterday for embezzling $240.30 from Charles Slattery, a blacksmith, who has reported as a town, and some bills for collection. The case will be heard Wednesday morning. An appeal has been taken by defendant in the case of Adolph R. Tabbot vs. W. H. H. and Lewis E. Smith, in the county court last fall, when Tabbot got a verdict of $75 for commissions on the sale of real estate.

The fourteenth anniversary of Charter Day was observed at the university to-night by a large meeting of students and citizens, at which speeches were made by ex-Mayor Chase, Dr. Merriam and Rev. Mr. Sherrill. Also, in the evening, at Lincoln, and Will O. Jones, George B. Frankforter, and Miss Nora Gage, representing the students.

STATE ARRIVALS. Dr. J. H. Gray, David City; Tom H. Noble, Omaha; Champion S. Chase, Omaha; H. T. Clarke, Omaha; Dwight Hall, Miss Sadie Booth, Omaha; T. F. Burke and A. D. Cronin, Lincoln; J. W. Small, Fairbury; Henry C. Smith, Conrad; J. W. Holmes, Omaha; J. A. Cooper, Milford; Ed. McIntyre, Seward.

Postoffice Changes. In Nebraska and Iowa during the week ending February 13, 1886, furnished by Wm. Van Vleet, of the postoffice department:

NEBRASKA. Established—Carlyle, Dawes Co.; Fredrick W. Millek, postmaster; Gray-Wayne Co.; Emma E. Gray, postmistress; Perch, Brown Co.; Robert W. Cameron, postmaster; Sartoria, Buffalo Co.; Adolph Goering, postmaster; Slader, Buffalo Co.; Wm. W. Wallers, postmaster. Postmasters Appointed—Cherry Creek, Buffalo Co.; Ernest A. Farr, Cuba, Brown Co.; A. M. Brinkerhoff, Cumminsville, Wheeler Co.; Jas. L. Dillenderfer, Dakota, Dakota Co.; Healy, Herwig, both Colfax; Dawson Co.; James R. Hotcomb; Waverly, Lancaster Co.; George E. Bragg, Willow Springs, Garland Co.; David W. Pctter.

IOWA. Established—Gillespie, Benton county; Robert J. Gillespie, postmaster; Green Center, Iowa county; Robert F. McArthur, postmaster; Paralta, Linn county; Michigan, Plummer, postmaster; Payne, Fremont county; Nettie V. Jones, postmistress. Name Changed—Viroqua, Jones county, to Morley. Discontinued—Beetrace, Appanoose county; Lee, Union county.

Postmasters Appointed—Brazil, Appanoose county; John G. Bell, Buffalo Park, Cass county; L. C. Smith, Conrad Grove, Grundy county; D. Steelsmith, Grant City, Sac county; T. H. Huskner; Lewis, Cass county; V. M. Conrad; Living Spring, Polk county; W. A. Wilber, Hamilton, Harrison county; James D. Stuart; Morrison, Grundy county; Charles E. Beacham, Platt, Cedar county; F. A. Baldwin, Pleasant Grove, Des Moines county; Robertson Gannaway; Rock Falls, Cerro Gordo county; Levi Helm; St. Paul, Lee county; Otto Fritz, Anker, Atkinson, Benton county; Charles G. Turner.

POINTS FROM STATE PEOPLE

A Correspondent Describes the Prosperous Future of Sheridan County.

A SOLID FRIEND OF VAN WYCK.

Backed by a Man After His Own Heart Who Hails From the Corn-Belt of Nebraska—A Good Nebraska Citizen Dead.

How Sheridan County Booms. RUSHVILLE, Sheridan County, Neb., Feb. 13.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—Knowing that the people of the state would like to hear from this part of Nebraska I take this opportunity of describing our county. Sheridan county is located in the northwestern part of the state. It is bounded on the north by Dakota territory, on the west by Daves, on the south by Cheyenne, and on the east by Cherry county. This is one of the most beautiful spots on the globe. Lying at the base of the Rocky mountains, the summers are long enough to mature corn, and as for wheat, oats and vegetables, we defy competition.

The winter thus far has been open, there not being to exceed one week of cold weather, and no snow worth mentioning. Stock has lived well and fattened all winter without being fed grain or hay.

Sheridan county is thirty-six miles from east to west and sixty-nine miles from north to south, and contains 2,484 square miles, or 1,589,700 acres. This is interspersed by rivers and creeks, whose banks are fringed with trees sufficient for fuel and building purposes. The whole northern portion of the county is a solid forest of pine timber, growing upon what is known as Pine Ridge. Stone sufficient for building purposes is found in many localities. The water is soft, and is usually found at a depth of from twenty to sixty feet. The soil is of a black sandy loam, deep, easily tilled and conducive of very rapid growth.

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad reached this section in June last. September 8, 1885, the county was permanently organized, since which time there has been a steady gathering of the sons of toil to procure for themselves and families a strip of Uncle Sam's domain.

No better proof of the rapid development of the country can be produced than the auditor's report, which shows that during the past year 20,000 acres were devoted by the United States to private citizens, and the same ratio is kept up still. School districts have been organized and churches are spontaneously appearing. The people are thrifty, energetic and intelligent, and the land that but two years ago was occupied by the coyote and the cowboy, and was considered a desert, now blooms and blossoms as the rose.

Rushville, the county seat, is beautifully located near the center of the county, in the famous Rush valley. It is a flourishing town, represented by every kind of business and by men who are alive to the interests of the town and county. Buildings have been going up all winter, and at present a flouring mill with a capacity of fifty barrels a day is in course of construction.

Pine Ridge Agency is twenty-four miles north of Rushville, and a tri-weekly mail is carried between the two places. It is now understood that the Indian supply depot will be established here in the spring, thereby saving "Poor Lov" not less than twenty miles freightage. Government lands are disappearing, and ere the summer is gone they will be known only as one of the "has been's."

One great backset to the rapid development of the county is the exorbitant railroad tariff. About the first of November the railroad companies, and accompanied by the railroad officials, visited this section. The company had looked well after the wants of the commissioners, having furnished an "extra," a palace dining car, and all the modern essentials which go to make the heart of a railroad commissioner rejoice. This group made a lasting impression on our people for the following reason: When they reached Gordon they were engaged in a game of draw-poker. Quite a number of citizens had assembled at the depot for the purpose of seeing the $2,000 statement, but the commissioners adhered strictly to the national game and sat it out, paid their assessments, and just a few minutes before leaving the place, came out and for about four or five minutes were up and down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

POINTS FROM STATE PEOPLE

A Correspondent Describes the Prosperous Future of Sheridan County.

A SOLID FRIEND OF VAN WYCK.

Backed by a Man After His Own Heart Who Hails From the Corn-Belt of Nebraska—A Good Nebraska Citizen Dead.

How Sheridan County Booms. RUSHVILLE, Sheridan County, Neb., Feb. 13.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—Knowing that the people of the state would like to hear from this part of Nebraska I take this opportunity of describing our county. Sheridan county is located in the northwestern part of the state. It is bounded on the north by Dakota territory, on the west by Daves, on the south by Cheyenne, and on the east by Cherry county. This is one of the most beautiful spots on the globe. Lying at the base of the Rocky mountains, the summers are long enough to mature corn, and as for wheat, oats and vegetables, we defy competition.

The winter thus far has been open, there not being to exceed one week of cold weather, and no snow worth mentioning. Stock has lived well and fattened all winter without being fed grain or hay.

Sheridan county is thirty-six miles from east to west and sixty-nine miles from north to south, and contains 2,484 square miles, or 1,589,700 acres. This is interspersed by rivers and creeks, whose banks are fringed with trees sufficient for fuel and building purposes. The whole northern portion of the county is a solid forest of pine timber, growing upon what is known as Pine Ridge. Stone sufficient for building purposes is found in many localities. The water is soft, and is usually found at a depth of from twenty to sixty feet. The soil is of a black sandy loam, deep, easily tilled and conducive of very rapid growth.

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad reached this section in June last. September 8, 1885, the county was permanently organized, since which time there has been a steady gathering of the sons of toil to procure for themselves and families a strip of Uncle Sam's domain.

No better proof of the rapid development of the country can be produced than the auditor's report, which shows that during the past year 20,000 acres were devoted by the United States to private citizens, and the same ratio is kept up still. School districts have been organized and churches are spontaneously appearing. The people are thrifty, energetic and intelligent, and the land that but two years ago was occupied by the coyote and the cowboy, and was considered a desert, now blooms and blossoms as the rose.

Rushville, the county seat, is beautifully located near the center of the county, in the famous Rush valley. It is a flourishing town, represented by every kind of business and by men who are alive to the interests of the town and county. Buildings have been going up all winter, and at present a flouring mill with a capacity of fifty barrels a day is in course of construction.

Pine Ridge Agency is twenty-four miles north of Rushville, and a tri-weekly mail is carried between the two places. It is now understood that the Indian supply depot will be established here in the spring, thereby saving "Poor Lov" not less than twenty miles freightage. Government lands are disappearing, and ere the summer is gone they will be known only as one of the "has been's."

One great backset to the rapid development of the county is the exorbitant railroad tariff. About the first of November the railroad companies, and accompanied by the railroad officials, visited this section. The company had looked well after the wants of the commissioners, having furnished an "extra," a palace dining car, and all the modern essentials which go to make the heart of a railroad commissioner rejoice. This group made a lasting impression on our people for the following reason: When they reached Gordon they were engaged in a game of draw-poker. Quite a number of citizens had assembled at the depot for the purpose of seeing the $2,000 statement, but the commissioners adhered strictly to the national game and sat it out, paid their assessments, and just a few minutes before leaving the place, came out and for about four or five minutes were up and down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

POINTS FROM STATE PEOPLE

A Correspondent Describes the Prosperous Future of Sheridan County.

A SOLID FRIEND OF VAN WYCK.

Backed by a Man After His Own Heart Who Hails From the Corn-Belt of Nebraska—A Good Nebraska Citizen Dead.

How Sheridan County Booms. RUSHVILLE, Sheridan County, Neb., Feb. 13.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—Knowing that the people of the state would like to hear from this part of Nebraska I take this opportunity of describing our county. Sheridan county is located in the northwestern part of the state. It is bounded on the north by Dakota territory, on the west by Daves, on the south by Cheyenne, and on the east by Cherry county. This is one of the most beautiful spots on the globe. Lying at the base of the Rocky mountains, the summers are long enough to mature corn, and as for wheat, oats and vegetables, we defy competition.

The winter thus far has been open, there not being to exceed one week of cold weather, and no snow worth mentioning. Stock has lived well and fattened all winter without being fed grain or hay.

Sheridan county is thirty-six miles from east to west and sixty-nine miles from north to south, and contains 2,484 square miles, or 1,589,700 acres. This is interspersed by rivers and creeks, whose banks are fringed with trees sufficient for fuel and building purposes. The whole northern portion of the county is a solid forest of pine timber, growing upon what is known as Pine Ridge. Stone sufficient for building purposes is found in many localities. The water is soft, and is usually found at a depth of from twenty to sixty feet. The soil is of a black sandy loam, deep, easily tilled and conducive of very rapid growth.

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad reached this section in June last. September 8, 1885, the county was permanently organized, since which time there has been a steady gathering of the sons of toil to procure for themselves and families a strip of Uncle Sam's domain.

No better proof of the rapid development of the country can be produced than the auditor's report, which shows that during the past year 20,000 acres were devoted by the United States to private citizens, and the same ratio is kept up still. School districts have been organized and churches are spontaneously appearing. The people are thrifty, energetic and intelligent, and the land that but two years ago was occupied by the coyote and the cowboy, and was considered a desert, now blooms and blossoms as the rose.

Rushville, the county seat, is beautifully located near the center of the county, in the famous Rush valley. It is a flourishing town, represented by every kind of business and by men who are alive to the interests of the town and county. Buildings have been going up all winter, and at present a flouring mill with a capacity of fifty barrels a day is in course of construction.

Pine Ridge Agency is twenty-four miles north of Rushville, and a tri-weekly mail is carried between the two places. It is now understood that the Indian supply depot will be established here in the spring, thereby saving "Poor Lov" not less than twenty miles freightage. Government lands are disappearing, and ere the summer is gone they will be known only as one of the "has been's."

One great backset to the rapid development of the county is the exorbitant railroad tariff. About the first of November the railroad companies, and accompanied by the railroad officials, visited this section. The company had looked well after the wants of the commissioners, having furnished an "extra," a palace dining car, and all the modern essentials which go to make the heart of a railroad commissioner rejoice. This group made a lasting impression on our people for the following reason: When they reached Gordon they were engaged in a game of draw-poker. Quite a number of citizens had assembled at the depot for the purpose of seeing the $2,000 statement, but the commissioners adhered strictly to the national game and sat it out, paid their assessments, and just a few minutes before leaving the place, came out and for about four or five minutes were up and down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Obituary. YORK, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Correspondence of the BEE.]—George Murray Harrison was born in Clark county, Ohio, November 14, 1853. He emigrated with his parents to Iowa in 1856, was married to Miss Etta Jackson August 31, 1876, came to Nebraska in 1879 and settled in Sarpy county. Some months ago he was taken with that fell destroyer, consumption. All that medical skill could do was done for his recovery, but the disease baffled the physicians. In hopes that a change of climate might do what medicine had failed to do, he went in December last with his wife and youngest child to California. It was soon discovered, however, that the disease had gotten such a hold on him that climate, as well as medicines, had lost its power to heal. But there, in the land of flowers and sunshine, he went down the platform, and then handed away to other fields of conquest. It is the general opinion here that a set of railroad cappers are not the proper persons to look after the interests of the people.

The paralytic howls of the subsidized newspapers against Van Wyck are hailed with exultation. It is the spur that makes the broncho kick in the coming campaign no anti-Van Wyck man need apply for a seat in our legislative halls.

JAMES E. CAVENAUGH, JR.

Orchard Hill

ORCHARD HILL.

ORCHARD HILL.

ORCHARD HILL.

Orchard Hill

ORCHARD HILL.

ORCHARD HILL.